The grand treasurer (Bro. W. Colville, Dressden,) reports the society to be in a flourishing condition financially, having a handsome surplus. The report deals lengthily on the present depression in trade, also that the public should be im-pressed with the fact that this society is not part and parcel of the orange lodge, but purely a Protestant Benevolent associ-ation.

ation. The matter of playing party tunes was disposed of by leaving it to the discretion of the private lodges. The correspondence committee submitted their report. Con-siderable discussion took place on the sev-eral clauses, especially the clause relating to the doing away with party tunes at par-ades. The matter of newspapers was dis-cussed on the report presented by Bro. W. Colville, and referred to a committee to take action upon and present their decision at an early stage. Hamilton was selected as the next place of meeting by an unani-mous vote.
