LATAPIE CANNOT SEE POPE AGAIN

Result of Publishing Inaccurate Interview—Criticized By Gasparri.

CRITICIZED BY GASPARRI

Points Out That Many Misleading Assertions Were Printed.

[Canadian Press.]

ROME, June 28, via Paris, 3:55 p.m.—An interview published in the Corriere d'Italia this morning with Cardinal Pietro Gasparri, the papal secretary of state, arouses great interest in Rome, as it is entirely taken up with the interview obtained last week by Louis Latapie, a member of the staff of the Paris La Liberte, with Pope Benedict.

The secretary says:

"M. Latapie invented entirely many grave assertions. You must remember that a phrase isolated from the context cannot reproduce faithfully a thought, or what is worse, it gives a meaning entirely false.

"For instance, take the quotation regarding hostages in Berlin. What confusion! The Pontiff is made to mix the Jews of Galicia, the Austrian priest of Cremona and the Belgian prelates, all of which, according to M. Latapie, was covered in the allocution of January 22.

Protest Not Mentioned.

"With regard to the Jews, it was in March that Austria-Hungary sent a protest to the Holy See. The protest was not mentioned, as the Vatican could not condemn Russia on the sole affirmation of Austria-Hungary.

"The Pope was informed that Italy had taken some parish priests of the towns occupied, as hostages, but the Bishop of Cremona informed him that they were being treated with every regard. Indeed the Pontiff furnishes them with funds for masses. The Pope knows all this perfectly. How then, could he put them in a category with the Belgian and French hostages or with the Jews of Russia.

Just Imagination.

"With regard to General Von Bissing, the German governor of Belgium, neither the Holy Father, nor the secretaryship of state ever received a letter or a communication from him directly or indirectly. Thus the Pope could not refer to such a letter and he did not. The letter was born of the fervid imagination of M. Latapie."

Cardinal Gasparri denies that Pope Benedict said: "It was under the pontificate of Pius X.," when asked by M. Latapie if it was necessary to inquire whether the neutrality of Belgium had been violated, but the Secretary of State does not say what words the Pontiff used.

"But much graver is the confusion of M. Latapie when he speaks of the relations between the Holy See and Italy." continues Cardinal Gasparri. "The following is the real opinion of the Pontiff:

Wanted Peace In Italy.

"It is true that he wanted Italy to remain outside the conflict upon receiving concessions from Austria, because he desired that Italy should not suffer the horrors of war, and he was pre-occupied with the delicate position of the church if Italy entered the conflict. War once declared, the church became entirely neutral.

"It has not in any way tried to prevent Catholics from joining the colors or doing their duty according to their consciences, and it has done everything for the spiritual welfare of the soldiers.

"The Pontiff recognizes that the Italian Government has done everything possible to attenuate any difficulties that might arise between it and the Holy See. The Vatican correspondence is not being touched, but that does not mean that the condition of the Holy See is normal. It does not intend to create embarrassment for the Government.

Could Not Discuss Lusitania.

"The Holy Father much deplored the sinking of the Lusitania, but he could not pronounce directly on it because there was before him a question of fact regarding which each side makes different assertions."

Cardinal Gasparri ended the interview by saying:

"With regard to what concerns me personally, I saw M. Latapie only a few minutes. In that time the diplomatic relations between the Holy See and France were not mentioned. M. Latapie would have done better had he maintained the promise he formally gave me not to publish anything without previous authorization. But as that formal promise was not sufficient to preserve the Holy See from such deplorable indiscretions M. Latapie will have the honor of being the last journalist to be received by the Holy Father during the war."

BURGOMASTER MAX RESIGNED TO FATE

Says State of Captivity Has Now Become Normal Existence.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, June 29.—Burgomaster Max of Brussels, interned in the German fortress at Glatz, is resigned to his fate, according to a letter written by him to the Havre correspondent of the Matin, in which he says:

"I take no merit for supporting my fate stoically. Besides, I see in my patience only the application of the physical law that every being adapts himself to the conditions of life imposed upon him by circumstances. I have been shut up now 240 days, and captivity has become a normal state for me. The sufferings I experienced during the first weeks following my arrest are lessening more and more."

Electric Iron Left Connected Up After Power Fails.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

ALVINSTON, June 28.—Fire caused by an electric iron and in a simple manner which should be taken note of by all housewives who make use of electricity, destroyed the home of Mrs. Ada Pray at the power house Saturday night.

The power went off Friday night while Mrs. Pray was using the iron, and she apparently left it sitting on the sideboard without disconnecting the plug. When the power came on again Saturday night the iron became heated.

But little of the household goods were removed. Mrs. Pray had no insurance.

IS IT MURDER OR CASE OF SUICIDE?

