THE UNITED STATES IDEA OF HOW THE GERMANS MAP THE OCEAN

This map of the waters around the British Isles, divided into squares with each square numbered, in order to indicate to German U-boats the location of the allied naval ships, is a recent discovery made public by the French censor, together with the code used by the Germans. The description of the vessel is designated in the following way: "Wooden box, series 1, means a warship with one smoke stack. Series 2, two smokestacks, and so on. Packing case, series 3, means armored cruiser, three smokestacks. Metal box, series 4, means light cruiser, 2, 3, or 4 smokestacks. Barrel, series 5, 3, or 4 means destroyer with 2, 3, or 4 smokestacks. Barrel, series 1, means a keel boat, while the submarine are designated as "samples" and "cubes". The position of the boat is indicated by the number of the square on the map; thus a wireless reading, "First quality packing case, series 4, No. 432," translated, is "British armored cruiser, 4 smokestacks in square No. 432."

Monarch Borrows Slang to Tell Canadian Editors How Sammie Impresses Him

A company of twenty-four Canadian editors and publishers arrived at an American port last week after spending six weeks in England and France as guests of the British government, represented by Lord Beaverbrook, minister of information. The party went over the western battlefield, from Ypres to Verdun. They were received by the King and Queen of England, by President Poincaré of France, and Premier Clemenceau of France, and by the staffs of Field Marshal Haig and his staff, by Marshal Foch and General Petain, by Major-General Lewis and the officers of the American army under his command, and they were dined by Lloyd George, the Lord Mayor of London, and many other prominent men of England. And wherever they went and whenever they met, while there was unbounded enthusiasm for what the Canadian government and Canadian soldiers had done to prosecute the war, the big thing in the minds of British and French statesmen and the British and French people was the coming to the war of the army of the United States in such numbers in so amazingly short a time. The way the Allied governments and peoples feel on this score was shown in a talk W. R. Givens of the Kingston Standard and three other members of the party had with King George. The king received the editors in groups of four so that, as he explained, he might become better acquainted with each one and talk with each more intimately. Mr. Givens had referred to the work done by the four hundred Canadian officers trained at the Kingston military college. King George knew of the deeds of some of the officers and that led him to speak of the great debt the British Empire owed to all its colonial.

"And the Americans," continued the king, "are very wonderful. It is an inspiration and an earnest of victory simply to look at them. Their great height, their perfect physical fitness, their fresh young faces and their boundless enthusiasm are very stimulating to us who have had to endure four years of the brutal and the horror of war. What the Americans have really done for us is, perhaps, best expressed in their own idiom. They have 'put pep' into us. They have given to us and to the French of their pep and we know now that we cannot lose this war."

F. D. L. Smith of the Toronto Daily News goes back to Canada more impressed than ever with what Great Britain has done. He said that everybody knew that Germany would have won the war long ago had it not been for the British navy, but he goes further, and says the Allies could not win now if it were not for the British navy. Mr. Smith imparted the interesting piece of news, told to him by Winston Churchill, a graduate of Rochester University of the class of 1892, and a star baseball player, had something to say about the sacrifices in daily living that the people of England and France are making cheerily and willingly.

"Why," said Mr. Jennings, "the streets of London are dark, but the streets of Paris are even darker. The streets of both cities are so dark that it is quite impossible to recognize your best friend. All the shops are, of course, closed at night. It is absolutely impossible to buy milk anywhere in England, and in France, and in Germany, and in Italy, and in the United States. There is no white bread to be had there at all."

"And you never hear a complaint from anybody. It is regarded as a part of everybody's 'bit.' In the railroad stations, if you are in a hurry for your trunk, you grab the first hand truck you can find, and you use it to your advantage. In the United States, if you are in a hurry for your trunk, you grab the first hand truck you can find, and you use it to your advantage. In the United States, if you are in a hurry for your trunk, you grab the first hand truck you can find, and you use it to your advantage."

Big Fair Off To Good Start

Labor Men and Veterans Receive
Hearty Support on Opening Day

The big fair which is being held in St. Andrew's park under the combined auspices of the Great War Veterans and the local labor organizations, was opened yesterday in a way which gives promise of great success. Preparations had been completed and everything was in readiness for the crowds of visitors and those who made their way to the rink were well rewarded with a varied list of attractions.

The main committee who so ably planned the fair consists of John Kemp, Trades and Labor Council, president; Clarence F. Bishop, G. W. V. A. secretary; Charles Robinson, secretary of the N. B. Soldiers' Aid Commission, and James L. Sugrue, publicity; tickets, Charles Robinson, George Hennessey, Sergeant Pink, C. P. Langdon and Hugh Beck; refreshment committee, J. Macaulay, T. Allingham assisted by young ladies; band committee, J. McCallum and P. Hennessey; parade committee, the president and the secretary; the games committee, consisting of G. W. V. A. member and a labor representative. The decoration committee also consisting of members from the two organizations. The proceeds are for the building fund of the G. W. V. A.—a worthy object deserving the highest possible support and consideration.

The booths which line the rink in a circle with the bandstand in the center offer a regular big circus dotted with all sorts of amusements which are sure to tickle the public fancy. Gladly decorated, it being hard to pick the prettiest or most attractive, energetic workers are sure to get the average stroller.

