Alkali in Shampoo Bad for Washing Hair

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp, and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is very cheap, and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.
Simply put two or three teaspoon-fuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water; then moisten the hair with water, and rub the Mulsified in. It makes an abundant lather of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily.
The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh-looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.
Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.
Be sure you get Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.—Adv.

Company Decides To Add
New Item To Present
Manufactures.

The Advertiser has just secured information respecting the addition of a new industrial concern to London's list of factories.

At the request of the trade throughout Canada, and after much investigation and careful consideration, the Teasdale Hosiery Mills has decided to expand into the underwear business.

A careful survey of the knitting industry brings to light the fact that all the underwear mills of Canada are all successful, the majority working to capacity and refusing orders, and that the competition is largely domestic, and the volume of business steadily increasing.

Teasdale's will manufacture men's, women's and children's high-grade wool, silk and cotton garments.
Their market will be through their present established channels, namely the wholesale drygoods trade of Canada, with whom they enjoy a most popular position, and who are now awaiting samples from which to place orders for fall delivery.

Major Wenige, in a strong personal letter, heartily indorses this new industry, setting forth the facts that after careful consideration and personal investigation he is convinced that the personnel are all reliable men and have an honest desire to develop an all manufacturing business, and that there is a good future for it.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, April 12.—The royal commission probing soldiers' pensions, troubles, etc., yesterday at Osgoode Hall discussed with the D.S.C.R. officials the dental treatment of veterans and the recompense given them because of their dental troubles.

Major B. Wemp put forward the handicapped and problem cases. He suggested the view that action by the state, through committee in urban centres, appears to be the only solution. He suggests that all manufacturers, civil service and general employers of labor, be "persuaded" to engage a certain percentage of disabled men. He said that several firms in Toronto are already carrying out this idea, and that action at Ottawa might go a long way towards helping other firms do likewise.

Mayor Wenige had very little to say about the fire department at last night's session of the finance committee. His worship seemed quite content to sit on the bank and watch developments, interjecting brief comment now and again.

The committee promptly recommended that tenders be called for the purchase of two light trucks, already provided in the estimates, after which Ald. John Colbert explained that he had a question to ask the fire chief.

"How about holidays for the firemen?" he queried.
"They are supposed to be from April 1 until Oct. 31," replied the chief.
"All are entitled to 14 days," said Ald. Colbert. "Did you have a committee come to see you about this matter recently?"

"Yes," replied the chief, "and I came to the mayor about the question."
Not Running Department.
"What did you tell the committee?" asked Ald. Colbert. "Did you tell them that you were not running the department or had not been running it for some years?"

"No, I did not," replied the chief.
"I would certainly like to know who is running the department then," persisted Ald. Colbert.
"I should say that the chief would be a fool to tell anyone that," ventured Ald. John Greer.

"That's what I would say," agreed Ald. Colbert. "I was indeed surprised when I was informed that you told that to the committee."
"I told them I would see the mayor," reiterated the chief.

"We have civic holidays under advisement," explained the mayor.
"That has nothing to do with the firemen," persisted Ald. Colbert. "The firemen are entitled to their holidays under the bylaw. I don't see why it is considered necessary to go near the mayor or the chairman of the committee."

Everything Changed.
"Everything has been all changed since the bylaw was passed," explained the chief.

Mayor Wenige agreed with Chief Aitken. There was no platoon system in vogue in those days, he reminded Ald. Colbert was of the opinion that there would be no holidays for the firemen if they allowed this question to drift. His worship pointed out that holidays would elusion with other unfinished clauses of his inaugural address.

Ald. Burdick stated that there were a number of items yet left in that document, and he could furnish the mayor with them if he chose. He had them safely in his pocket.

Although the council had inspected the city fire halls during the afternoon—the long-heralded investigation—no report was submitted. All present appeared reluctant to discuss the issue, and the conversation drifted easily into other channels. Ald.
Burke again called attention to the street railway service for the Hamilton road—or rather the alleged lack of accommodation for that district.

"I move that we purchase two motor buses for service on the Hamilton road," he said.

Ald. Greer and Ald. Burdick both maintained that this resolution would be useless, as they would have to go to the legislature for permission to compete with the railway company.

Their remarks will be through their
the wholesale drygoods trade of Cana-
awaiting samples from which to
place orders for fall delivery.
