THE SITUATION.

The story of continued Allied progress on the Western front still proceeds without any abatement. It seems almost incredible to the average onlooker that the Hun, who only a few short weeks ago seemed to strike almost as he pleased at points of his own choosing and then to rest up until he got ready for another attack, should now be harried from point to point with not enough time to change his position, let alone to secure a firm hold anywhere, yet this is what has taken place. The marked reversal, seemed at first almost too good to be permanent, but it is continued day after day until at least the truth has been brought home that the German initiative has passed into limbo. The French and British armies continue to drive the enemy back to the old Hindenburg line and the present offensive may be carried even beyond that. In their retreat north of the Ayr River the Huns are being vigorously pursued by the French and harassed by their own mustard gas shells, while there are signs of demoralization among the German infantry.

The Canadian troops still continue to cover themselves with glory. Since Monday in company with a famous Highland division they have advanced over six miles and have cut into the main Hindenburg artery. There is no holding them back any more than the rest of the heroic Allied forces.

Over The Courier leased wire today comes the announcement that French troops have taken Noyon. This follows closely upon their seizure of Chaumes, the great German defensive point on the Picardy front, and will still further jeopardize enemy forces and material.

THE RIGHTS OF CHILDREN.

Hon. E. J. Cody, the new Minister of Education, during the course of a speech dwelt upon the above subject in a most forcible and comprehensive manner. He pointed out that over half a million pupils were enrolled in the schools of Ontario, and that neglect in any essential with regard to them was not only a crucial thing, but "nationally suicidal." Germany, for instance, had become a menace to the world because of wrong educational and political ideas, the speaker, of course, using the word political in the sense of pertaining to policy or civil government.

He emphasized five prerogatives which should be recognized with regard to them:

First, there was the spiritual factor. Secondly, the right to be well born; to be physically, mentally and morally sound.

Thirdly, decent and beautiful home surroundings, with nourishing food, and good mothering. Infant mortality in this Province of 9.25 per thousand was, altogether, too high.

Fourthly, protection against drunken, or neglectful parents.

Fifthly, they held a right to be given a sound education which involves "strong in body, cultured in mind, devout in spirit and qualified for life work." Education had been well defined as what maturity owes to youth and the children constituted the most precious of all duties devolving upon the adult.

NO END TO GIVING.

The following from The Chicago Tribune should sink deeply in the hearts and remembrance of each one of us:

"Is there no end to giving? There is not—until the great end. The best line that any advertiser in the United States ever wrote was the line: 'While some one gives his life, what are you giving? Think a minute!'"

"What are you giving, you who run loose and go about your virtually undisturbed affairs? What are you giving when you think a minute of the fellows who fight Germans and eat, rats and trench fever, gas and shrapnel, mud and filth, and endure atrocious sufferings or miserable discomfort?"

"What have you given or what can you give? The demands upon your money do come rapidly. It is the way they have to come. It represents the pressure which must be put upon you. Even this pressure is an indication of your own good fortune."

You are here, being asked for your money, but not your life.

"This is the way in which the loose coin of the nation is shaken out of its pockets; the fashion in which loose habits are ironed out and community discipline imposed."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

There are a great many contrary opinions with regard to the probable size of the Western wheat crop, but the outstanding fact consists of the circumstance that the yield will be much better than at one time seemed likely.

The German high command has given the Bavarian Crown Prince a long leave. There are some others of that ilk who are long will find themselves in like circumstance.

Senator Vandaman of Mississippi was overwhelmingly defeated in the primaries when he sought a Democratic nomination. His attitude has been pro-German and he has also been an expert in twisting the tail of the B. lion. Now it is his own political neck which has undergone that process.

The Irish are about as hard to size up as a woman's intentions. Voluntary recruiting there has lately been most marked—as many in two weeks as in previous months—and some prominent Sinn Féiners have enrolled.

The French on the Ayr River found some abandoned mustard gas shells and used them against the original owners. In all the other sections they are also getting abundantly peppered, so it is an extra hot time all round for them.

The Kaiser, on a visit to the King of Saxony, is now in Dresden. He is destined to be broken in the same way as a good many other things which come from there.

New York Herald: "Wherever the Germans in this war have made a move, political or military, they have found themselves opposed by the British. At the beginning their mercantile marine was blocked by the British fleet; the 'contemptible little army' of Lord Kitchener, saved Northern France and Belgium; British submarines were in the Baltic and British gunners in Galicia. When the Austro-Germans made their irruption in Italy last year British air, land and sea forces rushed to her defence. Like a good player Britain has thwarted every move of the Germans on the chess board of the world."

