A Queer Point of View.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

or ten years older; one wanted a man of at least fifty.

The mother of one of the girls was present, and she very heartily applauded this point of view. "Better be an old man's darling than a young man's slave," she quoted tritely.

Now, I can understand the point of view of the young people, but I simply cannot see how the older woman could have encouraged them in it.

I know that to the young girl there is something splendidly romantic in a man much older than herself. I doubt if there was ever a girl of sixteen or eighteen who did not desperately admire any man with iron-gray hair, and weave romances of which the hero was a dignified man of forty-five or fifty with gray hair and an impressive manner; but the mature woman who will seriously encourage a girl to entertain such ideas I cannot understand.

Undoubtedly there are marriages in which the man is ten or fifteen years older which turn out happily, just as there are successful marriages in which the disparity is in the opposite direction. But to consider a disparity

A group of young girls whose ages ranged from fifteen to eighteen were discussing the kind of a man they wanted to marry.

Four out of the five declared for a man much older than themselves. Three of them wanted to be five in either direction as an advantage seems to me very short-sighted. I wish the woman who is always urging upon her girls the advantages of a much older man as a mate would stop, think, and consider. Suppose her girl of twenty meets a man of thirty-two or three, and, after a year of courtship, marries him. That means that for ten years before he had even met her he was a grown man. It means that while she was still a child he was living a decade of mature life. Consider—is that likely to produce ideal conditions?

Again, a decade of difference in age means a decade of difference in point of view. She is at the age of enthusiasm, he at the age of disillusionment; she is at the age that loves movement and excitement, he probably wants to settle down. And so, all along the line, their difference in age will probably mean a conflict in desires.

Again a man of thirty-five or forty is likely to be just a trifle "set" in his habits. Now, every truly successful marriage is a compromise of tastes and habits. A compromise which comes hard enough even when tastes and habits are pliant. But when they are fixed,—well, I know of one couple of which the man was much the older, who inaugurated a life of discord by disagreeing the second night as to how much the bedroom window should be opened.

Perhaps I am a bit prejudiced, but I am sure I could ask nothing better for a daughter of my own than for her to marry a man who is approximately her mate in age as well as in other respects.

NATURE'S ESSENCE... Extracted From Forest Plants.

Nature's laws are perfect, but disease follows if these laws are not obeyed. Go straight to nature for the cure, to the forest; there are mysteries here that we can fathom for you. Take the bark of the wild-cherry tree, the root of mandrake, stone, Oregon grape root, queen's root, bloodroot and golden seal, make a scientific, non-alcoholic extract of them with just the right proportions and you have

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It took Dr. Pierce, with the assistance of two learned chemists, eight years of hard work experimenting to make this pure glyceric extract and alternative of the greatest efficiency and without the use of a particle of alcohol.

Just the sort of remedy you need to make rich, red blood, and cure that lassitude and feeling of nerve exhaustion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery bears the stamp of Public Approval and has sold more largely in the past forty years than any other blood purifier and stomach tonic.

"Some time ago I got out of health—my stomach seemed to be the seat of the trouble," writes Mrs. Ezra Williams, of Belleville, Kan. "I commenced to doctor with all the doctors at home as well as with other specialists on stomach and digestive organs. None seemed to do any good—in fact, most of the medicines did me harm. Finally, I wrote to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., who replied, stating that I had liver complaint with indigestion and constipation, and advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' The 'Discovery' and 'Pellets' have put me on my feet again. I could not have recovered without them."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are for liver ills.

Fads and Fashions.

Some of the new leather handbags have extension frames.

One-sided frog ornaments are all the rage for the new wraps.

"Punch work" is a great favorite in the newest art needlework.

Children's headwear for fall is much of it small and close fitting.

Cut steel buckles and ornaments are used on black velvet girdles.

Some fine suits show brocaded silks and tapestries for trimming.

New street bags are square, of woven grasses in green and blue.

Patent leather belts are still much liked for the outside of shirtwaists.

Picot edged and fringed, ribbons are favorites with Paris millinery.

Ostrich feather bows are much worn in Paris with white satin gowns.

Bands of sable are now used to trim white mousseline de soie dresses.

Many new styles in "middy" dresses are being shown for little girls.

