The dance represents the old and new methods of harvesting, the former being taken by the ladies in the costume of the last century, the latter by the gentlemen, who represent Manitoba, and bring in a modern Massey-Harris machine, decorated with wheat, sunflowers and poppies. The machine is drawn in by four of the harvesters and followed by four girls, holding garlands, which are attached to the back of the machine. Manitoba (represented by Miss Mitchell) is seated thereon, surrounded by cornucopias filled with cereals.
