

In addition, Miss Lindeburgh will teach and conduct a health education programme at the Royal Victoria Hospital School of Nursing, thus insuring health for the students and providing a demonstration and practice field in health education for all students in the McGill School for Graduate Nurses.

Miss Eileen Flanagan, before entering the profession of nursing, completed two years in the Faculty of Arts, McGill University. She graduated from the Royal Victoria Hospital School of Nursing in 1923. Since graduation, Miss Flanagan has had a rather wide and varied clinical experience as head nurse, and supervisor, and assistant in administration in the office of the above School of Nursing, her experience in supervision covering almost every service. For three years Miss Flanagan was in charge of the Research Ward of the McGill University Clinic in the Royal Victoria Hospital. During that time she took an active part in all the research work conducted by the Medical School, showing a special capacity for this type of study. Her interest and success as a clinical teacher, her development of the case-study and other methods of teaching, her influence with the students, and her keen interest in the nursing care and general welfare of her patients all demonstrated her special fitness for the field of clinical teacher and supervisor. During the past year, Miss Flanagan has completed the course for instructors at the McGill School for Graduate Nurses.

For the Preparation of Administrators in Schools of Nursing.

Miss Kathleen Hill has been appointed on a part-time basis to take charge of the field work in administration. This will consist of a well-organised programme of weekly excursions with conferences providing for observation, participation and supervised practice in professional and educational administration. The excursions will be planned to give the future administrators of schools of nursing a broad and sympathetic understanding of the various fields of nursing in which their students may be engaged and for which they are to receive their basic preparation. The excursions will include not only hospitals and schools of nursing, but all the community health and welfare activities which, linked together, comprise the programme for the maintenance of health and the prevention and cure of disease.
