RAIN
SNOW
FIRE
STORMS
HOT SUN
LIGHTNING

THIS is a strong but a true statement. "Eastlake" Galvanized Shingles on the roof, "Empire" Corrugated Iron or "Metallic" Siding on walls, and the building will last for generations. And it will do more than just "last"—it will be always fireproof, stormproof, lightning-proof, neat in appearance, and dry inside. Thirty years of successful use all over Canada prove these statements.

"Eastlake" Shingles
have already stood over 30 years. They make your building safe from fire. Easily laid yet no storm can lift them, no sleet or rain can drive underneath. Fit snug and tight in the valleys. "Eastlake" heavily galvanized shingles are the original and best, their patented features can never be equalled. Get our prices.

"Metallic" goods are heavily galvanized. Our prices will interest you.

"Metallic" Siding
Is fire-proof, neat, easily laid, inexpensive and durable. It saves you insurance, protects the lives of your family—your stock—your goods—from the fire fiend. Our Rock, Brick and Clap-board patterns are sharply embossed and very popular. Write for prices and illustrations.

"Metallic" Ceilings
Are famous for beauty, sharp embossing, ease in laying and durability. They banish the wall-paper problem and free you from cracked plaster and peeling wall-paper. Quite in-

"Empire" Corrugated Iron
is always uniform in gauge and size, therefore it is easily and quickly laid by even inexperienced labor. Has deep, snug-fitting corrugations and makes a strong, rigid fireproof wall that needs no paint or repairs. All

"Metallic" building materials also include "Empire" Silo Roofs, low-priced but money-savers; "Halitus" Ventilators, very efficient and durable; "Acheson" barn roof-lights for light and ventilation; Conductor pipe, Eave-troughing and many other specialties in metal. Made in Canada under our 30 year old motto, "Quality First." Send for illustrated booklets, price lists and our helpful building suggestions.

White Scours.
We have lost a number of calves this winter from what is called white scours. The cows appear healthy and the calves seem all right until they are about a day old, then they lose their appetite and get so weak that in a few hours they are unable to get up and they never live more than three days, some only a few hours. We have tried both feeding by pail and by letting them suck the cow, but it evidently makes no difference.

Getting Rid of Skunks.
A neighbor has a nest of skunks under the floor of a dwelling. The house has no cellar under it. Poison, traps, etc., have been set, but only succeeded in getting two of them. Tearing up the floor has been thought of, but turned down for obvious reasons. As they are very annoying, can you let me know the best way to get rid of them?

Ans.—White scours is believed to be a contagious disease. The young animals become infected by the germ of the disease entering the system through the navel. A remedy that is recommended is described in an article in March 2 issue, on common ailments of calves.

Ans.—We doubt if there are any successful methods other than you have used for destroying the skunks. They usually take the offensive when disturbed. The probability is that they will vacate their present place of abode when spring opens up. Carbon bisulphide might be used, 1 pound to 100 cubic feet of space. This forms a gas which is heavier than air and might be lowered through the floor, but every precaution would have to be taken if it were used. It is a rank poison and very inflammable. All fires and lights would have to be extinguished, and people living in the house would be obliged to leave it for a short time.
