STRONG EVIDENCE.

J. Fraser Gregory Describes How His Boilers Were Tampered With.

J. Fraser Gregory appeared on the bench of Murray & Gregory in the case of Murray & Greg v. Wm. Nixon. Mr. Gregory told of the draining of the boilers Tuesday evening and the reasons why suspicion fastened on Nixon.

The key to the engine house was always hidden in a place known only to the boss and the engineer, so that it was very improbable that any one else should happen upon it. Nixon had not been working Tuesday and on Wednesday morning the key was gone and the boilers empty. The way in which this was accomplished also showed it had been done by one well acquainted with engines. Mr. Gregory had himself made the inspection when word was brought to him. The blow out valve ordinarily used for the purpose of draining the boilers had not been tampered with; the feed pipe showed the marks of a wrench, but in the check valve lay the mischief. A piece of cotton waste was found around the valve open. The arrest and recovery of the key off Nixon were also told.

Mr. Nixon had no questions to ask the witness and the case will probably come up on Monday next.

R. D. Wilmot, member of the late parliament for Sunbury and Queens, and Conservative candidate for that county in the coming election, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Wilmot, who knows every parish in both counties and is popularly supposed to be personally acquainted with every voter there, is confident of victory. He has been over the whole constituency and says that outside of Chignou parish where Dr. Hay, the Liberal candidate resides, he will get a better vote than ever before. He feels certain of being elected by a greater majority than in 1900.

PLUMBERS GETTING RICH.

Henry Dunbrack, the well known plumber, told the Star this morning that the shortage of help in the plumbing business, which is being keenly felt in the city just at present, is a condition complained of in other parts of Canada and also in the United States. In order to secure help, he personally has taken the initiative and increased plumbers' rates. This rash of business in the plumbing line is not a temporary thing, he says. It has been going on for over two years.

CONTRADICTORY EVIDENCE.

Magistrate Has Hard Work Finding Out How Officer Perry Was Beaten.

The case against George Ryan, which was postponed from Wednesday was taken up by the magistrate in police court this morning. Daniel Mullin appeared for the defence.

Officer Perry, who laid the charge of lottering and assault, was on the stand and was cross examined by Mr. Mullin. The latter brought out the fact that Ryan was off the sidewalk at the time Perry made the arrest. In regard to the delay in putting the charge upon the book, Perry said he went to the chief immediately after the arrest and told him the charge and that the chief Ryan ducked by barely giving notice of their rough and tumble work at the York Theatre, when Perry fell over the prisoner. The difference in size made the spectators smile, but it was no wonder that Perry fell over the other when he went at him with speed on. When Ryan ducked he barely came above Perry's knees. Perry also said that Ryan aimed a blow at him as he was falling.

Mr. Mullin asked for a dismissal on the ground that the charge had not been established. The boy was not obstructing the sidewalk, as the officer admitted he was on the street at the time, the arrest was unjustifiable and there was no evidence of assault.

His honor did not agree with this, however, and Ryan was called to the witness box. He said that Perry hit him on the leg while near the theatre and he went off on to the street. He refused to move when Perry spoke to him, and said the latter would be getting himself into trouble, if he didn't look out. When Perry ran up to him, Ryan says he stumbled and Perry's own impetus sent him over. The witness did not attempt to strike the officer.

Johnston, a companion of Ryan's, was called and corroborated Ryan's statement. He felt certain Ryan did not aim a blow at the officer.

When Perry was given a chance to cross-examine Johnston he said he could not remember having seen the boy, and even when Johnston told of Perry offering him a cent if he would get his helmet, the officer was sure he had not been around. A defence was wished to bring forward another witness so the case was adjourned until 2.30 this afternoon.

BACKWARD, AS USUAL.

Government Has Done Nothing Toward Laying Pipe to Partridge Island.

The city workmen who were engaged in laying the water main which is to carry water from the mainline to the Immigration Hospital on Partridge Island have completed their work. This, however, does not mean that Spruce Lake water is at present flowing to Partridge Island, as before it can the government will have to do their stipulated portion of the work by laying the submarine pipe. In view of the nearness of winter, it is doubtful now if the government can undertake the work before next spring. If that should be the case, water will have to be taken to the island during the winter for the use of detained immigrants as it was last year, by boats.

POLICE COURT.

Coke O'Brien Again - A Case of Theft Further Ventilated.

In the police court this morning, John Harding and Norman Campbell, drunk on Mill street, were fined $4 or ten days with hard labor. Harding's mother appeared in court and said she would help him, but Campbell will help beautiful Rockwood Park.

Coke O'Brien drunk on British street, was fined $5 or two months. He only got out of jail yesterday.

Conductor Warren Brown, of the street railway, charged Thomas Barrett with being drunk and assaulting him on his car, also with breaking a window in the car. Barrett did not remember the incident, so Brown had to go on the stand to refresh his memory. His honor gave Barrett $20 or two months.

The cases against George Ryan and Wm. Nixon, which also came up, are reported elsewhere.
