

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON II.—JAN. 12, 1908.

Jesus and John the Baptist.—John 1: 19-34.

Commentary.—1. John's statement concerning himself (vs. 19-24). This was a time of great excitement and expectation concerning the Messiah. John spoke with authority and his success was great. He had proclaimed that a new dispensation was at hand (Matt. 3:2), and this was believed to refer to the Messiah. Accordingly a delegation of priests and Levites was sent to John from the Sanhedrin in Jerusalem for the purpose of interviewing him with respect to himself and his mission. They asked him, "Who art thou?" Who do you profess to be? Do you assume to be the Messiah, or are you a prophet? John positively declared that he was neither, neither was he Elijah nor "that prophet." It is true that John said that John was Elijah (Matt. 11:14), but he was speaking figuratively (compare Luke 1:17), while John's questioners were speaking literally. John was not Elijah returned to earth again. The prophet referred to was the prophet of Deut. 18:15, who some thought would be a second Moses, others a second Elijah, others the Messiah. John replied to their questioning by saying that he was "the voice of one crying in the wilderness. Make straight the way of the Lord." John was not the "Word," but merely a "voice." He was called a voice because, 1. He was uttering God's thoughts. 2. The importance lay chiefly in the message, not in the messenger. The message he delivered is referred to in Isa. 40:3-5. The idea is taken from the practice of eastern monarchs, who, whenever they took a journey, sent harbingers before them to prepare the way. Before our King will come to us there must be a thorough preparation for his coming.

II. John's testimony of Jesus (vs. 25-28). 25. They asked him: The deputation from Jerusalem asked John the Baptist why he baptized them. By what authority does he administer the rite of baptism, seeing that John art not Christ, nor Elijah, nor the prophet? Baptism as a rite was common to the Jews and was administered to those becoming proselytes to the Jewish faith. The Pharisees held it as necessary that no prophet, after Moses, had a right to introduce any new sacred usage, rite or ceremony among the Mosaic institutions, except the Messiah himself. Therefore, therefore, why baptizest thou them? That was a very peremptory one.—Whedon.

26. I baptize with water.—John's answer is very pertinent. "My baptism is the symbol and precursor of a real baptism by the great Baptizer, Jesus. His standstill on the subject is necessary to suppose that Jesus was standing in the crowd at that time, but he was living among the people and was unknown to them. 27. After me—John was the forerunner to announce his coming. The worthy—A prophet and a king, the work of uncleaning and removing the sandals belonged to the humblest servant, and because of Christ's greatness John said he was unworthy to do even that. The desire to exalt Christ above himself was ever uppermost in John's mind. 28. Behold.—The R. V. has Bethany. (This was not the Bethany on the Mount of Olives.) Both names have nearly the same meaning, Bethany means "house of oil," and Bethany means "house of oil." "Behold," the names of two villages or districts near together, of which the name Bethany, the smaller of the two villages faded out. Or John may have been baptizing in a place between the two villages, and hence sometimes called by one name and sometimes by the other.

III. John points out Jesus (vs. 29-31). 29. The next day.—The day following the testimony of John to the deputation from Jerusalem. See John 1:28. The fact that John knew Jesus shows that the baptism and temptation (Matt. 3:13 to 4:11) preceded the events of this lesson. Lamb of God.—There is no reasonable doubt that John gave this name to our Lord because he was the true sacrifice for sin. The lamb prophesied of by Isaiah (Isa. 53:7).—Ryle. The daily sacrifice of a lamb was continually before the people, reminding them of their need of an atonement for sin. Without doubt, John, who was the harbinger of Christ, was enlightened beyond others with respect to Christ's office and mission, and saw for him the great sin-offering for the sins of the whole world. Take him away.—Or "bear him away," as in the margin. On the great day of Atonement, the high priest confessed the sins of the people and laid them upon the scapegoat, and the goat was sent to the depths of the desert. Christ's taking away the sins of the world is borrowed from this act. We have here one of the expressions which declare the scriptural truth that Christ's sacrifice was a vicarious sacrifice for sin. All the sins of all the children of men. The atonement was complete. No one was left; all may be saved if they will accept the provisions made. The world is weary with its cumbersome methods of obtaining deliverance from sin. Salvation from sin comes only through faith in Christ.

