The Cane Parliament was to meet for the dispatch of business on the 27th of April. At the time of the Briton's departure from Table Bay Governor Sir Henry Barkly was hourly expected in Capetown, per H M ship Sirius, from Algoa Bay, from his visit to the diamond fields, Busptoland and the frontier. It was feared that a frontier was was imminent. President Brand having ordered 1000 Free State burgers on command to Poiel to enforce Free State authority, the High Comand mounted police to the frost, and threatened to meet force with force. The great majority of the diggers are for British role. The diggers were preparing for war, and some of them had 'jumped' two cannons belonging to the native chief Jantie. o There is nothing new of special interest from the diamond fields. The Standard and Mail says : 'The diamond fields have become so much a part and parcel of our colonial existence that the large finds which are from time to time reported fail to prouse any excitement. Instead of failing off, the finde increase wonderfully. Society is organizing itself at the fields, and when the Free State difficulty is settled we shall have a commu-nity at the Vasl by no means the smallest or the least important of this colony. The idea that the fields would induce a great rush from England has been dispelled. expect that a large number of Americans will come over in the course of the next year. Some have already strived, among them newspaper specials, and diamond machinery has been sent here by Mr Raymond, the son of the leading New York journalist, who intends mining on a large scale.'

Impending Changes.

about the immediate future. The change is, for British Columbia, radical in its consequences. Not only does it exchange the position of a Cro.rn Colony

The deceased young man came to this colony in 1863 with his parents and learned the trade of printing in the Chronicle office. Bubsequertly he went to Ban Francisco and was actively ensaged in the prosecution of his business when he was attacked with consumption. Retarning to this city last wint r, he lingered until yesterday, when, not withstanding the kindest care and attention bestowed by devoted relatives, he breathed his last. We tender his bereaved friends our deep sympathy in their very great distress.
