A survey for a wagon road around the farther side of the lake will be made immediately, as it is the intention of the railway company to have a suitable road ready for vehicular traffic before construction work is commenced at the Cameron lake section of the E. & N. extension. The present highway will be spoiled by the railway building.

The Provincial Government has decided to lease a certain amount of the waterfront that it owns at Prince Rupert, for the purpose of mapping out those portions which, under this head, C. D. Rand, the Government agent, is at present in the northern townsite. The property will be leased on a graduated scale, and no restrictions will be placed on the purposes for which the land may be used. This decision of the Government will throw open a large portion of the most desirable waterfront in Prince Rupert to industrial and shipping enterprises.

Quoth the "Alberni Pioneer News": "While walking on the Sprout Lake road last Monday, in company with his niece, Miss Helena Harrison, of Toronto, Rev. T. S. Big Deal for Spot Cash

What is probably the largest "spot cash" land deal that has taken place in years in the Provincial Interior has just been consummated, 2,000 acres of land on the shores of Whatisham lake passing from the ownership of F. L. Hammond to that of J. H. Hirsch of Nelson, and P. Grimm and S. F. Morse, of Billings, Mont. The price was $45,000 and was fully paid at the consummation of the deal.

Gold Dredging in Kootenays

The gold dredge at Goldhill, Lardo river, owned by a Philadelphia company, is at last launched and ready for business. It is two years since this dredge was constructed, and repeated delays have occurred in putting it in commission, chiefly due to the unsettled condition of the money market. The experiment will be watched with keen interest, as this will be the first attempt at gold dredging in the Kootenays.

Hop Pest No Longer Annoys

Reports from the Chilliwack valley are that there are no hop flea beetles this year. Last summer this destructive pest did $100,000 damage to the hops in the Chilliwack valley and at Agassiz, and every effort was made to exterminate them, but unsuccessfully. What man's ingenuity failed to accomplish, Nature herself has done. This year the pests are so scarce that Mr. Parker, who came from Berkeley, California, Agricultural college to study the insect, has been unable to secure specimens to experiment with.

Bloodless Eviction of Japanese

Without riot or collision, the Japanese residents of Queen Charlotte city have been induced to go by the white residents, who compensated them fairly for their abandoned boarding house and other enterprises. An English syndicate negotiating for the purchase of the well-known copper gold mine at Ikeda Bay, owned by the Japanese firm of Awaya, Ikeda & Co. has secured a two months' option, which will expire on September 15 next. The consideration is understood to be in the vicinity of $200,000. The property is one of the best known on Queen Charlotte Islands. During four years operation 35,000 tons of copper ore has been shipped to smelter.

Golden Zone Shooting Serious

The condition of M. Sedich, the miner who was shot recently at the Golden Zone mine, has turned out much more serious than it first appears. After several consultations, Dr. McEwen and Dr. Williams decided amputation above the knee to be imperative, the bullet having shattered upon the bone in hundreds of minute particles penetrating almost every part of the leg and so seriously interrupting circulation that decay of the limb appeared unavoidable. The patient would not, however, consent to amputation, and another feature which possibly reconciled the doctors to the alternative of permitting matters to take their course was the patient's exceedingly uncertain heart action. When put under an anæsthetic to have the bullet removed, Sedich almost succumbed.

Chinese Hold-up Man

Joe Jim Choy, a Chinaman, captured on Pender street Vancouver, Saturday night, following a desperate chase in which detectives engaged him, was committed for trial by Magistrate Williams yesterday, following a preliminary hearing. Choy was charged with attempting robbery. Allan Goodfellow was walking home about 11:15 Saturday night, when he was accosted by a Chinaman, who told him he wanted to gamble. Goodfellow said he was inquisitive enough to follow the Chinaman into an alleyway off Pender street, near Westminster avenue, and when the darkness of the alley enveloped him was set upon by Choy, who pulled a knife and cut the neck. Choy put his hand in Goodfellow's pocket, the latter testified, but couldn't get his hand out against the time he was closed over a handful of bills. Goodfellow clung desperately to his assailant, all the while shouting for help, and the police at the top of his voice. Finally the Chinaman who is a strong, tall man, broke away and ran towards the heart of Chinatown, where he was pursued by a crowd of whites who continued to call for the police. By the time Detectives Scott and McDonald had reached the Chinaman, he was gone. The detectives soon overhauled him and took him to jail.

Ladymith's Peculiar Laws

Referring to the peculiar law case recently dismissed on a technicality by His Honor Judge Harrison, in which the corporation was sued for wages by Mrs. Hutchison, a smallpox nurse, the "Chronicle" says: "Although a smallpox nurse, she held that the case could not proceed under the summons, the plaintiff's claim is in no way prejudiced by the fact that she is a smallpox nurse."

time Mr. English had another hired helper by the name of Armstrong, the man who claims to have been held up on the Cornwall road two days after the murder, presumably by the third bandit who was let out of the boat near the Bonaparte at the old mill. It seems the murderer must have someone to confide in and taking Armstrong into his confidence he told the story of the tragedy and his wanderings since his escape. According to the murderer's story, when they pulled their boat into shore at the bridge, the gun that Decker carried was not observed by Decker was partly concealed by the bushes along the river. He also claims that Decker fired first as the dead bandit carried his revolver under a coat thrown over his arm, and that the first shot which struck Decker in the side was caused by the revolver going off as the bandit was falling. After killing Decker the murderer took to the first bench above the town and worked westward getting as far as Spuzzan by the following day. From there he trailed to Spences Bridge and tells of many thrilling escapes from the Indian trackers, at one time having to wade along the Thompson River to throw his pursuers off the scent. Arriving at Spences Bridge five days after the killing, he worked around there for a few days, before going to English's ranch. From the description given by Armstrong, the murderer is a man about five feet seven in height of French Canadian extraction, stockily built and clean shaven. He was wearing a dark coat, a light shirt, and a dark tie. He was also wearing a dark hat and a dark coat. He was also wearing a dark hat and a dark coat.

Rich Finds Near Aldermere

Full confirmation of the report of rich lead and copper finds near Aldermere, at the junction of the Bulkley and Telqua Valleys, is given by Charles E. Law, who has just returned from a month's trip to the north country. Mr. Law has been engaged in opening up a silver and lead property, adjoining the claims of Mr. James Cronin, of Spokane, one of the directors of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Trail. Most important discoveries have been made of high-grade lead ores, stretching from Hazelton on the Skeena, to Aldermere, 50 miles along the G. T. P. survey line. Paralleling these lead veins and four miles away in a copper belt is a very high-grade of copper. The lead veins show a vein which is known as strong secondary enrichments. The lead-ore averages higher in silver than any yet found in British Columbia, returning about 200 ounces of silver to the ton of lead-ore. All the veins run to the north, from two to four feet in depth, of clean shipping ore. The property, in which Mr. Law is himself interested, consists of a large tract of land, of seven feet wide, of which about four feet is of clean ore, and the rest of high-grade concentrating ore. A force of twelve men is now engaged in sinking shafts and it is hoped that by autumn conditions there will be an indication as to the value of the property. A large company to develop the property as a mine. In adjoining claims, tetrahedron, or grey copper, has been found, which will run 750 ounces in silver and 36 per cent. copper. These are about as good as any other finds in the north country. Mr. Law is optimistic over the general outlook for the Hazelton and Aldermere area, and expects to see a big boom in the north country. The resources of the Bulkley Valley, and the finest of agricultural land, justly almost a part of the future one can imagine.
