Simple Cures Easily Tried.

For colds there are a dozen and more pleasant cures in the garden. Beans, bruised and boiled with garlic, will cure the most obstinate cough, as well as supplying a nutritious supper. Red or black current jelly, with a wineglass of brandy and some hot water, nearly always nips a cold in the bud.

Other cures for coughs and colds are the juice of red cabbage, made into a syrup with plenty of sugar, and taken in teaspoon doses. Peel and squeeze a few turnips, add three ounces of sugar, horseradish at meals and at intervals all day for the persistent cough following influenza. Relief will be speedy and lasting.

Corns or warts you can cure by applying boiled potatoes, the juice of green figs, dandelion juice or elderberry juice.

Better still is a thin slice of pineapple bandaged over the corn and left for eight hours. The corn is then quite soft, and can be easily removed.

To brace the nerves, cut celery roots into small pieces, dry and grind them, and make the powder into celery tea. You can take it with cream and sugar, and it will cure Neuralgia if you suffer so. Rosemary tea quickly removes nervous depression, and a headache can be cured by thyme tea or lavender tea.

Earache is cured by a warmed cabbage leaf placed over the ear.

For sleeplessness hop tea or a hop pillow never fails.

For burns apply red currant jelly without delay.

For the brain, apples strengthen it by means of their phosphorus; asparagus brings forth one's genius; sage and balm improve the memory; cresses invigorate the intellect; prunes and hops soothe the nerves, and both celery and sloe gin remove brain fog.

The World's Greatest Ship.

While the marvels of the ships of the air are attracting the notice of the whole world, the wonders of the ships of the sea are also challenging universal attention and congratulation. The new White Star Liner "Olympic," which was launched late in October, is the largest vessel that was ever built. She is 882 ft. long, 92 feet broad and has a gross register of 45,000 tons. Her hull is divided into thirty water-tight compartments, contains nine steel decks, and will accommodate 5,600 people, including the crew. Each of the anchors of this ocean leviathan weighs fifteen and one-half tons. The links of the anchor chains are two feet in length and weigh 175 pounds. The vessel's speed is 21 knots, not so fast as some of the other ocean greyhounds. She will have on board 40 cooks, 350 stewards, 390 in the engineer department, 70 in the sailing department. For each of her trips to and from New York there will have to be provided 250 barrels of flour, twenty tons of potatoes, five tons of sugar, one and one-half tons of coffee, three-fourths of a ton of cheese, forty oxen, eighty sheep, sixty lambs, 130 pigs, 2,000 chickens, 350 ducks, 150 turkeys, ninety geese, 800 quail, forty-five boxes of fresh fish, twelve barrels of red herring, forty boxes of haddock, twenty kegs of oysters and many other articles that could be mentioned. The "Olympic" has a gross tonnage half as much again as that of the "Mauretania" as the "Lusitania," which have till now held the record for size in the world. The "Titanic," a sister ship will be launched early next year. The cost of the "Olympic" was $5,750,000.

Not That Kind.

The doctor's door bell rang late one night, and thinking the call one of emergency, he arose, and hurried down to the door. A young man stood there holding a huge package from which buds and leaves were protruding.

"Is Miss Smith in?" the messenger wanted to know. Miss Smith was his cook.

"I am sorry, sir, to call so late, something went wrong with the ear I was in. I'll leave this for her, sir, if you will be good enough to give it to her in the morning."

"Certainly," agreed the doctor. He took the bundle carefully, closed the door and carried the flowers into the kitchen. Placing the dishpan in the sink, he drew a few inches of water in it, pressed the base of the package in the water and went to bed thinking how pleased the cook would be next day.

The next morning he went into the kitchen early, to find the cook holding a dripping bundle. Her manner and tone was belligerent: If I had the pussen wot did this," said she, "I'd empty the kettle on em, I'd let 'em see if they could put my new hat in a dishpan, I would!"

The doctor beat a hasty retreat.

Needed It.

In the Yakima Valley, Washington, where the big apples are grown and bearing orchards sell for $1,000 an acre, rain is scarce. Irrigation is practised everywhere. But now and then during the growing season a light rain will fall for a few minutes. These rains are highly prized, for irrigating water is measured closely and served to each user in proportion to his acreage.

