

Parkdale

1900 bays nest semi-detached brick home; eight rooms; all conveniences; terms $300 cash and half-yearly instalments $50 each. H. H. WILLIAMS, 10 Victoria-street.

THURSDAY, MAY 31st

Same All Over the Country.

TORONTO'S JUBILEE LASTED THROUGH THE NIGHT

Everybody Took a Holiday in Honor of the British Victories in South Africa—Unprecedented Scenes All Day Long.

The Parade in the Evening Was of a Military Character—Bands Were Galore and the Crowds Shouted Themselves Hoarse in Their Enthusiasm.

The Mayor never did a wiser act than to proclaim yesterday a public holiday. The little taste the people had of a real good old time on Wednesday night only whetted their appetite for a continuance of the jubilation. Toronto was determined to give the good time to a finish, even as the Empire has seen Kruger's mishap. In reality the demonstration never ceased from the time it began on Wednesday night, and the holiday gave the people a fair chance of it. The good time merely dwindled away a little in the early hours of Thursday morning to be resumed with renewed vigor later in the day.

Nothing Like it on Record.

Everybody was out, what a time they had. Even the oldest inhabitant could remember nothing to approach it. The crowd of Wednesday night was nothing to it, for thousands who could not be present then, were out yesterday. Never were the decorations around town so numerous or so lavish. But then everybody had to take up space telling about them. They were really fine, and showed that the citizens had spared no pains to do honor to the occasion.

In Full Swing at Noon.

About noon the festivities got into full swing again, but with redoubled force. Each man came with a new pair of lungs, and about every third man had a horn, a trumpet or whistle, while megaphones, whistles and horns were to be seen and heard being used to good time along.

An Impressive Procession.

In a multitude such as thronged the streets yesterday, when interesting and amusing events followed each other so closely as to be almost continuous, it is hard to pick out one which is more impressive than another, but one of the most inspiring occurred on the corner of King and Yonge-streets at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The biggest crowd of two or three thousand persons, headed by the band of the 48th Highlanders, reached the corner about the same time that another crowd, headed by an effigy of Kruger, arrived, and here a stand was made. Led by the band, the mighty throng which filled the square, sang "God Save the Queen" and other patriotic songs with a fervor rarely heard. Traffic was absolutely at a standstill for a quarter of an hour. Everybody made some kind of a noise.

Some Jubilation Notes.

Many incidents tend to give an idea of what Toronto's celebration was like. One of the funniest sights of the day was the figure of a large boar dressed in slouch hat and flowing whiskers and seated on a drum, which he beat with a mallet. This caricature of our late friend, ex-President Kruger, was greeted with roars of laughter all along the route. Another highly amusing sight was a good life-size effigy of Paul, which was suspended on a long-stemmed trolley, and about Agnes-street. Every time a south-bound car came along it gave his ribs a violent shake, smashing his hat over his eyes and generally adding to his disheveled appearance.

The Street Parade.

In the evening was of a military character. With many bands in line. And the procession! Was there such a one ever held in Canada before? Order? Yes, there was no pretence made at any such thing. There was just a mad, surging crowd of thousands, delirious with joy and yelling like maniacs. They simply could give vent to all their feelings. It has been truly said that given a fine day and plenty of fire-crackers all that is necessary to celebrate an event is secured. But add to this enthusiasm that has lain dormant; that has been smouldering in the heart of every true, loyal Torontonian and has never been given an opportunity of showing itself, and try if you can to imagine what last night's parade was like. It is beyond imagination, it cannot be described, it overwhelmed one and its intensity showed what a good loyal British nature is capable of.

A Military Parade.

Also there were scores of processions, the largest one started from the Armouries and paraded through the principal downtown streets. It was the Grenadier Guard drill night and that regiment, headed by their band, led the thousands. They marched with their rifles and wore almost the only caps that kept order. Following in their wake came a soft phalanx of citizens of all classes and dressed in very imaginable kind of costume, waving flags, shouting and yelling like Indians in a war dance.

Veterans Were Out.

Next came all the veterans, proudly strutting along and keeping step to their own band. They, too, added their quota to the jubilation and a good big quota at that, too.

