MAYOR MARSHALL.

The announcement that Mayor Marshall will probably move from the city at the conclusion of his term as chief magistrate, will be received ed much of his valuable time to serving the city, first as an alderman for a number of years, and then as Mayor. At the City Council Board his advice has been much sought after and always valued and esteemed. He has acted on all of the important committees in civic service, and has never hesitated to give his colleagues the benefit of his long and creditable experience in municipal affairs.

Mr. Marshall holds the enviable reputation of never having been defeated at the polls. Others have come and gone, but the people have always recognized in the pre ent Mayor a man who would give his beet service, honestly and fearles ly. He is the kind of a mun the electors look for. His election to the chief office in the city was a de erved reward for his unstinted and excellent work of former years. He will be missed in Chatham, if he holds to his present expressed intention of leaving, but he will carry away with him the sincerest good wishes of all.

REVIVAL POST CARDS.

Once more Chatham is visited by the post card revival fiend, and the shorter he makes his visit, the better it will be, both for h mself and the community at large. Several of our most estimable cit.zens have been the recipients of biasphemous m'ssives from this unscrupulous in dividual, exhorting them to offer up certain prayers, and heaping curses upon the persons who refuse to follow out the instructions given by this fanatic "cevivalist."

Chatham, like any other city, would receive much benefit from a religious revival, but the threats contained in the epistles above referred to are not at all in keeping with a sincere religious movement. It is, rather, the product of an unbalanced mind, and the person who provoked this disgusting agitation should long since have found his way into a jail or an

PLANT PECULIARITIES.

No plant will produce flowers unless

All plants are provided with flowers, though sometimes these are so small and so hidden as to escape notice. The bleeding heart, according to an eastern legend, originated in the drops of blood which fell from Christ's side at the crucifixion. Every flower that has a perfume at all secretes a volatile oil, the evaporation of which constitutes the peculiar odor characteristic of the blossom. The smallest flower known to the botanist is said to be that of the yeast plant. It is microscopic in size and is said to be only one-hundredth of a millimeter in diameter. According to the poetical idea of Catullus, the rose was once white, but blushed red and remained so out of shame for allowing its thorns to inflict a wound on the feet of Venus.

GOOD REASONS FOR ITS SUCCESS

The majority of catarrh remedies are useless. But one that does cure is Caturrhozone. It clears the head of all mucous discharge, Putrid matter in the nostrils, phlegm in the throat, and disease germs are complettly swept away. The cause of the disease is destroyed, it's results are destroyed, and the system so thoroughly cleansed of catarrhal poison that cure is permanent. All types o featarrh, throat and bromehial trouble, colds and coughs are types o featarrh, threat and bron-chial thouble, colds and coughs are more certainly cured by Catarrho-zone than anything else. "I didn't buy them," the boy answered. "I took them out of your wagon."

QUEER LOVEMAKING.

A South American Bird Which Wins

Its Mate by Dancing.

There is a bird in South America that makes love with its feet. It is a handsome creature, but walks clumsily, and the only sound it can utter is a hoarse cluck. It dances, however, in a way that wins admiration from the females of its sex, though its antics only serve as an incentive to laughter to human beings who see them.

This bird, known as the cock of the rock, lives in the northern mountainous portion of South America. It is about the size of a large chicken. The entire bird-body, head wings and tail-is blood red in color, with the exception of the tail feathers, which have a narrow band of brown across them near the ends which are tipped with buff. On the head is a crest of feathers like a great red ball, which contracts or expands at the pleasure of

When the mating season comes sev en to ten males seek some secluded spot where there is a level patch of ground and clear it of any sticks, stones or leaves, stamping down the dirt till it is hard and level.

Then they call the females, who stand at the edges of this novel arena. One at a time the males then perform a most curious dance. Each dancer will first strut up and down a few times and then, to the apparent delight of the rest, commence to caper around in an extremely ludicrous manner, spreading his tail and wings, puffing up his crest, bowing to the others and at the same time keeping up a hopping gait until he is exhausted.

When all the males have danced each female will choose a mate, and the happy pairs depart to begin housekeep

ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS.

Each Part of the Larger Ones Is Made by Specialists.

Artificial flowers were invented by pious nuns. In the Italian convents the altars and shrines were up to the end of the eighteenth century decorat ed with artificial flowers, laboriously put together, of paper, parchment and other stiff materials. In a Venetian warehouse the most wonderful productions of natural flowers are hibited in glass cases, and in many cases, not only the richest and most brilliant colors, but the very scent of the flowers has been stolen from nature, for some of the artificial flowers are steeped in the perfume distilled from the flower which it represents. Last century a Swiss invented a machine for cutting out the leaves and petals, but it can only be used for smaller kinds, such as are wanted for hyacinths, lilies of the valley and other small flowers. In larger petals the irregularities of manual work are preferred to the stiff and correct forms produced by machinery. This material of which the petals are made is woven in special factories. The scissors and other tools used by the girls employ ed as well as the presses in which the veins are traced on the leaves are of a shape specially adapted to the work. Each part of a flower is made by specialists. In one room, for instance, only stalks of flowers and leaves are made; in another, fruits and berries of all kinds are cast if they are wax or blown if made of glass. The clever est workers are employed in making blossoms of the single petals and bouquets, wreaths and garlands of the sin gle blossoms.—Dundee Advertiser.

First Tariff Makers If you turn to a map of Spain, you will take note at its southern point and running out into the strait of Gibraltar and exit of all ships. A fortress stands upon this promontory, called low, as it was called in the time of the Moorish domination in Spain, Tarifa. The name is of Moorish origin. It was the cus tom of the Moors to watch from this point all merchant ships going into or coming out of the midland sea and to levy duties according to a fixed scale on all merchandise contained therein, where it was levied "tarifa," or tariff.
