The committee on social service reported and was continued with instructions to report again next month. Evangelist W. C. Cole of Des Moines, Iowa, spoke briefly and Rev. Clifford Clark of Fairville was made a member of the alliance.

A delegation of speakers from the Christian and Missionary Alliance, composed of Rev. R. H. Glover, Rev. O. J. Smith and Rev. Frank Irwin was present. Dr. Glover spoke to the assembly and in his address emphasized the great need for workers, the lack of volunteers and the great responsibility of ministerial influence. Revival was needed both at home and abroad, he said, and in discussing the encouragement of answered prayers mentioned the revival in India.

Among those present were Rev. Messrs. J. Crisp, Neil McLaughlin, E. Stiles, F. H. Bone, H. A. Goodwin, L. B. Gray, G. D. Hudson, S. Howard, G. Dawson, J. Young, J. A. McKean, W. Farquharson, J. A. Kibbing, C. A. Stewart, J. H. Jenner, W. C. Cole, J. C. B. Appel and Mr. Eustace.

FOR PROTECTION AT SAND POINT

London. His company's losses, he said, were mainly in connection with liquor. Their expenses for watchmen and policemen averaged about $600 a boat. He felt the city should help cope with the situation.

In answer to Commissioner Frink he said he felt that if they received authority to close the sheds during the handling of cargo it would help put a stop to the thefts.

In answer to Commissioner Thornton he said that their shortage and loss from breakage on their last steamer was 100 cases of liquor.

Mr. Nagle cited a case of a boy of sixteen years old being caught trying to steal and confessing he went there with that object in view, having read about stealing going on. He told of "hangers on" about the sheds and felt that uniformed policemen and the closing of the sheds would be effective.

Harold Kane, the Canadian Government Merchant Marine lines, said that he had no complaint. They used the Long Wharf sheds almost exclusively and kept them closed and as a result their losses were small.

Gus Langbein, secretary of the Longshoremen's Union, and John McKinnon, agent, said they would like action deferred until they could call a meeting and go into the matter with their members. The latter held that the longshoremen were not to blame and said the cops had seen where the opening of the sheds would do any good. He said that as far as the C. P. R. police were concerned they were as bad as the rest.

He advocated more uniformed police from the city who knew the men. Mr. Johnson, of the checkers' union, advocated more uniformed police, and quoted an incident of a man in plain clothes being rushed by a mob and badly injured.

Insurance.
R. W. Charlton, chief surveyor of the Canadian Marine Board of Underwriters, said there was practically no law or order in this port as it was not pilfering that was going on, but wholesale robbery. He told of cargo being badly damaged by workmen under the influence of liquor stolen from steamers. He said the men were bold because they knew there was no chance of arrest. He told about insurance of the goods and said that insurance companies had suffered more here than at any other port in Canada. Conditions, he said, were intolerable and if they were not bettered he would recommend a higher rate. He also spoke about fire protection and said the city should install extinguishers. He also advocated installing time clocks in the sheds for the watchmen; a fire boat and the sending of some one to Portland to see what means they had taken to prevent a conflagration.

His statements evoked a storm of protest from Commissioners Thornton and Frink. He was asked if he would furnish figures. He was also criticized about no fire extinguishers being in the sheds.

Mr. Charlton said he would retract the statements.

In answer to Commissioner Thornton he said he could not give a comparison of fire losses between this port and others in Canada.

Mr. Charlton said the government should help to protect the cargo, as it is receiving a revenue from it through duty.

W. F. Burditt and E. J. Terry also spoke regarding measures to better conditions.

Commissioner Bullock said he had never been asked for special protection for any ship. He said if more uniformed men were put on it would entail an expenditure of between $7,000 and $9,000. He said that it was near the end of the season and it would take three or four weeks to get uniforms. He said he felt the ticket system of entering the sheds might prove effective, and could be put in effect next year.

Mayor Schofield suggested that a committee be appointed to go into the matter and submit a report. Their findings could be reported to the council for action.

POLICE COURT

Jesse Bolster, charged with unlawfully having liquor on his premises in Prince William street on Saturday, pleaded not guilty in the police court this morning, but was fined $200. He did not pay the fine and was sent below. Sub-inspectors Journey, Crawford, Henderson and Thompson told of having visited the premises and finding liquor in two glass jars and several long-necks displayed in court. Bolster said that the liquor must have been put on his premises through an opening in a door leading into his warehouse. The inspectors said they found one panel in the door this morning when they visited the place, but when they examined the door on Saturday it was solid.

A case of George Danford, charged with supplying liquor to one Fitzgerald, was resumed and after several witnesses were examined an adjournment was made until Friday afternoon. Martin McInnis, Stanley Davidson and Frank Wood told of having spent several hours in Danford's establishment on Monday afternoon, February 28, but said that Fitzgerald had not come into the place while they were there. McInnis testified that Fitzgerald had told him that he did not know where he got the liquor.

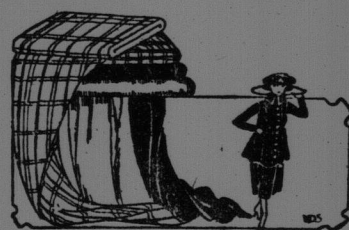

Five prisoners charged with drunkenness pleaded guilty and were remanded. Others charged with driving a motor vehicle were charged with $58 each in default of appearing.

Edwin Jorgensen, charged with wandering about Pond street and being unable to give a satisfactory account of himself, at an early hour this morning, was remanded.

A large audience was in the court to hear the cases this morning and the magistrate made a plea to them for funds to help out two unfortunate women who were about to be discharged. The magistrate remarked that the kindness of people in the court in cases like those this morning had done a lot of good.
