

Canadians, this means that the federal government has surrendered. The parents will have to pay the bill. We have learned in committee that automobiles had even been purchased by the CYC. Nobody knows what happened to them. While money is being wasted, the young who want to contribute to the building of this country, according to sound ideas, are unable to do so for lack of money.

Mr. Speaker, again I say that we, of the Ralliement créditiste, ask for the dissolution of the Company of Young Canadians.

The groups I have mentioned urge the young people to perform one good deed each day and I believe that those should be subsidized rather than the Company in question, who is responsible neither to Parliament nor to anybody.

The Secretary of State said that the Company will remain in existence despite all the charges made against it; however, we shall vote against the bill because we demand the dissolution of that organization. Moreover, we are convinced that the scouts, girl guides, cadets and other young people in this country would make better use of public funds while serving the community.
