Travelers Attacked and Eaten by Ravenous Beasts in Roumanian Woods.

Bucharest, Jan. 5.-Every day as the winter advances, accounts are received of the ravages of wolves throughout Roumania. Every part of the country appears to be infested with them. Hardly a newspaper appears without reports of half a dozen cases where persons have been attacked and devoured.

Last Wednesday eight officials left Tulcea on their way to Galamz on the cave-in, when a little more of the three sledges. When their arrival was not reported the mounted police instituted a search for them and on Thursday they found three broken sleighs. A number of emptly revolvers and the trampled bloody snow told the story of the tragedy that had happened. Even the harness had been devoured by the famished beasts. A gendarme who was passing the edge of the forest of Badeni near Ploesco in the afternoon was pursued by a pack of wolves, which ran out from the woods. The gendarme unto the insurance. In the principal winter wheat states the month averaged cold, with more than the usual amount of precipitation. The temperature conditions were, however, not unfavorable to winter wheat until the last decade, when the states of the Upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys experienced temperatures ranging from zero to 28 degrees below. Dur ing this period the Ohio Valley States were generally well protected with snow covering, but in the Central Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys the crop was exposed. Only slight damage, however, seems to have resulted, and at the close of the month the crop appears to be very promising. Complaints of injury by fly are not extensive.
