

Two Runaway Games Played At Tecumseh Park on Saturday; Champions Lose To the Hoodooed Foundrymen in East End

Tinsmiths Made a Runaway Match of It, and Stars Beat Rockets Eleven to Six

Feature of Saturday's Games at Tecumseh Park Was Fine Stick-Work.

Bad, indifferent, coupled with a small crowd, and threatening weather, served to make Saturday's City League games the poorest of the season from every point of view. Even the umpire seemed afflicted with an attack of extreme weariness, and it is certain that his eyesight was somewhat affected as well, for some of his decisions to the unprepared spectators looked to be very much off-color. The cause of the all-around lack of finger may have been the weather, or it may have been because the fans have become so used to hearing and guessing a few squabbles with the arduous on strikes and balls, that contests minus similar features may seem void of life, when in reality they may be as exciting as the average diamond conflicts.

Both bouts were runaways, and to go into minute detail in describing them would be cruel to the losers.

Clark Replaced.

Conflict No. 1 brought together the Tinsmiths and the Bakers. Both crews had with them their little poke-sticks, but the first-named outfit were there a few notches stronger in the swat department than the little fellows. Little Joe Clark essayed to dish up puzzles for the Bakers, but only traveled three and a half beats, when he was sent to the bench in favor of one Thompson, who in turn was belted to the four corners of the garden. When the team takes a batting streak there is nothing to it, and even Thompson had only been out on the rubber a very short time before he became painfully aware that there is more truth than poetry in the assertion. At that, though, the support tendered both Clark and Thompson was raw in spots, discolored in others, and of the corner-let variety on the whole. Before delving into the midst of the fracas, it must be remarked that Costello, for the victors, was a whole-battling artillery in himself, making out of five times up a total of four bingles, including a three-sacker, a two-bagger, and two singles. Each of them brought in a brace of runs.

Phillips did the ghost dance around first base, and was nearly nipped.

McClarys All the Way.

Everything was McClary throughout the game, and it was not until the seventh time away that the Bakers passed over the pan. At the song Jackson and Gibson drew bases, purloined a sack apiece and rammed home on Costello's two-sacker.

Bill and Gibson's singles, coupled with a poke for three stations, by the selfsame Costello, netted another pair of tallies in session three. The next round found Mr. Thompson on the firing line for the unfortunate Bakers, and he started off like a real winner, striking out the first two men who faced him. However, the leaders were not to be denied, and it wasn't long before they peppered the Thompson delivery quite merrily, and scored two runs, when, if Ward had played anything like decent baseball, there wouldn't have been a run scored in that inning. Gregory got in the way of a pitched ball, Bell singled; Gibson hit to Ward, who proceeded to juggle with the ball for a few moments, until the runner had first base clinched, and the first two named scored on a single by Costello.

Jumble of Hits, Runs and Errors.

To obtain a correct impression of chapter five, one must close his eyes and imagine himself on a merry-go-round. Hits, errors and runs came and went so fast as to almost defy accurate description, and the scorekeeper of the league afterwards admitted that he had been obliged to score in short-hand while the thing lasted, in order to keep pace with the conglomeration of incidents. Ecclestone connected for a station. Ball poked to Ward, who tried to hit a passing cloud in throwing to first. Ecclestone scoring on the error. Phillips singled and Ball scored. At this juncture Wanless and Phillips pulled off a little comedy stunt at first, which served to brighten matters up considerably, and tickled the fans immensely.

Costello's Handy Stick.

Beaton threw wild to first, and Phillips, thinking that Wanless wouldn't be able to field it, started for second. Wanless nabbed the ball a few feet in.

Canadian Club Specials for Today Well Filled

The Canadian Club special races in connection with the big athletic meet at Queen's Park this afternoon are particularly well filled. The relay race of half a mile, in relays of 220 yards each, open to all city public and separate schools, takes place promptly at 1:45 p.m. Entries have been received from teams representing the following schools: Simcoe Street, Victoria School, South London, Chesley Avenue, West London, St. George's, Lorne Avenue, Rectory Street, and St. Mary's and St. Peter's separate schools.

Four handsome solid gold medals, modeled after the Canadian Club crest and coat of arms, one for each member of the winning team, should assist in the fulfillment of the Canadian Club's object of instilling into the minds of the younger generation the sentiment of Canadian patriotism.

The 100-yard boys' race takes place at 3:15 p.m., and is open only to those who have competed unsuccessfully in the relay race. It will be filled by post entries. Three fountain pens are the prizes for this event.

The championship of Middlesex relay race of one mile, in relays of 440 yards for each man, is also well filled. Four medals slightly larger than those for the school boys' race, but of the same design, will be presented to members of the winning team. The race takes place immediately after the boys' race. The township of Delaware will be represented by Allan Monteith, Frank Malters, Harry Allen, and Ewart Ryckman; London Township by H. K. Coleman, George Kennedy, Harry Gibson and Andrew Freeborn. Elfrid, Mosa, Nissouri and Adelaide have also entered, but omitted sending in the personnel of their teams. On two previous occasions the different townships of the county of Middlesex have battled for supremacy on the cinder path, and from the interest at present manifested, together with the feelings of past victories and defeats, will make this one of the most interesting of all events. The big meet today should attract a large crowd of London's citizens, and it is hoped the grand stand will be filled to overflowing to assist this newly-organized athletic association in its splendid undertaking.

The Canadian Club sports committee who are looking after the relay races is composed of H. E. Buttry (chairman), S. F. Glass (secretary), Dr. J. D. Wilson, B. C. McCann, Robert Arkell, W. F. Fitzgerald, Trustees E. J. MacRobert and Chas. M. R. Graham, Inspector C. B. Edwards, Rev. Father O'Neil, superintendent of separate schools, have kindly consented to assist with the school boys' race.

All the boys entered in the school boys' race are requested to meet in the ring inclosure at 1:15 p.m.

It is imperative that all shall be there at the hour named, so that their names may be secured and that there may be no confusion or misunderstanding.
