If you want something out of the common for dessert, this store is where you want to come. You will get it out of the common in quality, decidedly below the ordinary in price.

THE HOME

SOME VARIOUS HINTS.

When washing handkerchiefs put two tea-spoonfuls of ammonia into one gallon of water, to soften the fabric.

Flour thrown over burning oil will instantly extinguish it, while water only spreads the flames.

When grease is spilled on the kitchen floor, pour cold water upon it at once. This will harden it, and prevent its soaking into the boards.

Silk dresses should never be brushed, but should be carefully rubbed with an old piece of velvet kept especially for that purpose.

A dying fire may be coaxed into life by scattering over the embers a tablespoonful of granulated sugar.

The tender leaves and small ends of the stalks of celery, if dried, are excellent for flavoring soups.

To renew velvet, cover the face of a flat-iron with a wet cloth, hold the wrong side of the velvet next to this cloth until thoroughly steamed, then brush the pile with a soft brush.

To powder parsley, the bunch is dipped quickly into boiling water to make it a brilliant green; then put it into a hot oven for a few minutes to dry thoroughly. After this it may be broken into tiny flakes.

NEW USE FOR GLASS.

The use of glass, instead of china has become popular for bedrooms in London, according to the "Daily Mail" and there really is something very bright in the aspect of a room that has a white or cream striped paper, gay chintz curtains of a flowery pattern, and on the washstand of which is placed a piece of plate-glass with mats of Irish lace, and on which, in turn, you stand the basin, jugs, bottles, etc., also of glass!

For powder pots, large and small, are glass ones with lids, and for jewel receptacles, can one imagine anything daintier than a glass dish which has a lid and is supplied with a rose-colored cushion on which to lay brooches in use, chains, pendants, and the like? Glass candlesticks are nice with rose-colored candles and shades, the latter covered with lace.

The newest idea is to paint a piece of glass for washstand or toilet table on the under side with blue, pink, silver oxidized paint—what you will, color shows through very prettily.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

If your table linen is extra good quality it does not need starching; for a glass may be imparted by tracing it out in boiling water and ironing while still damp.

By ironing on the right side of a tablecloth or napkin, a high gloss is obtained by ironing out the wrong side the design is brought out more clearly. After ironing in the latest fashion, however, it is wise to turn the cloth and iron lightly on the right side.

The removal of stains from linen is the most troublesome of all laundry tasks. Tea and coffee stains can be obliterated by stretching the stained part flat on a table wetting it with cold water and then rubbing with equal parts of glycerine and lukewarm water.

Once a stain is removed the linen needs but little rubbing. Simply soak it thoroughly, soak and rub on a board in hot soda. It should then be rinsed well and washed in a thin niting water.

DULL, LUSTRELESS EYES.

Beautiful eyes and brows are, in one sense, a special gift of nature. Many a plain woman is redeemed by fine eyes; many a pretty face spoiled by red-rimmed, dull lusterless eyes. But at the same time a great deal may be done to make even unimpaired eyes clear and attractive, to render eyes which are only passably pretty really beautiful.

Attention to the general health will go far to make the eyes clear and bright and prevent fatigue, even when they are tired.

There are lots of honest people in the world. If you have lost something perhaps an honorable person found it.

This is an honest paper and honest people read it.

they are called upon to do a great deal of work.

Have you never noticed the dull eyes of a person afflicted with dyspepsia, the yellow tinge of overfed liver, the lustreless eyes of the woman who sleeps in an ill-ventilated room, who takes no exercise and spends all her spare time reading novels over the fire?

LIFE.

I would walk softly with my fellow-men, Content to be, nor seek for things too high; I would know love a little while, and then, Bid all good-bye.

And yet it may be, that there is no rest; An angel beckons, but I grope and fall; Life tantalizes with an endless quest, And that is all.

It may be it is better so to live, With hands outstretched, and eyes that hope to see, It may be God has greater gifts to give Unknown to me.

EVIL SPEAKING.

Keep clear of personalities in conversation. Talk of things, objects, thoughts. The smallest minds occupy themselves with persons. Do not needlessly report ill of others. As far as possible, dwell on the good side of human beings. There are family boards where a constant process of depreciating, assigning motives and cutting up character goes forward. They are not pleasant places. One who is healthy does not wish to dine at a dissecting table. There is evil enough in man, God knows. But it is not the mission of every young man and woman to detail and report it all. Keep the atmosphere as pure as possible, and fragrant with gentleness and charity.

Stains in table linen may be easily removed by plunging the article in pure boiling water. Soap and water would have the effect of fixing the stains.

Tan leather boots can be nicely cleaned with turpentine. Pour a few drops on a woolen cloth and rub.

Gentlemen,—Last winter I received great benefit from the use of MINARD'S LINIMENT in a severe attack of La Grippe, and I have frequently proved it to be very effective in cases of inflammation.

Parishore Leader—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spicer, of Spencer's Island, were called upon on Saturday and Sunday last to pass through the agony of parting with two of their children—a boy and girl. It is supposed the children ate some decayed apples, the poison of which quickly developed into cholera morbus, causing the children's death within a few hours of each other. The grief-stricken parents have the sympathy of a large circle of friends, with whom the Leader joins.

PURITY FLOUR

SUBS TORONTO FOR HIS CHILD'S DEATH.

As Result of Toronto Isolation Hospital Inquiry.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—Mr. Jas. Rogers has entered suit against the city and others claiming damages to the extent of $20,000 for the death of his four-year-old boy, Frank Rogers, in the Isolation Hospital on June 30, last. Mr. Rogers is the man who first started the inquiry into the management of the Isolation Hospital. His son was admitted to the hospital suffering from diphtheria, and when convalescent he contracted scarlet fever and measles and died from the combination. Mr. Rogers claimed that a scarlet fever patient was placed in a bed on one side of his boy and a measles patient in the bed on the other side and gives as the ground for action, "Gross negligence, bad management and bad conditions."

Canadian News Service

Halifax, Nov. 24.—The Eastern Press Association was in conference here all day on Wednesday. The following representatives were present: C. F. Pearson, Chronicle; C. F. Crandall, Chronicle; W. Dennis, Herald; C. C. Blackadar, Recorder; F. B. Kelly, St. John Globe; F. W. McCready, St. John Telegraph; H. N. McKinnon, St. John Standard; E. J. Payson, Moncton Times; A. D. McNeill, Glas Day Gazette; A. R. Coffin, Truro News; J. T. Hawke, Moncton Transcript, was recommended as a director on the Canadian Press directorate, in place of C. F. Crandall, resigned in consequence of going to Montreal to reside.

C. F. Crandall was appointed the association's representative at Montreal, where the world's telegraphic news will be collected for the Maritime Province papers.

All essential arrangements were completed for the Canadian papers to begin gathering and distributing their own news service after January first next.

The visiting members of the Association were entertained at lunch at the Halifax Club by the Halifax daily newspaper proprietors. The organization of the Eastern Press Association was completed.

PUPIL'S AILMENTS

One Out of Every Twelve Declared to Have Poor Eyesight.

Toronto, Nov. 17.—In advocating medical inspection for schools of the Province at the Ontario Women's Institute convention, Dr. Helen McMurphy stated that out of every twelve scholars one had defective eyesight. Something defective about the throat, eyes, or ears were hindrances to the pupil, which could be over come by the physician.