Love of Praise—It is as natural to desire appreciation as food. God loves and expects praise. A runner can increase his speed through cheer; all normal people can best their best, stimulated by appreciation. While the desire for appreciation is a virtue, it can easily be made a vice if one loves praise more than to deserve it.

Political Corruption—A strong party man accuses the other party of gross corruption and can hardly see how a good man can belong to such a party. You are evidently a man blinded by prejudice. Men who are corrupt when belonging to one party would be equally corrupt if they belonged to the other. It is not the party which makes men dishonest; all corrupt people can best their best, stimulated by appreciation. While the desire for appreciation is a virtue, it can easily be made a vice if one loves praise more than to deserve it.

FREE PRESS QUESTION IS REVIVED

Report on Finances of Defunct Paper Submitted to T. and L. Council

OTHER MATTERS UP

The looks of the defunct Brantford Free Press were found to be in good condition according to the report submitted by the special committee to the Trades and Labor Council at the meeting last evening. There was a good attendance despite the threatening and depressing showers, about thirty members being present. The session was somewhat lengthy as there was considerable business that received discussion.

Early in the evening the seating of three men delegates from the Baker's Union took place. The first important question to be considered was then brought forward. The representatives of the tailors' union, the grievous party, said that it was useless to interfere with the action of the Street Railway Commission. Paris, Aug. 29.—The annual bowling tournament which was to have been held here yesterday afternoon, has been postponed until Wednesday, Sept. 18th, when the handsome trophy, given by Mr. Bonner, on behalf of the Penman Co., will be played off. The oat crop around Paris, good, Postmaster J. P. Nunnau, has been damaged by the action of the recent dry spell corn in this section will be light.

The death took place on Tuesday night of Mr. Benjamin Stock, after an illness of four months from cancer of the stomach. He was 58 years of age. Deceased was born in Rochdale, Lancashire, England, and came to Canada about 21 years ago, first settling in Hespler, where he spent some thirty years until his death.

From that point until his demise he had resided in Paris, where by his integrity and sterling worth, he had made a large circle of friends, who learned of his death with sincere regret. He had been engaged as foreman of the knitting department of Penman's Ltd. for many years. The late Mr. Stock was well known in athletic circles, having played on the Hespler baseball team, and for twenty years being associated with the famous Paris Cricket Club, before it disbanded some ten years ago. He was also a member of the Paris Glee Club. Some thirty-three years ago he was united in marriage to Miss Annie Boldie of Hespler, who survives him, as also six daughters, Ethel, Alice, Mae, Gladys, Viola and Evelyn, and one son, Clifford, all at home, to whom the sympathy of a wide circle of friends will be extended. The funeral will take place from the Church of the Sacred Heart to-morrow morning and thence to the R. C. Cemetery.

Miss F. E. Myrle and Miss Stella Bagg are holidaying at London and Port Stanley.

Mrs. W. Norris and Miss Blanche Norris have returned from a pleasant holiday with friends at Ashfield, O., and Buffalo.

About two months ago a man named Sidney Albert Lee obtained a passport and other papers from Messrs. Blackhurst and Gill by false pretences. His description was published by Chief Rutherford and Lee was finally apprehended at Owen Sound on Monday. He was brought to Paris by the Chief and yesterday Lee appeared before Magistrate Patterson and remanded until Saturday. It now transpires that the prisoner is a deserter from one of the Hamilton regiments and is wanted by the military authorities. It is also charged that at Ingersoll Lee stole a considerable sum of money from a boarding house. He is reported to be an old timer in his records with the police and believed to have served several years in jail.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS, AUTHOR OF "MARGARET GARRETT'S HUSBAND," AND OTHER NOTABLE STORIES.

CHAPTER XI

Plan to Use It to Advantage.
When Ruth asked Brian for the dollar for Mrs. Murphy, she added: "You better give me a little more, she is coming up to do the dishes."

"How much?"
"Oh I guess twenty-five cents will be enough for her. There aren't many."

Brian counted out twenty-five cents and added it to the dollar, then handed it to Ruth. Had she thought of it, she would have given her more, so preventing her being pleased where she would have to borrow from Mrs. Murphy again, she was disappointed.

"Brian," she said, after a pause, "don't you think we'd better sit down together and plan to use your salary to the best advantage, like the young couple in the story?"

"Very well, perhaps it will be the best way,"
It was late when they finished. Ruth was too amazed to speak when Brian told her what he earned. Why she often had paid more for a gown than his entire monthly salary. But she hid her surprise from him. She had married him knowing he was a poor man—how poor, she never had dreamed—and she would do the best she could. So they apportioned their income. So much for rent; so much for food, fuel, lights; so much for rough help. The rest they divided in half. Ruth to do as she pleased with her half, Brian to have the same privilege.
