

a bonus for every bona fide matriculated student that shall have passed the sessional examination of the University with which the College is affiliated. The amount of this bonus to be determined as follows :

The average Academy grant to be taken as a basis. The total bonus to be divided by the number of pupils who have passed the June examination, the quotient (being the rate per pupil in the Academies) to be multiplied by two (2).

The bonus per student in the Affiliated Colleges will thus be twice that per pupil in the Academies, and its grant twice the Academy grant.

If there should remain a surplus after these bonuses and grants have been assigned, it shall be distributed between the Universities, Academies and Model Schools as follows : one-third to Universities, three-fifths of remainder to Academies, and the residue to the Model Schools.

ACADEMIES AND MODEL SCHOOLS.

The grants to Universities and Affiliated Colleges being thus provided for, the amount remaining to be distributed as follows : Three-fifths to the Academies and the Special Schools that rank as Academies and two-fifths to Model Schools and special schools that rank as Model Schools.

The following is recommended to determine the relative standing of the different schools and consequently the amount of their bonuses :

1. Grand Total of Marks.
2. Average of the Percentages per Grade.
3. Percentage of those enrolled who presented themselves for examination.
4. Percentage of passes, reckoned on those who presented themselves for examination.
5. Average of percentage of those presented who passed in Geometry, Algebra, Latin, French, English and Greek or a subject in Natural Science.
6. General excellence of examination and of schools, as shown by reports of the Inspector.
7. Average number who passed in subjects of Sec 5.

Each of the above to have a maximum value of one hundred marks.

In considering the bonus, no material diminution should take place on the result of one year's work, unless an extraordinary falling off in marks should be shown and not accounted for by circumstances outside the management of the school.
