On the Burning Question.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

Do you believe in Woman Suffrage? I do not think I could tell you how many times that question has been put to me by my letter friends. Hitherto I have not made any response to it because I was afraid that the editors might think I was trying to usurp their functions in thus taking sides on a political question. I am only a woman, you know, and am not supposed to have opinions on such things. Recently, however, I have turned the matter over in my mind and come to the conclusion that there is no reason why anyone should think my opinion has anything to do with the policy of the paper, and hence my reason for any editor, no matter how differently he feels, to object to this expression of my humble opinion.

So here goes with my answer— With all my heart I believe in woman suffrage, not only as a thing that ought to be but also as a thing that soon will be.

Now some people say that they want woman suffrage because they know that women will improve conditions. I do not. I hope they will, and I feel sure they will not make conditions worse. But I don't see that a probable improvement needs to be proven. When, in the history of the world, any class of men have tried to get the vote, it has not said that it would govern the country better. It has simply claimed that it had an inalienable RIGHT to share in the government and has protested against taxation without representation. And that's just what the women of to-day are fighting against.

man suffrage are simply those of abstract justice. Now please do not tell me that a woman is represented by her husband or father. Why should she be content with that any more than a grown man would be content to be represented by his father or his brother. Criminals, paupers, feeble minded and women are refused the right to vote. I can see good reason for refusing the vote to the first three classes, but none for denying it to an intelligent woman.

Some of the anti-suffragists who do not quite care to claim that women are an inferior race, put it this way— "Yes, I admit that men and women are equal, but they are different." Surely my friends, I freely admit that. But I cannot, for my life, see why the difference is one that affects the matter of voting, any more than it affects woman's ability to learn to read, for instance. Though, come to think of it, not so very long ago there were people who argued that a woman's brain was so peculiarly constructed that it wasn't even capable of that.

The only possible argument against woman suffrage that I can see is that it never has been and therefore never should be. Once upon a time there was a minister who preached against women wearing gay colors. Said this wise person, "If the Lord had meant you to wear pink and blue and crimson He would have made pink and blue and crimson sheep."

When I hear anyone arguing, that if it were best that women should vote they would have always voted, and that because they don't vote now, they never should, I think of that minister.

We laugh at such things as that to-day. To-morrow my friend—and not such a distant to-morrow either—you'll be wondering why anyone ever through the question of sex had anything to do with the right to vote.

HOT FLASHES.

Women in middle age often complain of hot flashes. They are at that stage of life when their delicate organisms need a tonic and helping-hand which only Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can give them. Many women suffer needlessly from girlhood to womanhood and from motherhood to old age—with backache, dizziness or headache. A woman often becomes sleepless, nervous, "broken-down," irritable and feels tired from morning to night. When pains and aches rack the womanly system at frequent intervals, ask your neighbor about Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Mrs. J. IMHOFF, of 321 S. Benton Street, Baltimore, Md., says: "I wrote you about nine months ago, telling you of my condition. I have a fine baby girl—the sweetest little thing you ever saw. She is my third child and the strongest of them all. My suffering was only for two hours. I took several bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I was surprised how well I felt—could eat—was always hungry, and never had a sick stomach. The nurse who was with me said the medicine was wonderful because I got along so nicely after having had so much trouble before. She intends to recommend it to all her suffering patients. Everybody is astonished at me because I only weighed 102 pounds before and now I weigh 125. I have had several ladies come to me and ask about Dr. Pierce's medicine. I am willing to recommend it to all who suffer and want help. If any want information I will be glad to give it."

Fads and Fashions.

Accordion pleatings in mousseline and supple tissues are much used as trimmings.

Some of the slashed skirts are prettily filled in with bright contrasting color.

Cream-colored voile with Persian borders makes charming house dresses.

Pleated skirts always have the pleats taped underneath to keep the straight line.

Some of the most beautiful wraps for winter are in lovely foreign shades of red.

There is a new "hair lace" which is first cousin to the favorite shadow lace of this season.

Dull unpolished glove kid is the precisely right thing for the new, very low walking shoes.

For rainy or windy weather nothing is better than a stitched cloth, linen or pique hat.

Some of the large black hats for between season have their brims edged with a fall of black net.

A simple silk or serge frock can be charmingly brightened by a one-sided fichu and hand ruffles of tacked net.

Black tulle ruches make a delightful finish for the round necks of light-colored chiffon or mousseline gowns.

Some of the new gowns have a reminiscence of Egypt in the way they fasten straight up from skirt hem to waist.

