NOT WITHOUT CARE.
You may build you an elegant mansion And fence it around with gold...

SELECT STORY.

COUNT OF MONTE-CRISTO;

REVENGE OF EDMUND DANTES.

CHAPTER II.

THE RISE AND FALL OF THE STOCKS.

"Oh, I am sure of it; we talked of you an hour after you left us the other day.
But to return to what we were saying...

"I will do better than that," said Albert;
"my mother is wishing to go to the seaside...

"This is Tuesday—well, to-morrow evening we leave, and the day after we shall be at Treport. Really, M. Comte...

"Indeed, you give me more credit than I deserve; I only wish to do what will be agreeable to you, that is all."

"When shall you send your invitations?"
"Very good."

"Well, I will immediately call on M.
Danglars, and tell him that my mother and myself leave Paris to-morrow. I have not seen you, consequently I know nothing of your dinner."

"How foolish you are! Have you forgotten that M. Debray had just seen you at his house?"

"On the contrary, I have seen you, and invited you, without ceremony, when you instantly answered that it would be impossible for you to be amongst the number of my guests, as you were going to Treport."

"Well, then, that is settled; but you will come and call on my mother before to-morrow."

"You hear, Major Bartolomeo Cavalcanti; a man who ranks amongst the most ancient nobility of Italy, whose name Dante has celebrated in the tenth canto of the 'Inferno,' you remember it do you not? Then there is his son, a charming young man, about your own age, viscount, bearing the same title as yourself, and who is making his entrance into the Parisian world, aided by his father's millions. The major will bring his son with him this evening, the count, as we say in Italy; he will be with you in five minutes. If he is really worthy of it, I will do what I can to advance his interests; and you will assist me in the work, will you not?"

"Most undoubtedly! This Major Cavalcanti is an old friend of yours, then?"

"By no means. He is a perfect nobleman, very polite, modest and agreeable, such as may be found constantly in Italy, descendants of very ancient families. I have met him several times at Florence, Bologna and Lucca, and he has now communicated to me the fact of his arrival in Paris. The acquaintances one makes in travelling have a sort of claim on one; they everywhere expect to receive the same attention which you once paid them by chance; as though the civilities of a passing hour were likely to awaken any lasting interest in favor of the man in whose society you may happen to be thrown in the course of your journey. This good Major Cavalcanti is come to take a second view of Paris, which he only saw in passing through in the time of the Empire, when he was on his way to Moscow.
I shall give him a good dinner, and will confide his son to my care; I will promise to watch over him; I shall let him follow whatever path his folly may lead him into, and then I shall have done my part."

"Certainly, I see you are a precious Mentor," said Albert. "Good-bye, we shall return on Sunday. By the way, I have received news of Franz."

"Have you? Is he still amusing himself in Italy?"

"I believe so; however, he regrets your absence extremely. He says you were the sun of Rome, and that without you all appears dark and cloudy; I do not know if he does not even go so far as to say that he is a little in the shade."

"His opinion of me is altered for the better, then?"

"No, he still persists in looking upon you as the most incomprehensible and mysterious of beings."

"He is a charming young man," said Monte-Cristo, "and I felt a lively interest in him the very first evening of my introduction, when I met him in search of a supper, and prevailed upon him to accept a portion of mine. He is, I think, the son of General d'Epinay?"

"The same who was so shamefully assassinated in 1815?"

"By the Bonapartists."

"Yes—really I like him extremely; is there the fact to me by a line in your writing. You know that with bankers nothing but a written document will be valid."

"I will do better than that," said Albert;
"my mother is wishing to go to the seaside what day is fixed for your dinner?"

"This is Tuesday—well, to-morrow evening we leave, and the day after we shall be at Treport. Really, M. Comte, you are a charming person to set people at their ease."

"I must explain to you," said the major, "that fully confiding in the signature of the Abbe Busoni, I had not provided myself with any other funds; so that if this resource had failed me, I should have found myself unpleasantly situated in Paris."