30. After me, etc.—Jesus came after John in point of time, but he was preferred before him in dignity and honor. Was before me.—This refers to Christ's eternal pre-existence with the Father. John's attitude toward Christ from first to last affords an illustrious example of true humility. Few names in the Bible stand higher than does the name of John the Baptist. Jesus spoke highly of him.—See Matt. 11:11; John 3:35. John abases himself, declines all flattering titles and exalts Christ. The greatest saints in all ages have been men in this spirit, who have not sought their own honor, but who have always been ready to decrease if Christ might only increase. 31. Knew him not.—He did not know him as to his nature, office and mission until the time of his baptism. John was a cousin of our Lord, and that he had had some acquaintance with him before his baptism seems evident from Matt. 3:14. While John did not know him as the Messiah, yet he had a knowledge of him sufficient to recognize in him an exalted spiritual nature that caused him to hesitate when Christ came asking baptism at his hands. Therefore am I come.—John here declares that the great end of his ministry was not to form a sect in his own name, but to make Christ known to the Jews. The great work of the Christian church is to magnify Jesus Christ and bring out his beauty and greatness to a lost world. IV. The Messiahship of Jesus revealed to John (vs. 32-34). 32. Bare record.—John now proceeds to tell how, more than forty days before this, at the time of the baptism of Jesus, he learned that he was the Messiah. I saw.—I have beheld.—R. V. John had been an eyewitness, and was not now reporting from hearsay. Like a dove.—That the Spirit of God should descend on a dove is in accordance with the emblematic character of the whole transaction. The dove represented an undefiled character (Lev. 1:9), harmless (Matt. 10:16), gentle and meek (Lev. 22:3). 33. He that sent me.—John was conscious of his divine mission. He was sent of God, the Holy Spirit, the Holy Spirit (R. V.).—John could baptize with water, but it was the prerogative of Jesus only to baptize with the Holy Spirit. The gift of the Spirit is constantly represented as "outpouring." To-day we are living in the dispensation of the Spirit. It is the office work of the Spirit to convince of sin, to regenerate and cleanse the heart, and to guide and to sustain the trusting soul. The Holy Spirit, Matthew and Luke add that Jesus would baptize "with fire." Fire here is an emblem of the Holy Spirit and brings out the thought of warmth, or heat. Baptism means cleansing—fire is a great purifier. 34. The Son of God.—The Messiah—the Christ. John here declared that Jesus was divine. God also spoke from heaven (Matt. 3:17), thus confirming the sign given to John.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS. The Lamb of God.—The Word tells of Christ, the Prophet; the Lamb speaks of the Redeemer. One brings us to the revelation of God's will and truth, the other to the great Redeemer. It is not only a touch of love, but a touch of blood. Spoken after Christ's baptism, a short time after he had passed under the floods of the Jordan, a symbol of physical death and resurrection. In this typical act he had died and risen again for the sin of the world. The Christian's consecration is not the Russian bear, the British lion, nor the American eagle. It is the Lamb of God. The church is ever to be an index-finger pointing to Him—where takest away the sin of the world? Let us consider the following points: 1. Spotless. "A lamb without blemish and without spot" (1 Pet. 1:19). The utmost care was used by the Jewish priest to select a lamb free from all blemish (Lev. 22:27), and "without spot" (Nem. 28:3), for God would not accept any other (Lev. 22:20-25). Not only must the lamb be spotless, but the priest must certify it to be so (Lev. 22:26-28), and the words, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased" (Matt. 3:17), were God's seal to the sinlessness of Jesus. Though He was made in the likeness of sinful flesh (Rom. 8:3), yet he did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth (1 Pet. 2:22). Although He was made sin for us, yet He knew no sin (2 Cor. 5:21). Viewed from every point, He was always perfect. He was ever wholly self-possessed (Matt. 23:27). He never retracted a word. He never altered a plan. He effectively turned every occurrence to a spiritual purpose (John 4:7-10; Matt. 16:6-12). II. Submissive. "He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth. He is as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb so he opened not his mouth" (Isa. 53:7). "And when he was accused... he answered nothing" (Matt. 27:12-14). Hugh Stowell says: "I have watched a lamb to the slaughter and have seen the little guileless animal lick the hand about to be imbrued with its blood; patient, meek and free from all resentment. Blessed shadowing of that patient, long-suffering Man of sorrows who came among us and was never provoked to resentment or call or retaliation or unkindness."

III. Sacrificed. "The Lamb that was slain" (Rev. 5:12, 13:9). The Lamb of God stands for submission, suffering and death. Under law, in a figure, the sins of a guilty soul were transferred to the white, innocent lamb or it was slain. Under grace, in fact, the sins of "all" guilty souls were "laid" on the Lamb of God, and he was sacrificed for us (Isa. 53:6). He took our place. He died in our stead. He became our substitute. "A gentleman who was traveling in Norway tells how he went to see the church of a certain town. Looking up at its tower, he was surprised to see the carved figure of a lamb near the top. He inquired why it was placed in that position, and he was told that when the church was being built a workman fell from the high scaffold. His fellows saw him fall and horror-stricken, rushed down expecting to find him dashed to pieces. To their surprise and joy he was almost unharmed. This was how the church was saved. A flock of sheep was passing by the church at the moment of his fall, and he fell among them as they were crowded together, and right on the top of a lamb. The lamb was crushed to death, but the man was saved. And so they carved the lamb on the tower at the exact height from which he fell, to commemorate his escape. Christ was crushed to death under our load of sin. "The continual morning and evening sacrifice of a lamb, under the Jewish law, foretold the sacrifice of Christ, for even at the throne of God Jesus Christ is ever represented as a lamb newly slain" (Rev. 5:6). IV. Sovereign. The living ones and the elders adore "the Lamb," myriads of angels cry, "Worthy is the Lamb," the universe praises "the Lamb" (Rev. 5:8, 12, 13); the wicked fear "the wrath of the Lamb" (Rev. 6:15, 16); the humbled and lowly "follow the Lamb" (Rev. 14:1, 4); the bride of Christ is "the Lamb's wife" (Rev. 21:9); "the marriage of the Lamb" is the great feast of the future (Rev. 19:7-9); and the title of "the Lamb" as final conqueror is Lord of lords and King of kings, and they that are with him are called and chosen and faithful (Rev. 17:14).

The witness to Jesus was 1. The testimony of John, entirely disinterested and self-sacrificing. He gave his whole life to bearing his witness to Christ, resisting every temptation to gain notoriety, and to make friends of the influential Pharisees. 2. The witness of facts that entirely convinced John himself. 3. The witness of a voice from heaven. 4.

Happenings of 1907.

There were not so many world-shaking events during 1907 as in its immediate predecessors. There was literally, however, one world-shaker, the Jamaica earthquake, the echo of which reverberated in the halls of diplomacy long after the shocks had died away. The chief event in America was the financial panic of September, and the very serious after-effect upon industry.

In Canada the most notable event was the collapse of the great Quebec bridge in August. The Dominion lost not a few eminent men during the year. Among the most notable were W. H. Drummond, the poet; Hon. A. G. Blair, Timothy Eaton, T. C. Patterson; Dr. John Potts, Dr. Brockway, Hon. J. W. St. John and Hon. J. T. Tarte.