Marie Stuart effects in collars are much used in Paris. They are carried out in velvet, satin, fur and pleated lace.

One of the new fabrics for the autumn motor coat is a blue-and-white "plaid" with a weave suggesting the honeycomb.

Some evening gowns have the big Japanese bow at the waist with draped folds of soft tissues enveloping the figure below.

The new tunics which are open at the front and are draped at each side have the pleasantest trick of adding to the height.

One of the most charming of autumn hats is a swathed toque of white velvet with black paradise waving from its top.

Touches of embroidery on self-covered buttons add immensely to their appearance, or lace medallions may be used over dark buttons with good effect.

High stocks of pique are worn with a high, black satin stock over them. Of course, they must always go with tailored suits.

Dainty lingerie collars for wear with wash frocks are flat and round, and made of sheer white batiste and heavy colored linen. Even cross-barred muslin is used.

The housekeeper should use zinc on all places in the kitchen where she works. For instance, a working table covered with zinc, or a shelf put before a pleasant kitchen window where she can prepare vegetables and fish, if covered with zinc, can be kept clean with ease.

Teacher Cured of Barber's Itch

Barber's Itch is a form of Ringworm, which, when once started, is most annoying and unsightly, and most difficult to cure.

But you can cure Barber's Itch and keep the skin wonderfully soft and healthy by applying Dr. Chase's Ointment. Just read what this teacher has to say about the healing power of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. Chas. C. Poirier, Upper Caraque, N.B., writes:—"Two years ago while teaching at Shippegan I caught Barber's Itch. A friend told me Dr. Chase's Ointment would cure me, as it had him.

"Not only was I cured by that single box, but it also cured two of my pupils, and this too quickly to be believed. One of them, a girl, had a running sore on the chin, which the doctor had tried in vain to cure. The other had a sore on the ear; water running out of it all the time. I can certify to the cure of these cases."

Heavy Loss of Life in Railroad Disasters.

Eleven Persons Were Killed and More Than Half a Hundred Injured in Two Train Wrecks in the States.

SHAWANA, Wis., Sept. 2.—Seven persons, including nearly the entire train crew, were killed and twenty injured when a sleeping car train of the Chicago and North Western Railroad was derailed in a washout caused by a cloud burst five miles south of this city.

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., Sept. 2.—Four persons were killed in the wreck of a passenger train—No. 10—in the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railroad, which plunged into the Lemonweir River near Camp Douglas, to-day, owing to the washing away of a bridge. Twenty-six persons were injured, six of them seriously.

Every car including the sleepers with passengers still in their berths, were hurled into the stream, whose waters, augmented by the cloud burst of last night, had made it a torrent. Panic stricken occupants of the sleeping cars struggled through broken windows to escape. The smoking car was carried down stream; but all its occupants escaped.

The train had passed safely over the bridge a short time before but was flagged at a tunnel because a washout further on had made the track impassible, and was ordered back to Camp Douglas so that the passengers might breakfast. Meanwhile the Lemonweir, flooded by a cloud burst several miles up the valley, had torn away the bridge, and, unwarned, the engineer could not stop his train to save it from plunging into the river.

Relief trains, bearing doctors and nurses were sent out from several nearby towns. Many of the injured are women and children, and railroad men regard it as wonderful that so few lives were lost considering the crowd on the train.

A method by which you can keep the stove ever shining is to first black-lead and polish in the ordinary way, then rub with turpentine and polish with a piece of velvet. Then all that is required each week is to rub the grate over with turpentine and polish with velvet.

COMPLETELY DISHEARTENED

Egyptian Liniment Cured Him

Though the hospital physicians could not agree on the cause of his trouble, Mr. Robert Graham, of Elgin, Ont., found Douglas' Egyptian Liniment the proper cure. He writes: "For four months I suffered untold agony from my arm, which I was obliged to carry in a sling. Could get no rest scarcely, day or night. I went to General Hospital, Kingston, but had to return home with my arm in the same condition. Doctors could not agree as to the cause of my trouble. A friend gave me a bottle of Egyptian Liniment. At first I refused to use it, as I was completely disheartened, however, he prevailed upon me to give my arm one application. I did not immediately after I began to feel the effect. I followed the directions and after using the contents of one bottle, my arm was entirely cured. I have had no return of the pain since. Egyptian Liniment has certainly been a boon to me."

There are not many ailments of man or beast where liniment will do any good, that Douglas' Egyptian Liniment will not do the most good. 74¢ a bottle at all dealers—free sample on request. Douglas & Co., Napanee, Ont.