Mysterious Death of Woman in New York—Stabbed Twenty Times.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, June 29.—A score of detectives who endeavored today to solve the mystery surrounding the death last night of Mrs. Grace D. Fox, who was stabbed twenty times and found dying in her apartment, were unable to decide today whether it was a murder or suicide. It was one of the most puzzling cases with which the police have been confronted in years.

Mrs. Fox was the wife of William S. Fox, a brother of the late Della Fox, the light opera star. Employees of the apartment house, responding to her telephoned call for help, found the windows and door of her apartment locked, and the woman suffering from knife thrusts in her breast, neck and back. There were no knife marks in the nightgown she wore, no knife was found in the apartment, and physicians in the hospital where she died said that she could not have inflicted stab wounds in her back.

At first Mrs. Fox said that she fell on a knife and cut herself, but later said that a strange man who had been trying to induce her to subscribe for magazines had stabbed her. Attendants in the building said that Mrs. Fox had been alone in her apartment all day. The detectives could find no garment she wore when she was stabbed, and neighbors said they heard no struggle. Mr. Fox said his wife never mentioned suicide and had no cause to end her life.

U.S. OFFICIALS WATCH MEXICANS' MOVEMENTS

Hope To Prevent New Elements Entering Fight—Many Suspects.

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, D. C., June 29.—Agents of the United States Government were today busily engaged all over the country watching carefully the movements of prominent Mexicans who have been active in Mexican politics and also those suspected of such activity, to see that there are no violations of American neutrality.

The arrest of Gens. Victoriano Huerta and Pascual Orozco at El Paso and the strict surveillance over Gens. Felix Diaz, Mondragon, Blanquet and Felipe Angeles, now living in the United States, and others, is a part of the general policy of the American Government to try and prevent the setting afoot of any new military movement in Mexico.

No New Elements Wanted.

Officials here feel that the revolutionary situation in Mexico ought not to be further complicated by the introduction of new elements.

In line with its policy to prevent, if possible, further revolutionary movements in the southern republic, or at least the setting on foot of any such expeditions on American soil, the Government purposes to prosecute vigorously violations of neutrality regardless of the prominence of the individuals or their affiliations.

Angeles Suspected.

Possibility that others may be identified with the so-called Huerta conspiracy intensified interest here today in the investigation by agents of the department of justice into the situation. It is even intimated that citizens of one of the European belligerents are involved. It was said also that the department of justice was in possession of some evidence which seemed to connect Gen. Angeles, Villa's right-hand man, with the plot. Angeles, it was said, was to call at the state department today to deny that he was in any way involved.

ARCHBISHOP QUIGLEY IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Much Worse Today and Outcome Is in Doubt.

[Canadian Press.]

Rochester, N. Y., June 29.—The condition of Archbishop James E. Quigley of Chicago was much worse this morning, according to a statement issued by one of the attending physicians who examined the stricken prelate early today. No attempt was made to conceal the fact that the archbishop's condition is extremely critical, and that the outcome of his illness is in doubt.

Archbishop Quigley is at the home of his brother, Chief of Police Joseph M. Quigley. He was brought to Rochester on Saturday from Atlantic City, where he suffered a relapse. Since his arrival here his condition steadily has grown worse, and several consultations of physicians have been held. The exact nature of his malady has not been disclosed.

FRANCE WILL RETALIATE

No News To Be Given Germany About Prisoners in War Zone.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, June 29.—The Matin says that the German Government, having failed to grant the request made through the Spanish embassy at Berlin that the names be supplied of French prisoners retained in French territory occupied by Germany, France will be obliged to withhold all news regarding German prisoners in the war zone and to prohibit correspondence with them.

EVERY SHELL NOW IS ACCOUNTED FOR

No Waste Allowed and the Ordnance Corps Are Kept Busy.

HOT TIME AT FESTUBERT

Those Supplying Ammunition To the Guns Are Kept On the Jump.

[Canadian Press.]

General Headquarters of the British Army in France, Thursday, June 17.—(Correspondence.)—Shells and shells, and then more shells—shells by the cord, by the motor truck load, by trainload and shipload. Shells of all sizes from one you can carry under your arm to giants which are rolled off the car onto the motor truck. At a certain railroad head, near the front one hears the direct call of the hungry guns.

A soldier clerk sitting at a desk in a freight car of ammunition keeps a tabulation sheet of every class sent to a certain sector of the front. These tables are the barometer of the amount of fighting—day by day—in that sector.

"This was a very peaceful day," said an ordnance officer in charge, indicating a certain day. "We were doing hardly any business at all."

A very peaceful day meant a matter of only a few hundred shells which this distributing centre supplies. At such times the piles of conical steel cases with their hearts of shrapnel bullets or high powered explosives accumulate.

"Then," as the officer said, "we taken it easy."

All On the Jump.

