SWEAT BOX AND STAKE. They are Kindred Institutions and Against Justice.

spite of all the boasting about civil rights, habeas corpus, and trial by jury, the country seems to be drifting back toward the day when the rack, the thumbscrew and the ordeal by fire or personal combat were part of the system of justice. Out in Colorado, a negro boy is suspected of a horrible crime and locked up. The law prescribes the course of procedure in case of suspicion, but this wretched, and, to some extent Irresponsible creature, was submit. ed to the ordeal of sweat box for aree days continuously, until he roke down and confessed the crime which he was suspected. That oint gained the police force of a arge city gives out the information dcast, and when the people of neighborhood where the crime was committed are thoroughly arous-ed, the miserable boy, with blood-guilt upon his soul and horror in his brain, is sent away by train to meet a gang of infuriated lynchers.

Perhaps the boy merits death, if death, the punishment of barbarlan days, is a fit explation of any crime, but it would seem that the majesty of the law has been outraged as much by the men who were engaged in enforcing it, as by the young murderer. It is time to abandon the sweat box method of extorting confessions from suspected criminals, as the thumbscrew and other tortures were abandoned long ago. A government with power over the lives and liber-tles of its subjects cannot afford to be a coward.—Detroit Tribune

A Mill Operator Who Suffered From Kidney Trouble Spent Many Dollars in Useless Experiments to Restore His Health-Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Acted Promptly and Effectively.

Good health is the chief requisite to happiness, low spirits, moroseness and irritability can in most cases be traced to ill-health, and in not a few instances are direct symptoms of kidney trouble. These, added to the severe pains in the back which ac-company the disease, make the life of the sufferer one of abject misery One such sufferer was Mr. Darius Dean, of Jordan, Ont. Mr. Dean in an interview with a reporter re cently gave his experience as fol-lows: "I am a saw and grist mill operator, and naturally a strong man; but the life of a miller is a hard one, with long hours of labor and frequent exposure. Some years ago, as the result of this exposure, I was afflicted with kidney trouble, and although I spent much money in various remedies I did not find a cure until I was persuaded to try Dr Williams' Pink Pils. In the autumn of 1898 the trouble began to assume an aggravated form. I suffered from most severe pains in the back, and a feeling of drowsiness, and yet so severe was the pain. that many a night I scarcely closed my eyes. My appetite was poor, I suffered from headaches, lost flesh, was miserable and wholly unfit for work. It was while in this condi-tion that I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and procured three boxes. Before I had finished he third box I felt much better, and a then procured a half dozen boxes fore. I used all these, but before they were all gone I felt that my health was fully restored. In the in-terval since then I have had just one slight return of the trouble, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills soon drove this nt, and my health since has been he very best. The Rev. James Robe tson, of the Highland Brigade.

HIS WORK AT MAGERSHONTEIN.

Rev. James Robertson, the popular Chaplain of the Highland Brigade, which made such a splendid record in South Africa, was the subject of notice in a recent issue of take "Sunday Strand." The writer is H. C. Shelley, the war correspondent, and it is his purpose to indicate the unselfish and heroic labors of "Padre" Repertson after the disaster of Magersfontein. Here is an extract from the article after the disaster of Magersfortein. Here is an extract from the article—"With the new day there still came no rest for Padre Robertson. That day he identified and buried 31 bodies besides identifying 35 more. Most of this heart-trying work was accomplished close to the Boer trenches, and such of it as had to be carried out within 600 yards of those trenches was performed by our bearers blindfolded, as the Boers would allow no one within their lines with uncovered eyes save Padre Robertson. This meant that 35 bodies ertson. This meant that 35 bodies which lay within the 690 yards' limit had to be handled by him single-handed. And those poor bodies had been exposed to an African sun for three

"All through Thursday the Padre was busily engaged preparing his identity reports for the War Office and on Friday he resumed his sadder task on the open veldt. The harvest of death was not even yet fully gathered in. First he laid to their rest those 35 he had identified on Wednesday and then 15 more who were only found that day. This was the lifth day since they were stricken down, and it needs no further words to believe in what condition words to Indicate in what condition those bodies were. Only by keeping his bearers well plied with spirits was the Padre able to keep them at their gruesome task. He himself, as I well know, was seized with intolerable retching for many days. In conclusion let me say that if such labors as these do not merit the Victoria Cross, then there is no reason in recognizing heroism at all; and certainly there is no officer who is more worthy to bear upon his breast that decoration which is awarded 'For Valor.'" words to indicate in what condition warded 'For Valor.'

