Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smokes or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal-oil). The inventor T. W. Johnson, 246 Craig St., West, Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

A Famous Swiss Poet.
The Nobel prizes are now recognized the world over as honors of the highest rank, awarded only on the basis of merit, by judges who try to be as impartial as possible. The fund out of which the prizes are provided consists of the greater part of a fortune of almost nine million dollars, left by the late Alfred Nobel, of Sweden—the inventor of dynamite, who died on December 10, 1896. By his will he created a trust out of the income of which were to be paid substantial cash prizes each year to persons who had made the largest contributions to the common good. There are five annual prizes—one each for pre-eminent service in physics, in chemistry, in medicine, in literature, and in the preservation of peace.

—And the Worst is Yet to Come
This Swiss poet, a man of 75 years of age, is of German origin and it is in German that his poetry is written. Switzerland, it will be remembered, is divided by language and lineage into three parts. One contains the Swiss of French origin, one those of Italian origin, and the third those of German origin. Carl Spitteler belongs to the latter. He is best known in literature as the author of three poems, each with a classical basis, and expressed in English, they are Olympian Spring, Prometheus, and Epimetheus.

AGED 70 FEELS WELL AS HE DID YEARS AGO.

Carmichael Had Suffered For Years Before He Got Tanlac—Never Saw A Medicine In Its Class, He Says.

"I am now past seventy years of age and have been in bad health for a good long while, but Tanlac has fixed me up to where I feel as fine as I used to years ago," said J. Carmichael, Head of St. Margaret's Bay, Nova Scotia, a few days ago. Mr. Carmichael is a retired carpenter and has lived in this community all his life. "I had a chronic case of stomach trouble and it had been bothering me for years and years. After eating gas would form and cause me to blot all up something awful. I had to give up eating the things I liked best and no matter how particular I was about what I ate, I always had a heavy, stuffed feeling and sometimes felt like I was being smothered. I had severe pains in my shoulder blades and in my chest and at times they nearly took my breath away. I was all run-down, weak and listless and it looked like I would never be any account again.

Howard's Human Self-Sacrifice.
On Wednesday, January 20, 1920, John Howard, the pious, self-sacrificing philanthropist, when about sixty-four years of age, died at Kherston, on the Black Sea, 19 miles up the river Danestier, which he visited because he had heard of the sickly state of its army and its defective hospital. He caught camp fever while in attendance on a young lady, who had then been stricken down and died there. As a sickly child he spent his early days at Cardington, near Bedford, where his father, a City of London tradesman, had a small property. After his schooling he was appointed to a grocery firm in Watling Street, but as his father in 1742 left his two children fairly well off, young Howard obtained legal release, and went on a Continental tour. Returning to Cardington, he for nine months suffered from ague. On his recovery he erected model cottages there, and provided elementary education for children of all sects. On being (in 1773) appointed High Sheriff of Bedfordshire, he was shocked to find that the necessities of prisoners were not supplied by Government, but had to be purchased by themselves from their gaolers, who had no fixed salaries. Mr. Howard also found that prisoners who had been declared not guilty were not released until the gaolers' fees had been paid. He gave special attention to the ravages amongst prisoners of smallpox and typhus fever. In 1774 he gave evidence before a House of Commons Committee, and two Bills were passed for the abolition of gaolers' fees, and for improving the sanitary conditions of prisons. To promote such improvement he inspected the prisons of not only England, Scotland, and Ireland, but also France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Denmark, Sweden, Russia, Spain and Portugal. He also visited in France, Italy, and Turkey the hospitals for lepers, and others, where those with infectious diseases were confined. He travelled to Venice in a ship which was condemned as unhealthy, so that he might gain knowledge of being for forty-two days in one of these hospital prisons. For all this work he is said to have spent thirty thousand pounds of his own fortune. It is little wonder that monuments were afterwards erected to him; besides one over his tomb at Kherston with a Russian inscription. His was the first statue admitted to St. Paul's cathedral in London, and a statue in the market-place at Bedford was unveiled by the Duke of Bedford on March 28, 1894.

PIMPLES ITCHED AND BURNED
Face Was Badly Disfigured. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

"Small red pimples and blackheads began on my face and my face was badly disfigured. Some of the pimples festered while others scabbed over and there were places where the pimples were in blotches. They used to itch and burn terribly. I saw an advertisement for Cuticura and I tried them. They stopped the itching and burning and I used four cakes of Soap and three boxes of Ointment which healed me." (Signed) Miss V. A. Hayne, Stormont, N. S., Dec. 26, '18.
