At The Theaters
FANNIE HURST, WORLD'S GREAT-EST STORY WRITER, AUTHOR OF "HUMORESQUE," WHICH COMES TO THE GRAND ALL NEXT WEEK, WITH DAILY MATINEES.
Fannie Hurst, author of "Humoresque," which will be the big attraction at the Grand, all next week, with daily matinees, learned much about the intensely human side of life from acting as "Bob Sister," on a big Metropolitan daily paper. Just out of college, Miss Hurst secured a job on the paper at a time when women reporters were practically unknown. She made good from the start, showing an amazing facility for writing up the news and stories of ordinary life, in an appealing manner. Soon she entered the magazine field and today she is one of the highest paid writers in America. She receives over $2,000 for a single story. "Humoresque" ran serially in a magazine and was later published as a novel. The spirit of the book was transferred to the screen with remarkable fidelity under the direction of Frank Borzage and released as a Paramount Super-Special. A. D. Jordan, whose efforts in staging a prologue for "Behold My Wife," evoked such commendable comment from Grand devotees, will again stage an elaborate scenic and musical prologue, which from first-hand reports, promises to eclipse his initial effort. In addition to the prologue, there will be many short reels of "Ahoj," Paramount magazine and a Burton Holmes Travelogue, providing a great big three-hour entertainment.

AT THE ALLEN.
For genuine entertainment few programs ever presented in London have rivaled that at the Allen Theatre the latter part of this week. Jack Pickford, starting in "Just Out of College," a play by George Ade, excels himself. The Christie comedy, "The Last of the Mohicans," is a wonderful concert orchestra in an entertainment of the first order. The "Chapel Bells," brings every feature of the wonderful organ into use, and the orchestra accompaniment, produces a masterpiece. The chimes are used with excellent effect.

TWO LONDONERS, who have made good in the motion picture business, are shown in the "Screen Snapshots." They are Al Christie and Fred Hueston. Both of them are well known in the city. They are seen at work in the big Christie studios.
Jack Pickford is at his best in the Goldwyn production "Just Out of College," in the part of "Ed Swinger," a young man just finishing college, facing the cruel world, broke, and in love with a millionaire's daughter, his work is an excellent one. This particular millionaire, Septimus Pickering, is known as the pickle king, and is a business man in every sense of the word. He has his own ideas regarding his daughter's future husband—he must be a businessman—and frowns upon her selection of Ed Swinger. The pickle king gives Ed $20,000, stipulating if he doubts it in 30 days he can keep the money and marry the daughter. He is apparently a very successful man, and is very fond of his capital in it, keeping the remainder for spending money until he receives his dividends. But his big dreams and abruptly when he finds he has been humiliated. With the help of Paul Greer, an advertising expert, he starts a pickle business to rival Pickering's. How their immense advertising campaign forces Pickering to buy their business, and how the girl is won all makes a corking good photoplay.

THRILLING DAYS OF INDIAN WARFARE LIVE AGAIN IN THE GREAT FILM SPECTACLE, "THE LAST OF THE MOHICANS."
