London, Nov. 10.—Advices from the south of Russia state that the peasant insurrection has been nearly suppressed and the leaders severely punished, fifteen of the chief insurgents being put to death and 50 more banished to the mines of Northeastern Siberia. About 200 peasants were killed in the various encounters with the military.

London, Nov. 10.—The announcement that the Government proposes to follow the Land Purchase Bill with a measure for Irish local government has aroused much alarm among the so-called Irish loyalists, and protests are pouring in on Lord Salisbury and Mr. Balfour against any extension of local or diminution of Imperial authority.

The Coming Session.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—It is expected that the Queen's speech at the opening of Parliament will be unusually short, and no new measure of importance will be announced except, perhaps, a bill providing for free or assisted elementary education. The Ministerial programme consists mainly of legislative remnants of last session, including the Tithe, the Irish Land Purchase, the Irish Local Government, the Employers' Liability, the Savings Banks, and Scotch private legislation bills.

London, Nov. 10.—The British steamer Ludgate Hill, from New York, which has arrived here, bears every appearance of having passed through a very heavy storm. Capt. The Stanley-Barttelot Controversy.

London, Nov. 10. — The Times publishes a three-column statement from Mr. Bonny. Bonny says Stanley only learned of the poisoning suspicions from him on Oct. 26 last in the course of a conversation on Barttelot's book. Bonny testified that when Barttelot and Jamieson, after questioning Arabs belonging to Stanley's previous expedition as to the fate of Pocock and others, expressed the opinion that Stanley would poison anybody. He admitted that rumors to that effect were current in Europe, but nothing was ever proved against Stanley. Barttelot and Jamieson agreed not to pertake of his hospitality. Bonny confirms on report that Barttelot asked him for a tasteless poison with which to remove Tippo Tib's nephew Selim, with whom he had had a quarrel. Bonny confirms the statement that Barttelot deliberately bit a woman, fastening his teeth into her cheek. For this Barttelot would have been lynched if Bonny bad not rescued him. Bonny still bears the marks of the wounds received by him in the fight with the natives that followed the incident. He has not the slightest doubt that the boy Soudi died from the effects of a kick given him by Barttelot. Barttelot kicked the boy the day before he was killed.

Port Stanley, Nov. 10.—Fire broke out in the roof of Capt. Joseph Hough's house in this village on Saturday afternoon, which destroyed the roof and upper part of the house. Loss partly covered by insurance. Sunday morning at 1 o'clock the tug Jas. Backley was discovered to be on fire, and before she could be scuttled the whole of the upper works and part of the hull was burned. She was owned by Brown Bros. of this place, who used her as a fishing tug, and had arrived in harbor about 6 o'clock in the evening. The fires were put out and everything thought to be secure, and how the fire originated is a mystery. It is feared the boat will be a total loss. Partly covered by insurance.

ance. Carter was absent visiting relations in Brussels, and the house was unquestionably set on fire.

Picrov, N. S., Nov. 10.—The destructive fire which visited this place Saturday originated in the warehouse on South Market wharf, part of which was fitted up for a lockup. A single prisoner was in the cell, a Dutch sailor belonging to the Norwegian bark Prima Donna, now in port. He was put in the lockup several days ago to prevent his running away from his ship. The fire probably originated in this cell, as people in the vicinity heard his cries, but before any one could reach him that part of the building was enveloped in flames, and no help could reach him. Nothing was found but his hip bones.

The warehouse of Peter Brown containing a large quantity of flour and meal, one belonging to Thomas Meagher, butcher, and tanother to C. Dwyer, commission merchant, burned. The lumber yard and steam mill for J. & A. Carson were destroyed, as were the Standard newspaper office at the foot of South Market street, a double tenement belonging to A. D. McDonald, a paint shop occupied by John Brown, a warehouse belonging to Mcsers. Carson and a building belonging to Mcsers. Carson and occupied by J. Pringel & Son, tailors. Total loss, $154,000.

Preparations for the Execution Birchall—A Card from the WOODSTOCK, Ont., Nov. 10 .- Active Woodstock, Ont., Nov. 10.—Active preparations are now going forward for the execution of Birchall on Friday next. The scaffold is in course of construction, and will be put up in the western yard of the jail. An enterprising Toronto manufacturer has made the doomed man a present of a fine black silk shroud for the occasion. The iron weight that will be attached to the other end of the rope to be used for the hanging of Birchall arrived Saturday morning from the Don, consigned to Sheriff Perry. It weighs 350 pounds.

Birchall received a card Friday from the "Colonel," dated, as before, from Jackson, Mich. He protests that he did the shooting, and not Birchall. The card was submitted to an expert, a competent gentleman, and one familiar with Birchall's writing. He at once pronounced it to have been written by the prisoner. He had no doubt about it, and no hesitation in saying so.

been written by the prisoner. He had no doubt about it, and no hesitation in saying so.

THE FEELING AMONG BIRCHALL'S FRIENDS.

LONDON, NOV. 10.—As Birchall's day of execution approaches the interest in his case increases. The movement for a commutation of sentence has received strong support from this country, partly owing to the fact that the criminal's family is so respectably connected, and partly through the provalent sentiment of hesitation to inflict the death penalty on circumstantial evidence. The farm premium business has received a final blow in the conviction of Birchall. The advertisements for young men to pay premiums for the privilege of doing hard work on an American or Australian farm have disappeared from the London press, and a profitable and no doubt largely fraudulent traffic has been brought to an end.

THE OFFICIAL NOTFICATION.

The following is the official notice, mailed to Sheriff Cameron, of Woodstock jail:

"Protection is stronger to-day than it ever was, and it will continue to grow in favor. The tariff was made the issue during the campaign, but it was only three and a half weeks old when the election occurred, and many of its provisions have not yet gone into effect. The bill was misunderstood and shamefully misrepresented. All great measures have met with temporary defeat. The same issue will come to the front in 1892 and it will then be better understood. We have little to last fair count.

When asked if there would be any important legislation enacted during the coming session, he said he did not know of any. "We did not leave much undone during the past session," he remarked with summer complaints, sea sickness, etc. 16
