Cured His Rheumatism In Three Weeks.
James LeB. Johnstone, a prominent member of the Citizen's Band, of Chatham, writes:
"I contracted Rheumatism by exposure five years ago, and was suffering for two months and in great pain all the time. I got Father Morriscy's
"No. 7" Tablets and took them for about three weeks and lo! the Rheumatism was gone and we got it have had no return of the pain since."
Father Morriscy's
"No. 7" Tablets
Rheumatism is generally brought on by exposure, but is really caused by Uric Acid in the blood. This Uric Acid is an irritating poison, formed from the waste matter of the body. The kidneys should remove it, but when they fail it poisons the blood, and, settling in the joints, causes Rheumatism.
"No. 7" Tablets clear out the clogged-up kidneys and stimulate them to perform their task of filtering the Uric Acid out of the blood. When this is done the Rheumatism simply and naturally vanishes.
"No. 7" Tablets cost 50c. At your dealer's. 23

Wireless Experiments Were Successful and Station to be Erected.
A MYSTERIOUS CODE
Remarkable results have been achieved by the Los Angeles expedition that went to Mt. Wilson Saturday for experiment with wireless telegraph apparatus. The mysterious flashes that have been puzzling local wireless operators were distinctly heard by members of the expedition.
As a result of these experiments a wireless telegraph station will be established at Orchard Camp, the "house" on the Mt. Wilson trail. James McNally of Orchard Camp has given the necessary permission and the apparatus will be installed at once. The aerial which catches the flying messages will be, it is asserted, the highest in the world. It will consist of two five-strand wires 2000 feet in length, suspended between two mountain peaks. The receiving and sending instruments will be in a cage 1000 feet below.
F. D. Mackay, head of the Southern Pacific School of Telegraphy, in charge of the party, left Mt. Wilson yesterday for supplies, and will return to the heights this morning. He said last night that the success of this trip had been beyond expectation.
"Owing to the distance of our camp from the nearest power plant, it will be necessary to run a wire for electricity through the forest," he said. So far, thirty-eight different stations have been heard from throughout the country. Five of these are unknown to us, and evidently are ships at sea. Only eighteen could be read from our Los Angeles station.
The law regarding privacy of telegraph messages prohibits my making known the subject matter of the messages received while Mr. Wilson is here.

Idyll Location
It has been established that there is no induction or other interference which makes the holding of messages on this mountain as accurate and clear as telegraph work on metallic circuits. The only reason why it is not used in the receivers, besides the other waves, is a faint ripple coming from a brook, where we planted our ground wire.
During the first two days, the receiving operators were much puzzled by flashes which were made up of dots—no dashes being used. We were first inclined to believe that these sparks were sent out by amateurs. Later the persistence and accuracy in handling the work and the impossibility of tuning out the sparks convinced me that there was method and experience in the sending. I also read sure that the messages came from a distant point.
Seventeen years' experience in the telegraph service seemed to later avail in reading this dashing code. From the first moment that I heard it, there was something strangely familiar about it, but it was impossible to read it until it occurred to me that the Morse code was being used.
I had eleven months' practice in this code during the Spanish War and with a few minutes' practice, I was able to translate entire messages with flash signals such as "lancers," "bells," "graph" and "searchlight." Sound signals are also utilized, such as those made with fog horns or bugles.
Starting Results
Mr. McKay asserted that the mysterious flashes are all that they are represented to be and that he received on a 500-foot aerial at an elevation of one mile, the result is startling.
"It is impossible," he said, "to keep the eeders on the operators' head when the air is charged with this tremendous current, and the signals can be distinctly heard at a distance of ten feet from the receiving apparatus. I am familiar with all the telegraph codes. If this great spark or lightning signal is used, it will be the Morse or Continental alphabet he Morse. We are therefore unable to venture an opinion as to the origin of this spark.
"One thing has been established—it is not the result of an electrical disturbance. The precision with which each character is formed, and the occasional pauses, show me techniques of one experienced in telegraphic work. I leave it to others to suggest the sender of this mysterious code."

A GRAPHIC ACCOUNT
Perhaps the most graphic picture of the great Italian earthquake, as it effected those who survived, is given in yesterday's New York Herald. The narrator is one Degris, an officer of the Italian constabulary, who happened to be out in the country near Scylla when the shock came. Here is the story as told on his arrival in New York:
Just before daylight there was a sudden rush of the air all around and hideous, shrieking, crashing, roaring noises were heard at a distance. Down the mountainside came huge boulders and quantities of earth, sliding and rolling. From the town below arose the distant din of rocks and buildings falling.
Long after the earth ceased its motion this continued, and the sea and the heavens gave forth the strangest noises, while in the west and south there were great bursts of light. The peasant accompanying Degris was screaming with terror and holding on to his donkey, which was trying to run away.
Now came a great roar from all along the shore as if the sea were trying to engulf the land, but gradually all grew quiet. After some little time they proceeded, picking their way over the now dangerous trail and as soon as it was light enough to see they labored in the thicket near them the enormous damage which had been done by the shock.
Soon they met a man and two children running, crying and wailing, along the road. The man called out that the end of the world had come, that the devil had got his brother and his brother's wife, and he was fleeing to a chapel in the mountains.
Still pressing on toward the town, they met more fugitives, nearly all of them clutching, and some holding, a long or being half carried. All warned Degris not to go on to the town, but he continued until by the light of day he saw that there was no town to which to go. The curved path with the projecting rock on which it had stood was shattered, crumbled, and above the sea protruded bits of rock that were all that was left above the sea of the city, which the earthquake had chipped down into it.

WHY DO WOMEN WORRY?
First Sign Failing of Health
Worry is a disease—and it's more! It produces other diseases, because it breaks down the nerves and saps the vitality of the body.
What a pity women don't realize that if they were well—if the blood was nutritious—if the nerves were strong—if all the organs were active—then the little things that irritate and prey on the mind wouldn't receive a moment's thought.
The woman who worries has a poor appetite—she sleeps poorly. If it only lasted for a day or two it might be of small consequence—but she grows fimp miserable, unhappy—worse day by day.
She needs Perrozene which cures worry by curing the conditions that render worry possible. For nervous, weak women, no tonic is so good; thousands of ladies have tried it. Miss M. E. Richardson of St. Louis writes: "I am really willing to give a public testimonial for Perrozene, believing it to be a tonic of superior excellence and one that will rapidly build up strength and supply new energy to anyone not feeling well. Last spring I was in a very poor condition of health. I was nervous, fed tired, and completely worn out. No doubt, it's quite a common complaint of women of my age. I placed great reliance in Perrozene, and took it for several weeks. It made me quite strong, and in fact I have been in better health since. I can heartily recommend Perrozene."
Perrozene cures by making good food, strong nerves and a healthy body.
This is why it gives color, clearness to the skin, buoyancy to the step, brightness to the eyes—because with good digestion and activity of the body in all its parts there's health! Price 50c. per box at all dealers.
