

---

I would simply remind you that the present structure, greenhouses, toolhouse and workshop combined is very unsightly in the position it occupies, neither comfortable for the students nor creditable to the institution, besides it is a standing obstacle in the way of the further improvements required in this part of the grounds.

During the winter months, as for several years past, a portion of each day was spent on practical instructions in the workshops or greenhouses, consisting of lessons on the various modes of propagating potting, training and pruning of plants, also grafting and budding, the objects explained and the art practised by all the students taking the regular courses.

By the 2nd year's students a further course was pursued, including the general management of greenhouses, the various modes of heating, the temperature required, the watering, growing, hybridizing, etc., etc.

This course was continued to the end of the winter term when most of the students (I am glad to say) passed a very creditable examination.

JAS. FORSYTH,
Superintendent Horticultural Department.