Beginning on the right of the entrance is the ice cream booth in charge of the Young Women's Patriotic Association with Miss Blanche Jones as convener, assisted by members of the association alternating each evening while the fair lasts; then comes the ladies' and gentlemen's refreshment booth, in charge of Miss M. Ellis and Miss Lena Nier; then the booth of the G. W. V. A. in charge of J. Leo Killam of the G. W. V. A.; doll wheel, offering sailor boys, nurses and soldiers, in charge of Joseph Dryden, G. W. V. A. and Richard Smith, T. & L.; percentage wheel, T. H. Prior, William Tight and P. R. Blair; fish pond, under the auspices of the Y. W. P. A.; Miss M. Ellis and Miss Lena Nier; lot, in charge of H. N. Dean, E. W. Duval; lottery booth, A. P. Saunders assisted by Miss M. McNeil with being offered young ladies; fortune telling booth, under the auspices of the Y. W. P. A.

At the end of the rink is the big feature of the fair. This is a big thirteen feet long Southern man-eating bear, captured by some fishermen. The large animal has been in cold storage since it was captured and is now being offered to the view of the public at the fair. It weighs half a ton and measures several feet from the nose to the tail. It is said that it is due to the presence of such a fish in the bay here that the small fish are scarce. One pound of fish is the Veterans' magazine booth where subscriptions are secured for the official organ of the G. W. V. A. Stencils of the magazine representative. The cats on the fence are in charge of Charles Robinson and John W. White. The dolls, John O'Brien and J. J. Barbour; hoop-la, T. W. Livingston and Joseph Seale; chocolate wheel, one pound boxes, Joseph Macaulay, J. H. Bit, candy and cream booth, one pound boxes, P. Campbell and Charles Thompson; card

A pleasing programme of music has been arranged for each evening. Last night the Depot Battalion Band rendered selections while this evening the Temple Band will play. Wednesday, the City Cornet, Thursday, Depot Battalion Band; Friday, Temple Band; Saturday afternoon, the Depot Battalion; Saturday night, City Cornet and Monday, the evening, the Temple Band.

Friday night will be featured and will be known as the Knights of Columbus night, when each booth will have a representative from the local council to work as an introductory to the K. of C. drive which will soon be underway here for the Catholic war huts at the front.

The windup of the fair will be on next Monday when a bumper night has been planned for.

Another attraction of the fair is the offer of Scotty Burns from New York who is willing to meet any local wrestler, offering $80 to anyone who can stay with him for a specified time. The secretary, C. P. Bishop, will receive the names of all challengers who must weigh in the vicinity of 140 pounds. It is estimated that fully 3,000 people visited the rink yesterday.

The winning number for the door prize yesterday was 3,426.

In Power Rates

Argument at Boston on Proposed
Temporary Boost—Six Cent
Fares; Two Dollar Gas and Higher Charges for Power

Boston, Aug. 31.—A hearing was held here today at the office of Guy W. Currier, chairman of the commission appointed to consider rates for the services of the New Brunswick Power Company, for the purpose of hearing Attorney John A. Sullivan, counsel for the city of St. John, in opposition to the issuing of an order for a temporary increase in rates.

The commission was represented by the chairman. The proposed order granting increases is based on the report of Lybrand, Ross Brothers and Montgomery, chartered accountants for the commission.

Mr. Sullivan said that he had first heard of the accountants' report on August 27, and after a conference with the commission his request for a week's time in which to present argument was denied and the date set for today. Mr. Sullivan only received the accountants' report on August 28, he said, and he claimed there was inadequate time to prepare for the hearing.

Mr. Sullivan argued that any hearing outside New Brunswick was illegal. He requested an adjournment, allowing more time.

In the commission's draft of the temporary increase order, based on their accountants' report, the following statement was made:

"It appears from their report that the company is not, today, earning its operating expenses. The net operating income, as adjusted by our accountants, was for the year 1912, $174,568 before the payment of any interest or dividends, and for the first six months of 1913 was at the rate of $110,704 a year. This operating income has entirely disappeared in the recent increase in operating expenses, which our accountants report today to amount to $177,041 in the two items of coal and labor alone."

"It is apparent, however, that the present earnings of the company are entirely inadequate to pay a return on its investment computed on any theory, or even to guarantee the continuance of the company, as a result of the increased rates, will have enough operating income left after expenses are paid to cover the cost of the company."

Mr. Sullivan assumed that increases and other expenses for 1913 will absorb all operating income for the year except an amount sufficient to pay customary charges upon the securities issued by the St. John Railway Power Company before its acquisition by New Brunswick Power Company.

He contends that figures contained in the report, when corrected, will show that the company, as a result of the increased rates, will have enough operating income left after expenses are paid to cover the cost of the company.

"In St. John Railway securities of $2,000,000, but enough to pay seven per cent. upon $1,000,000, whereas the preferred stock of the New Brunswick Power Company and five per cent. upon $1,000,000 of said company, that is, aggregate securities of $3,000,000. Mr. Sullivan said he believed the temporary increase proposed would give validity to securities of the Power Company amounting to $1,042,400 in excess of the outstanding securities of the old railway company."

The proposed rates would increase maximum electric lighting charges from 15 cents for first one hundred kilowatt-hours per month to seven and five-tenths cents for over one hundred—an increase of 25 per cent.

THE IDEAL WIFE

One of the most successful men of this country recently wrote: "Whatever I am, and whatever success I have attained, I owe it all to my wife. To be such a successful wife should be the ambition of every woman, but how impossible when dragged down by head aches, backache, dragging-down pains, nervousness and "the blues." Every woman in this condition should start one to build up her system by a ton of specific powers, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for three generations has been restoring American women to health and consequent happiness.
