

A Difference

When I go down the beach to play, And mother says that I may stay One hour at Dorothy's, O my, The way that one short hour doth fly!

Tom The Newsboy

It had begun to snow heavily. All day long the sky had been a dull grey but now toward evening the feathery flakes were falling swiftly and silently. It looked as though the whole earth was covered with a white mantle that grew whiter and whiter all the time.

Pains in the Back

Are symptoms of a weak, torpid or stagnant condition of the kidneys, liver, and are a warning it is extremely hazardous to neglect, so important a healthy action of these organs.

and tell the wonderful story to Lizzie. Visions arose in the boy's mind of all the good things he would be able to bring her with all that money.

Tom's parents had taught him to be upright and honest, and the boy had always proved himself a model for other boys, many of whom he knew to be rude, dishonest and profane.

"Evenin' papers!" he called briskly, from the corner of the street where he stood awaiting purchasers.

The bundle of newspapers was very heavy, and the lad's arms ached from weariness and the cold, as well. Nobody wanted a paper tonight. At least, that was how things looked.

The cold was becoming more intense, and Tom stamped his poorly-shod feet on the sidewalk to warm them up a bit. He had been on the street with his papers all day, and so far had earned but a few pennies, despite his eager efforts to dispose of his supply.

"Don't you want a paper, sir?" Tom followed his retreating figure and shook a paper toward him.

"Got plenty of papers," he answered, with an impatient gesture and hurried into his car.

A man who had witnessed the scene tapped the boy on the shoulder. Tom was standing staring at the retreating auto and mentally deciding that the rich man was very stingy and unappreciative.

"Sunny, I'll have a paper," said the stranger, "that ungrateful, stingy cad! Not to give you a greenback or two. I'm sorry he got hold of that wad again. Honest, I am."

Tom went to hand back the change to the man who had just bought a paper, and although it was a large amount he had given the newsboy, the good-natured man urged the lad to keep it and then hurried away, leaving Tom stammering his thanks.

"That's a good sport!" Tom confided to himself as he pocketed the money. "If I'd picked up a bunch of dough for him instead of fer that other guy, I'd be a capitalist by now, I bet you!"

About an hour later Tom started home, cold, tired and hungry. But his bodily discomfort did not hinder him from stepping into the church which was lighted as he came up. Confessions were being heard as the next day was the first Friday of the month, so Tom went to confession. As he knelt before the altar afterwards he was full of gratitude for God's grace and help, which had enabled him to overcome that temptation to act dishonestly. He had so much to be thankful for he reasoned, even if the papers didn't always go as fast as he would have liked. But Tom possessed

WHOOPING COUGH

Her 3 Children Had It.

This disease begins like a simple cold in the head that rapidly goes to the chest. The cough is at first short and sharp, but gradually increases in severity and occurs in sudden spasms.

Often vomiting follows a severe attack of coughing, and sometimes there is nose-bleeding.

Mothers should never neglect the treatment of whooping cough, for it is much more serious than most people think, as it may be followed by some grave lung trouble, such as bronchitis, pneumonia or consumption, since the sufferers power of resistance are often greatly weakened by the violent and exhausting cough.

On the first sign of a "whoop", Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup should be administered as it helps to clear the bronchial tubes of the collected mucus and phlegm.

Mrs. Burton Leopold, New Ross, N.S., writes: "My three children had the whooping cough so bad last winter, I thought they would choke. I tried many different remedies, but none of them seemed to help. At last I got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and I was greatly surprised to see how quickly it helped them. I shall always recommend your wonderful remedy to others."

a strong, virile faith and he knew that he and Lizzie would not want.

Elizabeth's eyes grew very big as Tom threw quite a pile of money down on the table that evening, and then told his interesting story. He always managed to have something of interest to tell each night after business hours. She agreed with Tom that the millionaire was very ungrateful and that the other stranger was extremely kind and generous.

"Isn't it nice to know that even if there are some mean people in the world, still there are lots of nice kind folks," said philosophical Lizzie, "and I'm gladdest of all that you didn't keep the money, Tom, 'cause you could have kept still about it if you had wanted to be dishonest."

Tom nodded toward the well laden table. "Well, anyhow, we've got an extra good feed just because of the big adventure or sensation, as the papers say. I wish I'd asked Mr. Generous Man to come home and have supper with us. Now, why didn't I?"

The day following found our hero as usual at his place of business.

"Wonder if I'll figure in a big event of some kind today," Tom said to himself. Business was far from brisk all morning and Tom was beginning to conjecture about how much cash he would have to take home that night.

Your Heart! Does it Palpitate?

The component parts of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are indicated to do away with palpitation and other heart weaknesses and thus strengthen both the heart and nerves.

Mrs. F. X. Gauthier, Tilbury, Ont., writes: "During 25 years past I was greatly troubled with palpitation of the heart, and sometimes so much so that I would faint sometimes up to three hours. I had the doctor who kept me taking his medicine to overcome the disease, but to no effect. There was no change at all for the better.

Two years ago a friend advised me to use Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I began to use them at once, and at the second box I began to feel some relief, so I continued to use them according to directions, and now I am perfectly well.

Before using the pills, I never weighed 100 pounds, now I weigh 117, and feel as if I were young although I am over 60 years of age.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
