

PRESS OPINIONS

Cinderella of Skookum Creek:

"The story is one of infinite charm and charged with great power in description. You do not read of the wonderful motor car run; you are in the car all the way. This quality gives the book a grip that is unmatched. There are no amazing episodes, and their absence is unfelt. Punchy Jones, Lazy Lake, Skookum, and Spokane are real. You know the people and the places. . . . The book is a remarkable one for style, force, and constraining power; a book to be read with delight and to be remembered with gratitude."—Glasgow Herald.

"It is a most winning piece of work. The people are delightful."—Liverpool Post.

"For style, and for conveying convincingly the authentic emotion of love—a thing attempted twenty times a day by novelists and very seldom with success—Mr. Niven's book may stand."—Observer.

"His books leave the impression, not of mere cleverness, which is often only another name for aptitude at parlour tricks, but of genuine power. . . . 'Cinderella' Mamie is a charming and convincing study. . . . The love story is very delicately told."—Saturday Review.
