UNION DEPOT AND PRICES LOWER CALGARY OIL BOOM LED THE DAY'S LIST

Cobalt, Ont., July 8.—The mill at the Temiskaming and Hudson Bay shut down last night and the mine will follow suit within a few days. There are at the present time two or three men underground pulling up rails and generally cleaning up, and this will take some time. The last mill run resulted in the production of between 25,000 and 30,000 ounces, this is merely one end, the production of between 25,000 and 30,000 ounces, this is merely one end, the production of the company. The company is still working on its claim south of the McKinley-Darragh, and although there is no ore the formation along the Cobalt vault has never been to promising. It has also a controlling interest in the Dome Lake at procupine.

London, July 8.—Discussing what it calls "Canadian Oil Dangers," the Daily Chronicle warningly records the frauds reported from Calgary, and says an expert on the spot informed them that the amount of misrepresentation is appalling.

In the instances borings were made in the public were invited to inspect the gusher, in due course the gusher produced what was called the purest gasoline, which in fact was pumped down and one boring forced up the other. The expert adds that undoubtedly there is oil in paying quantities, but at the present time little or no systematic prospecting has been done. It is dispersive to the present time little or no systematic prospecting has been done. It is appared to the present undeveloped stage.
