GOD IS MY LIGHT.

God is my Light! Never my soul despair
In hours of thy distress!
The sun withdraws, and earth is dark and drear:
My light will never cease.
On days of joy with splendour beaming,
Through nights of grief, its rays are gleaming.
God is my Light!

God is my Trust! My soul be not afraid!
Thy Helper will abide:
"I'll not forsake thee!" He has kindly said,
He's ever at thy side.
In feeble age will yet stand by thee,
No real good will He deny thee:
God is my Trust!

God is my Shield! of me He takes the care
As none beside could do;
He guards my head, He watches every hair,
All dangers bring me through:
While thousands to vain helpers calling,
On right and left are near me falling,
He is my Shield!

God's my Reward! Well pleased I onward go
The path that He hath shown:
It has no trials, but my God will know,
When He awards my crown.
I'll gladly strive, the fight sustaining,
Until in death the victory gaining,
God's my Reward!

RELIGIOUS REVIVAL IN BRITAIN.

The religious interest in Edinburgh and other places, both in Scotland and in England, does not decline. The movement has been deepening and extending. While the meetings have been continued in Edinburgh with the happiest results, the movement has extended to other places, especially Berwick-on-Tweed, Glasgow, Dundee and other places. Messrs. Moody and Sankey had proceeded to Dundee, where they were to labour for some weeks. Their services are eagerly invited by many in different parts of the country. They are expected to labour during the summer months in London. It is stated that they have engagements extending to next autumn. In Glasgow large meetings have been addressed by Mr. and Mrs. Poole,
