Political Gleanings.

The House of Legislature met last evening at 15:30 o'clock, the Hon. David Theodore in the chair. After devotional exercises, the Hon. Robt. Browning asked the Secretary for Foreign Affairs if any steps had been taken to assist the unfortunate passengers on the west bound train. The Hon. F. C. Wool replied that His Worship the Mayor had started a relief fund and had received up to date substantial help both in kind and money. His Worship had also offered the gaol for those passengers who required a change of air. As the house considered these arrangements highly satisfactory, no further steps were taken.

An exciting discussion followed on the Swine Disease Bill, when the Hon. F. G. Goodman, who is a large breeder of pigs, objected to the order just issued to destroy all pigs in the province. Heated discussion ensued.

The hon. gentleman insulted the chairman of committees, and was forcibly ejected, whereupon a free fight ensued, and the house adjourned in confusion.

It is general believed that the Rosebery Government will not hold together much longer. The Opposition is preparing for a general election, which they say must take place soon, and they are confident of the result.

There is to be a very large conference of all the different labor and liberal operative associations in Leeds, the principal item on their programme being the abolition of the House of Lords.

Another Victory for Clanwilliam.

Our subscribers will observe from the following clipping from the Bruce County Farmer that this progressive city's fame as a summer resort is spreading all over the civilized world and Ontario:

"We arrived at Clanwilliam on May 25th and were so charmed with the scenery and natural advantages of this place as a summer resort that we decided to remain for an indefinite time. A pleasing feature we noticed at the station was the quiet way in which we were received; our ears were not deafened with the clamorous yelling of scores of hotel runners and hackmen, as is the case at other popular summer resorts. We found all the hotels well filled on our arrival, with the Hotel Sandringham doing the business of the season, due no doubt to the fact that it is the only hotel in town doing a bar business, coupled with the magnificent table set. Were it not for the good bar business we fear that this hotel would be a bad investment, as the charges for board are ridiculously low.

Sea bathing is much enjoyed by the many tourists here, as is also the mountain climbing and fishing. A Winnipeg gentleman named Blackwood noted for his veracity and strong advocacy of the use of such temperance drinks as ginger ale, soda and such beverages, states that he caught an immense trout yesterday, but it escaped over the bank after being landed, it being a mountain trout and accustomed to climbing. We have, of course, garden parties, concerts, prayer meetings and taffy parties (of two). Our genial friend, Macnamara is of great service at prayer meetings in passing collection plates. Mr. Glass keeps his eye on him while doing so.

A steamer excursion is planned for the near future from Port Griffin Lake to Sicamous. We have not settled on the day yet, as very rough weather is reported on the gulf near Point Craigellachie, where a tidal wave is reported to have caused much damage. No ships from the west have arrived for several days.

It is with extreme regret that we have to announce that one of our most valued lady correspondents, Mrs. H., is about to sever her connection with our staff, as she intends taking up her residence in Vancouver. This lady having moved in the leading social circle in our city and Winnipeg, and by her personal magnetism, charming all whom she meets, will be a decided acquisition to Vancouver. What is our loss is Vancouver's gain.
