

REJOICING OF THE QUEBEC ZULUS OVER LETELLIER'S DISMISSAL.

There are beauties of Nature and beauties of Art
And beauties of form, face and mind;

"His Usefulness is Gone."

When roared the fiery Frenchman
For Luc LETELLIER's head,
There wasn't any legal cause
Why his blood should be shed,
'Twas then an inspiration
Occured to old Sir JOHN,
And he coined that happy, artful phrase,
"His usefulness is gone."

This sentence is a treasure,
(All JOHN A.'s words are such)
For it may mean just nothing,
Or't may mean very much;
There's hardly any circumstance
It will not fasten on—
'Tis a universal coup de grace,
"His usefulness is gone;"

For instance, here's a lover
Whose courting don't progress,
He'll never pop the question
Though you're ready with the Yes,
Now, could such a sorry laggard
In the race of life get on?
No, you'd better up and tell him
"His usefulness is gone."

Here's a modern man of business,
Alert, alive and keen,
We thought them true and sterling
And everthing but mean;
Yet he one day compromises,
The next comes out bon ton,
He's proved himself a crooked knave,
"His usefulness is gone."

So through the various ranks of life
The words of cute Sir JOHN
Can be applied on every hand—
"His usefulness is gone!"

The Ottawa Free Press keeps a scientist as a reporter—the only one of the sort on this continent. He is an adept in the higher branches of physical phenomena, having studied up in a balloon. The other day he gave a long and brilliant description of a thunder storm, in which he said: "There was one particularly heavy crash of thunder, and the lightning followed almost instantaneously."

BALDNESS!

Neither gasoline, vasoline, carboline, or Allen's, Ayer's, or Hall's hair restorers have produced luxuriant hair on bald heads. That great discovery is due to Mr. Winter-corbyn, 144 King-street, West, opposite Revere Block, as can be testified to by hundreds of living witnesses in this city and Province. He challenges all the so-called restorers to produce a like result.
