

Grandest On Earth, Says Quebec Woman.

"I Feel Like An Entirely Different Woman Since Taking Tanlac," Says Mrs. E. Matte.

"I feel like an entirely different person since taking Tanlac; have gained ten pounds in weight, and am enjoying the best of health," said Mrs. E. Matte, residing on St. Louis de Courville, Quebec, P.Q., recently.

"For three years I suffered from indigestion, and was already in a bad fix when I went down with the flu and had to stay in bed five weeks. The flu left me in a worse condition than I was before, and I suffered terribly all the time."

"I was so weak I couldn't walk across the room without support. I had no appetite at all, and even the odor of food cooking was sickening to me. My stomach was in such a poor condition I dared not eat anything, except a few dishes specially prepared for me."

"For months I lived on liquid foods that I didn't relish, and the little I forced down caused terrible cramping pains in my stomach that nearly set me wild. I was that weak and nervous it was almost impossible for me to get to sleep at night."

"For hours I would lie awake, and many times it was long after midnight before I'd fall to sleep, and then from exhaustion. And in the morning when I awoke I was still tired and weak. I got so I couldn't stand any noise, and the least little thing would upset my nerves till I'd quiver for hours without being able to control myself."

"Everything I tried failed me, and I kept on getting weaker and suffering still more. My husband suggested I try Tanlac and bought a bottle. I didn't think it would do me any good but was willing to try anything. From the very start I got better and was so delighted I kept right on taking it."

"I have finished my seventh bottle now; am well and happy, and nothing ever hurts me. I can't praise Tanlac enough for what it has done for me. And I am glad to give this testimonial, for I honestly believe Tanlac is the grandest medicine on earth."

West Coast Merchant Denounces Fishery Regulations.

(From This Morning's News.)

Yesterday afternoon a News reporter speaking to one of the biggest fish exporters on the South West Coast learned of conditions as they really exist in that important section of the country. "There is very little doing," said the exporter, "though a few cargoes of codfish have been shipped to Oporto, and a few more are being made ready." Speaking of the fish regulations he pronounced them a curse and unhesitatingly asserted that their promulgation was primarily the cause of all the trouble in the European markets so far as the Newfoundland product was concerned. While he did not condemn standardization, he was very pronounced in stating that the men sent to cull and inspect fish on the South West Coast were incompetent of carrying out the work entrusted to them. In some cases they went to extremes and in other cases they did not go far enough. A number of the fishermen landed their fishing gear when they became aware of the over strict cull, and left for the Sydneys and the U.S.A., one or two settlements being practically cleaned out of all its young manhood. On the whole the exporter said the fishery was not an average, though in some places good catches were taken with traps. To-day very few seem anxious to dispose of their catches, and before a quintal is landed the fisherman, if he is a dealer, wants to know if his catch only covers his advances will supplies be given to carry himself and family over the winter. The buyer finds himself unable to meet these demands, at least at the present time, as very few large shipments of provisions have as yet reached the coast. There is a considerable shortage of flour in many sections, and but for a 1500 barrel shipment by the S.S. Herbert Green to Grand Bank, the latter port would be very short at the present time. In parts of Placentia Bay there is little or no flour to be had. Getting back to the fishery regulations the exporter told of one case where a South West Coast firm shipped two cargoes of about 10,000 quintals of codfish to Oporto. After a long delay

76 shillings a quintal was offered them, but the Government would not let the firm sell at less than 80 shillings. The cargoes remained at Oporto for several months, and the shippers were not only obliged to pay $3,000.00 demurrage, but ultimately had to sell the fish at about 50 per cent. less than the first offer of 76 shillings. The exporter also cited a case where a West Coast firm loaded a cargo last July for Oporto, which was prevented from being shipped for weeks and weeks and has not yet reached market. Whether this cargo will realize what it originally cost remains to be seen. Summing up the exporter condemned the regulations from A to Z and expressed it as his opinion that if they were removed and people allowed to conduct their own business, conditions would improve in a very short while.

Sugar in Large Quantities.

THOUSANDS OF BAGS STORED. There are still thousands of bags of sugar stored in Shed 24, at the South End Terminals, says the Halifax Morning Chronicle. Some months ago it was said that several hundred thousand bags had been stored there, but since then some shipments are understood to have been made. However, the shed appears to be well stocked, the sugar occupying much space on both sides. In some places it is piled nearly to the ceiling.

Since this sugar was stored at the Terminals, to where it was transported by rail from the Woodside Refinery, there has been much discussion as to who owned it. The accepted theory is that it is American-owned sugar, sent here to be refined. Other reports are to the effect that it has changed hands several times. It has been said that the sugar has caked considerably since it has been placed in the shed, which has caused its value to depreciate.

It was recently reported that another cache of sugar was to be established in a warehouse along the waterfront. While no bags have as yet been stored, it is understood that between five and ten thousand bags will be placed there in the near future.

It is also reported that recently arrangements were made by one eastern refinery to store 100 carloads of sugar in an Amherst factory. The sugar now stored there is said to be valued at two million dollars.

Sugar Order a Raw Deal

(Morning Chronicle.)

Early and emphatic protest should be made by every citizen of Canada against the order of the Board of Commerce fixing the price of sugar and prohibiting the importation of cheap sugar from the United States. During the war the people of Canada willingly assented to governmental devised restriction on trade in the interest of our allies and ourselves to help win the war. Now that the war has been won trade should be permitted to resume its natural channels and all artificial restraints should be removed.

It is a notorious fact that during the war sugar manufacturers in Canada made enormous profits. It may be true now that owing to unwise purchases of raw sugar in anticipation of a vast increase in the demand at high prices the Refineries have loaded themselves up with raw materials. It may be true also that some remedial action is needed to prevent a financial crash and consequent unemployment, but if so the public is entitled to know all the facts before an arbitrary order is made by a semi-defunct board sitting in secret. The consumer was not represented at the hearings of the Board; no general announcement was made that the matter was under consideration and overnight an increase in the price of sugar is fixed upon the people upon an experts and incomplete statement of facts which a representative of the Refiners admits himself he does not understand.

The Board of Commerce itself invites protests to be filed before October 21st. The Board of Trade as representative of the business life of the city should give consideration to the matter at once. Protest should promptly be filed at Ottawa, a hearing should be had at which all parties interested should be heard and no artificial increase in the price of sugar should be permitted until the whole matter is thoroughly investigated and the people fully convinced of its necessity.
