My dear Johnny:-

I suppose we shall be seeing you in Montreal some of these days. In the meanwhile I might say that the Dean of the Faculty of Arts is favourably disposed to let Donald start his third year in Arts with ^{out} any additional examinations, on the completion of his course at the Royal Military College. Normally he would be obliged to pass an examination in Latin, and I need hardly tell you that if he is going to take up Law at Oxford, Latin will be an absolute necessity.

I should suggest that without worrying about any other Arts subjects he take up such a study of Latin as will not interfere with his satisfactory completion of the work with the R.M.C. Such completion is important, as it is on the basis of his present standing that the Dean of the Faculty of Arts has expressed his willingness to take him in.

I am glad to hear that he is getting on so well at tennis; we need a few "comers". I do hope that he can get some really good coaching. There is very little attention paid to this among our young people today.

Kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

Wilfrid Bovey.