A PLEA FOR LONG SKIRTS.

An Argument for Beauty No Matter About Health.

While radical dress reform leads wom.unkind nearer and nearer to the possession of the clothes of our fathers, let one faint voice in the land be heard in favor of the skirts of our mothers. According to modern science, the dress of women should be a grim demonstration of hygiene. A congress of doctors of all nations as-sembled in Rome has figured to a dot the number of deadly bacilli possible to be gathered to the square inch of to be gathered to the square inch of a woman's train. In Boston, the Board of Health has formally pre-scribed short skirts for women school teachers. The warnings of science thus are unmistakable, and they are ot lightly to be taken.

thus are unmistatable, and they are not lightly to be taken.

But what of woman's mission to be lovely? Does this no longer enter into reckonings of the utilities of the sex? A short-s'cirted woman on the street, except in a deluge of rain, is a blow to one's ideals. The older the woman the greater the blow. "Verily," says Carlyle, "clothes do tailorize and demoralize us." True, indeed, concerning the abbreviated, ankledisplaying skirt of the hoydenish "new" girl; truer still of the mannish middle-aged and old ladies who, carling not for the size, shape, style nish middle-aged and old ladies who, caring not for the size, shape, style of their feet, caring not for the subtle charm of mystery which belonged originally to woman, reduced dress to a convenience of rapid transit, a grim assurance of the public health, and an artiess announcement of indifference to appearance.-Har-

Derning, the well-known meteor observer, states in London Knowledge for September that in the strong twilight of July 17 a splendid fire ball appeared over the north of England, which left a streak visible for more than three-quarters of an hour. He had received about fifteen accounts of the meteor from different observers from which he of an hour. He had received about fifteen accounts of the meteor from different observers, from which he was able to calculate that its height when first seen was 58 mces, and when fast seen, ower the North Sea, about 15 miles. Its length of observed path was 175 miles. Its astronomical "radiant" was a few degrees northeast of Antarps, in the Scorpion. He adds that the meteoric system to which this brilliant object belonged is a remarkable ome, for it furnishes many large fire balls during the summer months. It is reported that twelve fragments of a meteoriet fell, August 24th, in Spain, on the boundary of Jaen, Cordova and Grenada. The fall was preceded by a series of loud detonations. One fragment, weighing a pound, is described as of a hexagonal shape, gray on the surface and greembsh inside.

LORD KELVIN'S FIGURES.

Famous Scientist With Implicit Faith in His Own Calculations.

Lord Kelvin, otherwise Profes Lord Kelvin, otherwise Professor William Thomson, is a world-famous scientist, with fellowships and memberships galore in the learned societies of the civilized nations of the world, says the Saturday Evening Post. He is but a little less than 80 years of age, but still retains the position that he has held for over two-score years of professor of natposition that he has held for over two-score years of professor of nat-ural philosophy in the University of Glaegow, the institution where he hims-if was educated. As a professor he has some peculiarities, and one of them is a habit of saying, when a doubting question is put to him as to the absolute certainty of some proposition—

"Didn't I figure that out myself?"
The question is not put irritably or egotistically as a rule; it is merely the natural remark of a man who has been an acknowledged leader of world-wide fame for so many years.
One day when lecturing on electricity he told his class that while a voltage of, say some 300,000, would be perfectly harmless!

With a current of far more than ordinary voltage he was going to ordinary voltage he was going to give them a practical illustration of the fact on himself right there before them. The students could hardly believe their ears, but as he stepped toward the electrical transformer cry of dissent and horror went up.

