

PREFACE

Having for many years contributed verse to the Canadian magazines and general press, and, as well, written much that was never published, I deemed it best to issue a volume containing as many as were suitable to that purpose. The risk of losing either the scrap album collection made from time to time, and the manuscript collection, prompted me to permanently preserve them by publishing the present volume.

W. A. S.