Last summer a fruit grower who owns 40 acres of orchard was rejoicing in one of these precipitations of moisture when one of his hired men entered the house.

"Why don't you stay out of the rain?" enquired the fruit grower.

"Oh, that's all right," replied the man. "A little dew like that doesn't bother me a bit. I can work right along just the same."

"That isn't the point!" exclaimed the rancher. "Next time it rains you come into the house, I want that water on the land!"

Removed Fourteen Iron Spoons Through a Hole In The Stomach.

A surgical operation by which 2½ lbs. of metal were taken from the patient, was performed last week at the Franz Joseph Hospital at Vienna by Professor Lothausen, upon a man of 40, named Tacha. He had been confined in a public lunatic asylum, where, about three months ago he secretly abstracted about fourteen iron spoons and swallowed them. This strange nourishment at first caused him no annoyance. The spoons were missed but nobody suspected their whereabouts. Although Tacha has sound lungs, he began spitting blood some days ago, and was cross-questioned until at last he confessed that he had swallowed the iron spoons. He was taken to the hospital, and an application of the Rontgen Rays soon showed the truth of his assertion. An operation was unavoidable, and the three surgeons who carried it through were completely successful. A small opening was made in the stomach, where the intestine was laid bare for the purpose, and one by one the large spoons were extracted. They weighed altogether 2½ pounds. The patient's condition is satisfactory, and he is about to be discharged from the hospital.

Falling Hair.

Mrs. Jas. Harris of Wappella, Sask., says—

"I have found Parisian Sage to be the best scalp and hair tonic and dressing, I have ever used. My hair has been coming out in combs full and was very dry and brittle and the scalp was always itching and full of dandruff. I have used two bottles of Parisian Sage and it has stopped my hair falling, the itching and dandruff have disappeared and my hair is fine and soft and glossy. I would not be without this fine Hair Tonic for many times the price."

For women, men, or children Parisian Sage is without any doubt the finest preparation for the hair. Daintily perfumed it is free from grease or stickiness and ought to be where every member of the family could use it daily. Large bottle 50 cents at all druggists or from the proprietors, The Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont., postpaid. The girl with the auburn hair on every package. Sold and guaranteed by John Coates.

The Dog Tax.

It is not generally known by Assessors that at the last session of the provincial Legislature, the act for the protection of sheep and to impose a tax on dogs was amended to read as follows:—"There shall be levied annually in every municipality in Ontario upon the owner, possessor, or harbinger of each dog therein, an annual tax of $1.00 for a dog, if only one, and $2.00 for each additional dog owned, possessed or harbored by him, and $3.00 for a bitch if only one, and $5.00 for each additional bitch owned. Upon the production of a certificate in writing of a veterinary surgeon that a bitch has been spayed, such bitch shall be taxed at the same rate as a dog."

Remain At Home.

Principal Creelman of O. A. C. is telling farmers if they want to keep the boys at home they must set the example by remaining on the farms themselves, instead of moving into the towns and cities as soon as they think they have enough to live on. It would, perhaps, be as well if many farmers, for their own sakes, heeded the advice. They often suffer disillusionment when they move into the city to spend the evening of their lives in comfort. They find it difficult to accommodate themselves to their new conditions. They are like the proverbial fish out of water. The days of many good men are probably shortened by changes for which their natures and habits are not prepared. Yet the desire for change is constant and natural, and many a city man longs as anxiously for the quiet of a rural home as the farmer does for the supposed comforts and attractions of the city. Perhaps both are liable to disappointment, through no fault of either city or country but because human nature, while it is always longing for change, is not always ready to accommodate itself to the change.

A Warning Case.

Our attention has been called to a case which was decided by the Division Court at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, a few days ago under section 116 of the Criminal Code of Canada, by which it is declared to be a criminal offence for any person to sell or give a pistol or an air gun to a minor under the age of 16 years. In the case referred to, a boy had purchased an air gun, and while shooting sparrows, a shot accidentally struck a woman in the eye. She brought an action for damages against the person who had sold the gun to the boy, and recovered $800 and costs and the High Court has sustained the verdict. It is also made a Criminal offence by the same statute for a person to sell a minor or adult without keeping a record of the sale, with the date, the name of the purchaser and the name of the maker of the gun, or other mark by which it may be identified. If there are local complaints and we are told there have been, strict attention should be paid to obeying the law in the future.