"Try it on a dog! Try it on an animal!" came from all parts of the lecture room. Lord Kelvin turned in stiff dignity and cast a look of reproach over the class. These were his own pupils who were doubting him—it was in his beloved University of Glasgow. To doubt on some minor point would not have hurt him, but to think that they could question the reliability of his carefully prepared figures on a matter of such moment was really painful. For a few moments he looked at them in silence.

"Didn't I figure it out myself?"
he said at length; and then there was only silence as he continued on his way to the apparatus and safely turned the tremendous voltage inte

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional disease and the disease to the drops to a teaspoonful. Yankee Plan to Peel Onions in Comfort.

A Yankee authority gives this remedy for the discomfort which accompanies the act of peeling onions:
The pungent odor of the onion is due to a sulphurous oil, which volatilizes rapidly when the tissues of the vege-table are broken in any manner, and especially affects the delicate membranes surrounding the eyes. This effect, however, can be easily avoided by sticking a small pared potato on the end of the knife with which the cutting is done. A chemic al affinity, which cannot be readily explained, but which is mone the less satisfactory in its workings, attracts the fumes, and their presence is not manifested to the operator till the potato has reached a certain de-gree of saturation, when it can be readily replaced by another.

FOR TWENTY YEARS.

Doctors Gave Up the Case and Said Nothing Could Help. Another Remarkable Cure Effected by Catarrh

Mr. Charles S. Stuart, of Allanford, gives his experience with "CATARRHOZONE" in the following words: "For twenty long years I was a sufferer from acute catarrh of the nose and throat, more especially in the cold weather. I continually hawked and spat, and had most disagreeable droppings in the thoat, which nauscated me in the mornings. About all the remedies advertised I used with but little success. On the advice of my doctor I charged my location; did everything that lay in my power to do, but was finally forced to believe that no.hing would ever permanently help me.

"Then a friend who had been cred of some threat irritation by CATARHOZONE, and who knew of others whom it had benefitted, induced me to get an outfi. So I commenced to systematically treat myself with Catarrhozone. As I have said, my case was chronic, and I didn't expect prompt result, but I conscientiously used the inhaler several times a day for six weeks, and in trat time I was almot cured. I then procured a second bottle of Catarrhozone, but a complete and perf cture resulted before the second bottle was used.

THE JURY'S WISDOM.

How They Got the Coroner Out of a Hole.

Hole.

A noted jurist once remarked that the way of the average jury reminded him, of the peace of God, inasmuch as it "passeth all understanding," and recent events in British Columbia would seem to indicate that he was not far astray. Apropos of the curious verdict returned recently by a coroner's jury in Victoria, the old-timers tell a story of the early days in British Columbia which probably discounts anything yet presented in the line of remarkable findings.

It was in the Hudson's Bay days, when the word of the factor was practically the supreme law. At a certain post, not se many miles from where this city now stands, one of the employees, a white man, was bettered by where this city now stands, one of the employees, a white man, was bothered by having potatoes stolen from his little patch of garden. He complained to the factor, who advised him to lie in vait for the thief with a shot gun will of rock salt and give him a good lesson. The man did so and in the middle of the night there appeared tigash, who cautiously scaled the face and approached within a few few of where the white man lay. There was a report and the Siwash fell over dead, for at the close range the charge of salt had been driven clean into him.

Of course there was consternation and the factor upon whose advice the

and the factor upon whose advice the man had acted was not in the easiest state of mind over the result. He had power to act as coroner and he straightway held an inquest. The jury, of course, was composed of white men, fellow employees of the man who had done the shooting. The evidence was perfectly clear, for the man told his story in the straightest possible manner.
The jury retired and in a few min

"Gentlemen, have you agreed upon a verdict?" asked the coroner. "We have," said the foreman. "We find that the deceased met his death by, failing over a precipice." The coroner was wroth. In good set/terms he told the jury that he
