

Markets.Toronto Markets.*"CANADA FARMER" Office, Jan. 15, 1866.

The weather during the past two weeks has been very cold, the temperature continuing for several days a few degrees below zero. It is too early in the year to record any very marked features in the markets. Uninterrupted dullness still characterizes all departments of trade, and until the advent of sleighing it is not expected that any great improvement will take place.

1866.THE CANADA FARMER:*A FORTNIGHTLY JOURNAL*OF*AGRICULTURE, HORTICULTURE, & RURAL AFFAIRS.

This Journal is about to enter, under the most favourable auspices, on the third year of its existence. It has amply fulfilled the hopes of its well-wishers. It is now universally acknowledged to rank among the best agricultural papers of America, and to supply just what was needed for the improvement and development of Canadian agriculture.

During the past year, a department for Burrton GIMMINGS has been introduced. Special attention has also been given to Entomology, a subject of great importance, in view of the losses occasioned of late by the farmer's insect enemies. These features will be continued, and in addition to them the following new ones:—1. A series of articles on the philosophy of farming, to be entitled: FAMILIAR TALKS ON THE PRINCIPLES OF AGRICULTURE. These will explain in a simple and practical manner the why and the wherefore of agricultural operations, and will form, when completed, a valuable farmer's manual. 2. A natural history department, consisting of descriptions of Canadian animals, birds, reptiles, and fishes. Life-like illustrations will accompany these articles. 3. Under the head of The Horseman, a series of articles on farm and garden management, with a special view of interest to the boys and girls in moral pursuits. 4. In compliance with the wish of a large number of subscribers, a table of contents will be furnished in each issue.

A very large sum has been spent on illustrations—larger than in any other similar publication—and this feature of the paper has been exceedingly attractive to all classes. Efforts will be made, during the coming year, to secure as much variety as possible in this department, and no expense will be spared where the labour of the artist and engraver can aid in making clearly agricultural or horticultural subjects.

The CANADA FARMER remains under the same editorial management as heretofore, and the utmost pains will be taken to add to its corps of contributors and correspondents.
