

Fact, Fancy, Fun

CUSTOMER :—"I say, Mr. Barber, I don't hear your scissors at work on my hair." Barber :—"There is very little hair on your head, sir." Customer :—"That makes no difference. I pay my money, and I want you to rattle the scissors on the bald place just the same as if it had hair on it."

MR. JOHN A. CAMPBELL, St. Sixte, Que., writes :—"My wife was unwell for four years from irregular periods, brought about by a severe cold. She tried many remedies, but without relief. Seeing Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised, I procured two boxes and the result is a permanent cure. They are the best medicine in the world for the diseases you represent them for." Sold by all dealers.

"GRANNIE," said little Maggie, as she counted over a lot of hazel nuts in her pinafore, which somebody had given her, "can ye eat nuts?" "No, pet," said the old lady, "I've nae teeth." "Then," said Maggie, emptying her pinafore into grannie's lap, "I'll gie ye these tae mind till I come back."

THE LAST DIVISION.—Teacher :—"If your mother should wish to give each one an equal amount of meat, and there should be eight in the family, how many pieces would she cut?" Class :—"Eight."

Teacher :—"Correct. Now each piece would be one-eighth of the whole; remember that." Class :—"Yes'm."

Teacher :—"Suppose each piece were cut again, what would result?"

Smart Boy :—"Sixteenths."

Teacher :—"Correct. And if cut again?"

Boy :—"Thirty-secondths."

Teacher :—"Correct. Now suppose we should cut each of the thirty-two pieces again, what would result?"

Little Girl :—"Hash."—Street & Smith's Good News.

"KINDER UNFORTUNATE."—A gentleman travelling through the mountainous and thinly settled districts of North Carolina was overtaken by a severe storm. As he was on horseback, and therefore quite unprotected, he beheld with delight a log cabin in the distance, and speedily betook himself thither. The old farmer greeted him with true Southern hospitality, and he soon found himself seated at the dinner-table beside "the old woman," as his host designated his wife, while one by one a seemingly endless file of daughters entered the room. Turning to the farmer, he mildly observed, "You have a fine family of daughters, sir."

"Well," said the old man mournfully, "we've been kinder unfortunate with our darters. The chimney fell in and killed all but nine on 'em."

HAVE YOU READ IT?

The Anecdotal Life of Sir John Macdonald.

BY E. B. HIGGAR.

THE Montreal Star, in the course of a column and a half article says the book abounds in "interesting and amusing pen pictures of Canada's greatest statesman".

The Toronto Mail says "it will occupy a distinctive place in the literature relating to the late Premier", that it contains "an extraordinarily large collection of anecdotes", that the parts dealing with his early life "are particularly interesting and valuable", and that "most interesting of all is a fine portrait of his mother now re-produced for the first time".

The Toronto Globe (the great Reform journal) says that "whatever biographies of Sir John may appear it is not likely that any of them will quite fill the place of this", that the result of the author's work is "a bright and readable book", and that "the tone of the work is fair and candid".

The Toronto Telegram says that "from start to finish there is not a slow moment in the book".

Such are a few opinions of leading journals.