Hair ornaments are coming back. Some of the newest are of marabout.

The one-piece dresses buttoned all the way down are as popular as ever.

Platinum finish is expected to play an important part in the new fancy combs.

Auto veil pins of silver have a crinkly pin, like a hairpin, with a jeweled head.

Amber is much liked in jewelry, and amber-beaded robes are frequently seen.

Normandy pleatings in maline are in favor for some of the new evening coats.

Athletic women are wearing corsets with side lacings and overlapping rubber bands.

Dresses of white broderie anglaise are being veiled with coloured mousseline de soie.

Raglan sleeves will be seen on the new fur coats for winter; also the left side fastening.

Buttons are richer in variety than for years past; the half ball is a great favorite.

A charming combination for a gown is black chantilly lace over bordered anglaise.

For children's bonnets, white bengaline, china and other silks are used almost entirely.

With rattle dresses, wear matching pins of white crochet. They come in sets of three.

Women can now get black brassieres with black net sleeves to hold the dress skirts.

The fashion of powdered hair was one of the most striking notes at the recent Paris races.

Fris of simple white net, pleated, are charming for neck and sleeve finish of almost any frock.

The black velvet footing continues to be a charming finish to a white or aeri lingerie dress.

Simple house dresses are being made of cotton crepe, Japanese silk, messaline and bordered lawn.

Lingerie petticoats are being worn more and more, always being cut on the slim, straight lines.

At the collar, one wears nowadays a small, flat tailored bow of folded satin in some gay color.

The woman traveler welcomes the ingenious parasol that folds up into an ornamental and compact case.

Street dresses for autumn have plain trimmings or the vivid colors gay in the form of Roman stripes.

There is little sympathy for the Iowa man whose seventh wife has sued for divorce. Five wives are enough for any man.

Strayaways Picked Up.

The two fishermen, William Mason and John Cleary, who were reported missing from the schooner Catherine Burke were picked up by Captain Radolph in the schr. Avalon. They strayed away from the vessel in a dense fog about twenty five miles east of Sable Island. They were adrift for ten hours, exposed to the wind and sea but did not suffer any great hardships. On Wednesday last they were brought into Gloucester and were none the worst of their experience.

Factory Closed.

Special Evening Telegram, NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—A cable to the Tribune from London, says that Messrs. Goodbody Tobacco manufacturers, of Dublin, announced to-day the closing of their factory, owing to the cutting of prices by the American Tobacco Trust. The snuff and cigar business will be continued.

Will Visit Canada

Special Evening Telegram, ST. JOHN, Aug. 15.—It is reported in well-informed circles that the Prince of Wales and Prince Albert may visit Canada next summer in charge of a tutor, as the guests of their great-uncle, the Duke of Connaught.

On Second Thought.

BY JAY E. HOUSE.

Ezra Meeker wants the Oregon trail appropriately marked. Inasmuch as Mr. Meeker appears to have more idle time than anyone else, why not let him mark it?

If a man is worthless, the fact that he belongs to a fine family is unimportant.

When the apricot buds are killed, the late frost should be given three cheers.

Only a few men can do it by making a speech, but the man who is going to set up the cigars is sure to draw an audience.

There is a good deal of talk about harmony, but the fact is that while a man may sometimes conceal his razor, he never throws it away.

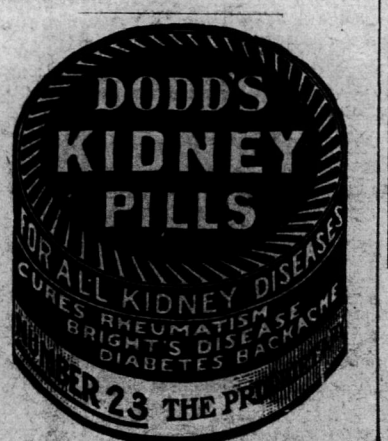

Every young man believes that he can sing, and that explains the college glee club.

Ordinarily the son refers to his father as "the old man." But if he desires to be particularly polite, he refers to him as "the old gent."

Every town dog believes a rabbit can be caught, but a country dog knows better.

Contrary to popular belief, a woman never gives a man a piece of her mind. She hands him the whole business.

The old pie has its uses. For one thing it deadens the odor of the perfumed man.
