

(a) was an offence in the Requesting State at the time it occurred; and

(b) would, if it had occurred in the Requested State at the time of the making of the request for extradition, have constituted an offence against the laws in force in that State.