MONDAY, JULY 1, 1901.

DOMINION DAY.

Today is the thirty-fourth anniversary of the federation of the various provinces and territories of Canada, that federation having been accomplished on July 1st, 1867, since which time Canada has laid aside her swaddling clothes and has made long and rapid strides in the way of progress and advancement.

This is Dominion day and as such it is observed as a holiday in all the broad domain of British North America. It is so observed as cementing into one great sisterhood and unity of Canada, her people, her interests and her patriotic spirit. Today is to Canada what the Fourth of July is to her sister nation on the south, the anniversary of the day and date on which started the march of progress which has placed her among the first countries of the earth.

CONFLICTING REPORTS.

There is something incompatible in the stories that came from the outside and from the United States and Canada. From the former we read of the unprecedented "McKinley prosperity," and side by side in the next column we read of strikes galore, the result of dissatisfied labor. The much vaunted "full dinner pail" is empty for the reason that labor feels that it is underpaid. How, therefore, can these conflicting reports be reconciled to mean "unprecedented prosperity?"

The same is true of reports from Canada, one saying that prosperity stalks rampant throughout the land, leaving peace and plenty in its wake, while another tells of 5000 strikers on the Canadian Pacific railroad.

The inference to be drawn from these conflicting reports is that the prosperity being enjoyed is of a discriminating quality—a sort of see-saw arrangement in which capital has the long end of the board and refuses to slide towards the center sufficiently to equalize the gravity.

SPRINGTIME IN THE NORTHWEST.

The following, from Seton Thompson in Scribner's, by substituting "June" where he uses "May" aptly describes the coming of spring in this portion of the far northland:

"I see a broken upland in the far Northwest. Its grey and purple rocks are interpatched with colors rich and warm, the new-bain colors of the upland spring, the greatest springtime in the world; for where there is no winter there can be no spring. The gloom is measure of the light. So, in this land of long, long winter night, where nature stints her joys for six hard months, then owns her debt and pays it all at once, the spring is glorious compensation for the past. Six months' arrears of joy are paid in one great, lavish outpour. And latest May is made the date of payment. Then spring, great, gorgeous, sixfold spring, holds carnival on every ridge.

"Even the sullen Gander Peak, that pierces the north end of the ridge, unsombre just a whit. The upland beams with all the flowers it might have grown in six lost months; yet we see only one. Here, by our feet and farther away, in great, broad-acre beds, the purple lupin blooms—irregular, broken, straggling patches, near, but not broader, denser, farther on; till on the distant slopes they lie, long, devilous belts, like purple clouds at rest.

"But late May though it be, the wind is cold; the pools tell yet of frost at night. The White Wind blows. Broad clouds come up, and down comes driving snow, over the peaks, over the upland and over the upland flowers.

Hoary, grey and white the landscape grows in turn; and one by one the flowers are painted out. But the Japans, on their taller, stiffer stems, can fight the snow for long; they bow their whitened heads beneath its load, then, thanks no little to the wind itself, shake tree and stand up defiantly straight, as fits their royal purple. And when the snowfall ends as suddenly as it began, the clouds roll by and the blue sky sees an upland shining white, but streaked and patched with blot and belts of lovely purple blood.

FRED CASE MARRIED

Miss M. Donahue Now His Wife Arrived Saturday Morning.

Mr. Fred Case and Miss Mae Donahue, both of San Francisco, were quietly married Saturday evening by the Rev. Mr. Naylor, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church. Mr. Case has been a resident of Dawson for two or three years past while his bride arrived in Dawson Saturday morning.

The parlor of the Third avenue hotel where the ceremony was performed was very prettily decorated with native wild flowers. A number of friends were present to witness the ceremony and to extend their congratulations to the happy couple.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Dille, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Freeman, Mrs. R. K. Latimer, Miss M. Latimer, Miss Lucille Latimer, Miss Addie Freeman, Mr. Moore, Mr. J. D. Longstaff and Mr. Homer Dille.

Wounded by a Bear.

Asotin, Wash., June 20. — James Rogers, who came down from his Upper Snake river mining properties, tells the following bear story:

A cattleman by the name of Akins, camped a short distance above Peter Burdan's sheep camp, on Jim creek. One morning Mr. Burdan discovered a large bear near his place and he went to where Akins was camped to get that gentleman to come and assist in killing it. Mr. Akins succeeded in unloading a couple of shots into the animal, which brought him to the ground, but recovering quickly, he soon secreted himself in the brush. Mr. Burdan returned to his home, but Mr. Akins went after George Hunter, who had a number of dogs, and with the assistance of the dogs, the bear was soon located. Mr. Hunter was very close to the wounded bear, although he did not realize it. When the bear came out it was so sudden that Hunter did not have time to get his gun into action, and he was grabbed in the fleshy part of the upper left arm, which was badly crushed and torn to the bone. The bear let go his hold on the arm and made a plunge for the man's throat, but Mr. Hunter threw up his right arm to protect his head, and that arm received the same treatment as the other. The bear next grabbed Mr. Hunter in the left side, at the waist, and would probably have killed him had it not been that the man wore a heavy hunter's belt which was full of cartridges. By this time, Mr. Akins discovered what was taking place, and the bear hearing him approaching deserted the suffering man and made for a place of safety.

Birthday Party.
Pete Smith who resides with Tom Chisholm in the latter's Queen Ann cabin on Sixth street, had a birthday party yesterday and a number of his friends called during the day to bid him bon voyage along life's further pathway. Tom Chisholm was chairman of the reception committee and also assisted in passing the tea and sandwiches, the latter being tied in red, white and blue ribbons Watson and Jenkins were on hand with their new gramophone and excellent music was provided. Yesterday closed the first half of the present year as well as a half century lived by Sir Peter Smith.

July 4th, Dedicated to Liberty.

Count over the deadliest battles of history at any time in any country—conflicts on whose issue pivoted the destinies of countries, and there you will see the manifestation of this thought—Liberty. Point out the country which has the wisest and most beneficent laws; whose institutions are broad and humane; whose inhabitants are peaceful, prosperous and happy; where the rights of man are venerated; where religion is untrammelled—and there you will find a nation where liberty is most thoroughly understood and appreciated. Read of those whose lives were a ceaseless struggle against tyranny. Those whose deaths were a divine attestation of their sublime faith and there is pointed out to you the power of this capital thought. On the shores of every continent you trace its sacred footprints; above the din of conflict you hear its clarion voice. The winds carry its power, forests echo the strain, hills and vales, mountains and meadows, city and hamlet from the sweltering tropics to the frozen reaches of this far northland swell the one glad chorus, "Liberty! Liberty!"
