

Mr. Deputy Speaker: Pursuant to Standing Order 25, such a motion is not debatable. I therefore will put it to the House. Is it the pleasure of the House to adopt the said motion?

Some hon. Members: Agreed.

Some hon. Members: No.

Mr. Deputy Speaker: All those in favour of the motion will please say yea.

Some hon. Members: Yea.

Mr. Deputy Speaker: All those opposed will please say nay.

Some hon. Members: Nay.

Mr. Deputy Speaker: In my opinion the nays have it.

And more than five members having risen:

Mr. Deputy Speaker: Call in the members.

The House divided on the motion (Mr. Breau), which was negated on the following division:

Mr. Speaker: I declare the motion lost.

Mr. Lorne Nystrom (Yorkton-Melville): Mr. Speaker, the quickest way to evacuate the House is for me to get up to speak.

Some hon. Members: Oh, oh!

Some hon. Members: Hear, hear!

Mr. Speaker: Order, please.

Mr. Nystrom: I obviously do not have the charisma of the hon. member for Saint-Maurice (Mr. Chrétien) or the hon. member for Windsor West (Mr. Gray), Mr. Speaker, but I could not resist getting up to speak for a few moments on a bill that is presented to the House by an old friend, the Minister of Finance (Mr. Crosbie)—old "Scrooge MacCrosbie" over there who is bound and determined, now that he is on the treasury benches, to do all he can to make things tougher and tighter for the ordinary people of this country.

I have spent a lot of time reading old Scrooge MacCrosbie speeches made when he was sitting in opposition. He spoke then of the inflation rate being too high and how it was hurting little people, how the interest rate was too high and was hurting ordinary people, how the high interest rate was hurting the maritime provinces and Newfoundland. He said that when he got into government he would wave a magic wand and remedy all these problems. All of a sudden he is in government and he has turned into a real Scrooge. He is tightening the screws on the treasury.

Mr. Ferguson: A point of order, Mr. Speaker.
