Mrs. Frank Hodgins gave a very suc-cessful shower yesterday afternoon at her house in Rosedale for the sailors of the royal navy, the hostess wearing black satin with corsage and tunic of black lace over white satin and a corsage hou-quet of pink roses. Miss Lucille Hodgins looked pretty in black satin and chiffon, the little bolero coat having a pale pink lining. She was assisted in the tea room by Miss Trixie Hoskins, Miss Dorothy Sinclair, Miss Alleen Robertson and the young daughters of Mrs. Hodgins and Mrs. Lockhart, the polished table being centred with Cluny lace and five cut glass vases of small yellow chrysan-themums. During the afternoon Mrs. Morris (Hamilton) sang Marie Tempest's recruiting song, and Mrs. Mackelcan sang a new song, which was very enthusiasti-cally received. The words are by Dr. Drummond, and the music by Jessie Alexander Roberts, and Mrs. H. M. Blight, the name of it being "British to the Core." The library was heaped with the most beautiful woollen things for the sallors in the North Sea, which included 166 articles and $44.50 in money. A few of those present were: Mrs.

It is to be remembered that Russian music owes much to and largely arises dut the a capella singing of the churches. The first movement of the quartet re-clis this fact, with its chorale quality, its sonority, its cantabile, its massive structure and tonal effects, which sug-stat the widely-modifying influence of ecclesiastical music. Mysterious, surprising and never disappointing, Hardeen, the "Handcuff King," performs the most wonderful feats this week at Shea's Hippodrome, when he frees himself in full view of the audience from all manner of man-acles, straps and straight-jackets. The spectators witness the imprisoning of the performer, the tying of seemingly unbreakable bonds and the apparently utter inability of the performer to loosen his bonds or help himself in any way. Yet, he succeeds in escap-ing from the shackles and standing before the onlookers a free man. Another achievement is to escape from a tank, which looks like a large milk can. The lid is clapped on with many locks, but in a few seconds Hardeen is on the outside, dripping, but free. It is easy to believe that this extraordinary performer has baffied mother of F. T. W.
