EMPIRE AT STAKE IN EUROPEAN WAR

"If We Go Under Today, We German Right Foiled in At-Reports From Berlin Are Giv-Go Under Forever," Says Archdeacon.

RACE OF ARMAMENTS

Prof. De Lury Said British Subjects Have Duty to Do in Crisis.

The University Polity Club is not an anachronism at the present time, according to Archdeacon Cody and Prof. Alfred T. DeLury in the addresses at the first meeting of that organization in the Central Y.M.C.A. last evening, for the study of international relationships is a most acute one. There were 156 present, of whom one-third were students of the university. Peace was the constructive hope held out to humanity, and it was what they were hoping would emerge out of the chaos of the present conflict, according to Archdeacon Cody. The race of armaments had only two solutions, he declared; one was that all the nations should disarm, and the other was the policy of mutual destruction, which was indeed the alternative chosen. "We are fighting for the sake of ul-timate peace," said he. "Statesmen must find the solution by disarmament or elso lose their positions."

The causes which have culminated in the war were suggested by Arch-deacon Cody, who mentioned the reaction towards Kant, the phenomena of pan-Germanism, the relation be-tween the Teuton and the Slav and certain of Germany's philosophers and educators whose influence may have been thrown into the scale.

Empire at Stake.

The question at stake, declared rehdeacon Cody, was whether there was such a thing as international to be made and then disre garded. It had at stake the question as to whether nationality or humanity was higher in the scale; it had to decide the value of the contribution that small nations might make to the world. It was a conflict between the democratic form of government and RUSSIAN VICTORY democratic form of government and the autocratic.

"The continued life of the British Empire is at stake," exclaimed the archdeacon. "If we go under today, we go under forever. Would it be for the better if the British Empire and all that it had stood for should disappear? That is involved in the present struggle. The continued life of the empire is in danger. Peace is the constructive hope."

Prof. DeLury stated that the alternation.

Prof. DeLury stated that the ultimate hope of students of international polity was the settlement of disputes between nations by means other than war. British subjects had a duty to do, and he had no doubt that hundreds of 'varsity men would respond to the call to arms. In this latest development in Europe there could be noted a decline in the influence of gentler feelings, retrograde to those which feelings, retrograde to those which were exhibited as late as 1870. The control of the ultra-militarist and the results of his policy were traced by Prof. DeLury, who said that things

Is it to Be an Election?

The papers are giving space to news the electors of the Dominion. The most generally accepted story is that Messrs. Rogers and Cochrane are for an election, and that they are trying to persuade Sir Robert Borden into disolving parliament and having the voting over in six weeks. Mr. Pelletier, the postmaster-general, is said to side with Messrs. Cochrane and Rogers; he, however, is very ill and wants to resign; in consequence of this Mr. Rogers is anxious to have Mr. Casgrain of Montreal brought into the cabinet from Quebec, not in place of Mr. Pelletier but to be an active Quebec minister for forcing on an election. No official announcement of night. If it comes it means an election. The Liberals do not want an election, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier has given out a statement against it. He says to hold an election now would be to make "scraps of paper" of the law, and of the order-in-council putting over for this year the final work on the voters' lists for Manitoba. Sir Wilfrid uses the phrase "scrap of paper" quite dextrously, but an order-in-council is not an agreement or a treaty, but an act of a government, point a special army sanitary com- and therefore it might be held as revokand in any case not binding on

Dr. Norton Tells Baptist Convention Religion Will Be Greatest Power.

The 26th annual Baptist Convention of the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec was opened last night at Walmer Road Baptist Church. The body of the church was well filled with delegates and clergymen from all over the country. Rev. John MacNeill, pastor of the church, opened the convention with the devotional exercises and welor with the devotional exercises and welcomed the visitors to his parish. Rev. Dr. W. E. Norton, president of the convention, delivered his inaugural address. He said that the moral failure of a leading citizen spelled com-plications which were disastrous because of the close community of his neighbor and other conditions. The existing conditions in Canada made it expedient that every con-science become sensitive to these things, so that the capitalist could see things, so that the capitalist could see that the administration of municipal affairs was satisfactorily adjusted.

The religion of today should be a spiritual one, and spiritual influences should teach man that it is a necessity. The present way had been necessity. The present war had been brought about by a crisis in national history, but its solution would do more to extend the principles of Christianity than any other power that has threat-ened to move the hearts of men. Rev. E. J. Stobo, S.T.D., presented the report on the state of reigion, in which were many interesting facts showing how the Baptist Church was extending. Eighteen new ministers were or dained, but there are two less churches than last year. The net gain in membership was 424, and the total amount