"It is possible that a man of your standing should be embarrassed anywhere?" said Monte-Cristo.

"Why, really, I know no one," said the major.

"But then you yourself are known to others?"

"Yes, I am known to Mr. Cavalcanti."

"So that you will remit to me these 48,000 francs?"

"Certainly, at your first request." The major's eyes flashed with pleasing astonishment.

"But at dawn," said Monte-Cristo; "really I do not know what I have been thinking of—I have positively kept you standing for the last quarter of an hour."

"Don't mention it!" The major drew an armchair towards him and proceeded to seat himself.

"Now," said the count, "what will you take—a glass of port, sherry, or Alicante?"

"Alicant, if you please; it is my favorite wine."

"I have some excellent. You will take a cracker with it, will you not?"

"Yes, I will, as you are so obliging."

Monte-Cristo rang; a Baptistin appeared.
The count advanced to meet him. "Well!" said he in a low voice.

"The young man is here," said the valet-de-chambre, in the same tone.

"Into what room did you take him?"

"Into the blue drawing room, according to your excellency's orders."

"That's right; now bring the alicant and the crackers."

TO BE CONTINUED.

THE HEAD SURGEON.
Of the Lubon Medical College is now at Toronto, Canada, and may be consulted either in person or by letter on all chronic diseases peculiar to man.

"He is a young man, of middle age, with a full head of hair, and a countenance nervous weak and exhausted, who is broken down from excess or overwork, resulting in many of the following symptoms: Mental depression, loss of memory, loss of vitality, loss of energy, loss of sleep, constipation, dullness of hearing, loss of voice, desire for solitude, excitability of temper, sunken eyes surrounded with leaden iris, oily looking skin, etc.

COURTED AND WON IN A DAY.
Here is a little romance in real life: Elizabeth Steed, a widow, of St. John's Nfld., was burned out in the recent fire.
The prospects for the future were not of the brightest, so Steed decided to emigrate to Seattle, W. T., and took passage on the Fortia last Tuesday. Before reaching Halifax she got into conversation with a young woman on the steamer—Miss Sarah Struggles—when it incidentally transpired that she too was bound for Seattle, there to try and make a living for herself. Although they had never before seen each other they agreed to share their travels to share each others joys and sorrows, and with united forces struggle for fortune in their new home. Thursday night Rev. Mr. Lemoine made them man and wife and they leave in this evening's train for their destination. Success to them!—Halifax Papers.

GERMAN SYRUP.
"German Syrup" is a great sufferer from Asthma and severe Colds every Winter, and last Fall my friends as well as myself thought because of my feeble condition, and great distress from constant coughing, an inability to raise any of the accumulated matter from my lungs, that my time was close at hand.
When nearly worn out for want of sleep and rest, a friend recommended me to try thy valuable medicine, Boschee's German Syrup. I am convinced it saved my life. Almost the first dose gave me great relief and a gentle refreshing sleep, such as I had not had for weeks. My cough began immediately to loosen and pass away, and I found myself rapidly gaining in health and weight. I am pleased to inform thee—unsolicited—that I am in excellent health and do certainly attribute it to thy Boschee's German Syrup. C. B. STRICKNEY, Pictou, Ontario.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.
BLOOD BITTERS.
Tubercles all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Frequent Discharge of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Scrophulous, Scrofula, Stiffening of the Joints, Nervousness and General Debility; all these and many other similar complaints yield to the happy influence of BLOOD BITTERS.

DEAR SIR:—I have been afflicted with Chronic Rheumatism for several years, and have used numerous patent medicines without success. But by using six bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters I am entirely cured. SARAH MARSHALL, King St., Kingston, Ont.

My dear, said Mr. Bonker to his wife, "what has become of that box of cigars you gave me on my birthday?"
"it is up stairs." "Well, get it please, I am anxious to smoke, and I think we can give him all he wants in about three seconds."