For the last 36 hours, however, all hands had been on the jump. The British had been attacking in the Festubert section, and the great motor trucks had swarmed round the ammunition train like a thirsty horde around a watering trough.

"That's your lot, my man, and off you go." Its order filled, a truck backs away from the car door to give place to another, and speeds on toward its battery, hidden from aerial observation, which it reaches.

"Those gunners were very greedy last night," said the officer. "They pretty nearly cleaned us out of all of their favorite brand which we had on hand here."

But not many miles away more trains were on the way from another base while a still bigger base was behind that.

"Yes, all that number in 36 hours," said the officer. "Think of the pile they would make if all were put together in one lot. It puzzles me how they are all fired; what becomes of them all and how the factories can make so many. Of course, we don't get up to the front to see them fired, or back to the rear where they came from. Our business is simply to transfer, and to make sure that those at the rear have enough on the way to supply the appetite at the front."

Quiet Scene.

This transfer business went on as methodically as any freight business. The quiet railway yard seemed to have nothing to do with war.

"Sometimes, though," the officer added, "the gunners eyes are bigger than their appetites."

He indicated another set of figures in the tabulator. They were the numbers of shells of different sorts returned from the front after an action. After the motor trucks arrived and waited at the given point near the guns the battery commander found that he had more than he wanted for the present, so he sent back the consignment, which was entered on the books.

Every shell is accounted for. If there is waste without results it can be traced. The transfer station feels the demands of the trade, as it were, from the front and passes back its report.

There may be no mistakes between types, for each type is painted a distinctive color or with distinctive bands.

1,000 Bullets; One Death.

Not only shells but everything else wanted at the front in the way of explosives was represented. Do they need more trench mortars or more hand grenades in the trenches, these also must be supplied, and according to the taste of the customer. War is business these days, and the business of the ordnance is to furnish the weapons that do the killing—the very important and grimly refined part of the business.

"Bullets also," remarked the officer, "are passed out for the machine guns and rifles at the front, millions. Enough in a single action along one section of the line to kill all the soldiers from Switzerland to the North Sea if every one found its mark. One in a thousand does, perhaps, whether fired by Britain or German. The factories can keep on feeding the armies with bullets and if 1,000 bullets take the life of one enemy and save one of your own men, which factories cannot replace, that is good business in war as fought along the siege line in France."

OFFICIAL VATICAN ORGAN INDIGNANT

Says Press Is Showing Lack of Respect For the Pope.

[Canadian Press.]

Rome, June 28, via Paris, June 29.—The Osservatore Romano, the official organ of the Vatican, publishing the statement made by Cardinal Pietro Gasparri, papal secretary of state, in which he declared Pope Benedict was misquoted in the published interview obtained from him last week by Louis Latapie, a member of the staff of the Paris La Libertie, makes this comment:

"From this interview it follows that the ideas of the Pope must be sought again in official pontifical documents, and not in words never uttered, but which were attributed to the Pontiff, and which were reproduced with fantastic interpretation in the newspapers, without respect for the august dignity of the Pope.

"Additional evidence of this lack of respect is found in the discussion of the letter from the Pope to Prince Von Buelow. An effort has been made to give it political character and significance, whereas it was a private letter replying to Prince Von Buelow, who, unable to visit the Vatican, believed it well to write the Pope to take leave of him, and ask his benediction for the princess. Attempts are being made to contort this letter into a political document, and the newspapers even ask its publication without regard to the Pope."

TALK OVER BALKANS WAS GERMAN OBJECT

Visit of Diplomats to Vienna Made for This Purpose.

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, via London, June 29.—Inquiries made in various diplomatic and official quarters tend to confirm the announcement made yesterday by the Frankfurter Zeitung that the chief purpose of the visit of Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg and Foreign Minister Von Jagow to Vienna is to discuss the Balkan situation. It is not known here whether Russia's offer of concessions to Roumania included the immediate concession of part of Bessarabia, but it is understood to have been a part of the Roumanian demands.

The trip of Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollwek and Herr Von Jagow, coming upon the heels of the Austro-German victories in Galicia, caused rumors of impending peace negotiations, but so far as can be learned this is not the object of their visit.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS' ACT SYMPTOMATIC

Italians Think Demand for Peace Shows Change in Feeling.

[Canadian Press.]

Milan, Italy, June 28—Via Paris, June 29—(Delayed by censor).—The appeal of the German Socialists in favor of peace is considered here to be most symptomatic of the change that has taken place in a large section of public opinion at the end of the first year of the great war. Such an appeal, it is believed here, would have been impossible in July, 1914.

Italian intransigient Socialists have been approached with the object of seeing whether they were ready to take similar steps towards their Government. The opinion prevails in Milan, however, that they will first see what the Socialists of other countries concerned in the European conflict will decide to do.