The Queen City Piccolo Band, their leader on a grey charger, came next and behind them also another crowd of yelling young and old, carriages and women

The Toronto World

EIGHT PAGES—FRIDAY MORNING JUNE 1 1900—EIGHT PAGES

THIS DESCRIBES THE WAY TORONTO FELT

BRITISH FLAG HAS BEEN RAISED OVER JOHANNESBURG, LORD ROBERTS' VICTORIES

No News Has Been Received From Pretoria Since Wednesday, and Possibly the Wires Have Been Cut—No Doubt in London That Roberts Has Pretoria.

Casualties in French's and Hamilton's Forces Said to Have Been Trifling—All the Rolling Stock in Johannesburg Has Been Imprisoned—Further Resistance Futile.

Body Guard Band.

The Governor-General's Body Guard's Band, consisting of another contingent, singing with all their might, "We'll Hang Paul Kruger on a Sour Apple Tree." On their heels came the Salvation Army Band and behind them again were the Royal Foresters' Bugle Band and drill corps, the 48th Highlanders' pipers, the D.O.R. bands and several other organizations with bands of more or less—rather less—musical ability.

A Loss Bands in the Tail.

The signals at the tail of the parade there were a dozen or so bands, consisting of brass drums, tin horns and cow bells, each making beating, blowing, yelling and jumping around as if his very existence depended upon the amount of noise he could create.

An Incident of the Parade.

Among the hundred and one amusing incidents that occurred during the parade one in particular is worth relating. It was an Irishman with a rich brogue and he was just in that condition when a man who had been not a enemy in the world. This old fellow had his temper ruffled, however, he had been grossly injured on an account of his whiskers. His brogue appendage resembled very closely Don Paul's, and a hilarious young man, who had been in the "Boer" line, took upon him to take up space telling about them. They were really fine, and showed that the citizens had spared no pains to do honor to the occasion.

In Full Swing at Noon.

About noon the festivities got into full swing again, but with redoubled force. Each man came with a new pair of lungs, and about every third man had a horn, a trumpet or whistle, while megaphones, whistles and horns were to be seen and heard being used to good time along.

An Impressive Procession.

In a multitude such as thronged the streets yesterday, when interesting and amusing events followed each other so closely as to be almost continuous, it is hard to pick out one which is more impressive than another, but one of the most inspiring occurred on the corner of King and Yonge-streets at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The biggest crowd of two or three thousand persons, headed by the band of the 48th Highlanders, reached the corner about the same time that another crowd, headed by an effigy of Kruger, arrived, and here a stand was made. Led by the band, the mighty throng which filled the square, sang "God Save the Queen" and other patriotic songs with a fervor rarely heard. Traffic was absolutely at a standstill for a quarter of an hour. Everybody made some kind of a noise.

Some Jubilation Notes.

Many incidents tend to give an idea of what Toronto's celebration was like. One of the funniest sights of the day was the figure of a large boar dressed in slouch hat and flowing whiskers and seated on a drum, which he beat with a mallet. This caricature of our late friend, ex-President Kruger, was greeted with roars of laughter all along the route. Another highly amusing sight was a good life-size effigy of Paul, which was suspended on a long-stemmed trolley, and about Agnes-street. Every time a south-bound car came along it gave his ribs a violent shake, smashing his hat over his eyes and generally adding to his disheveled appearance.

The Street Parade.

In the evening was of a military character. With many bands in line. And the procession! Was there such a one ever held in Canada before? Order? Yes, there was no pretence made at any such thing. There was just a mad, surging crowd of thousands, delirious with joy and yelling like maniacs. They simply could give vent to all their feelings. It has been truly said that given a fine day and plenty of fire-crackers all that is necessary to celebrate an event is secured. But add to this enthusiasm that has lain dormant; that has been smouldering in the heart of every true, loyal Torontonian and has never been given an opportunity of showing itself, and try if you can to imagine what last night's parade was like. It is beyond imagination, it cannot be described, it overwhelmed one and its intensity showed what a good loyal British nature is capable of.

A Military Parade.

Also there were scores of processions, the largest one started from the Armouries and paraded through the principal downtown streets. It was the Grenadier Guard drill night and that regiment, headed by their band, led the thousands. They marched with their rifles and wore almost the only caps that kept order. Following in their wake came a soft phalanx of citizens of all classes and dressed in very imaginable kind of costume, waving flags, shouting and yelling like Indians in a war dance.

Veterans Were Out.

Next came all the veterans, proudly strutting along and keeping step to their own band. They, too, added their quota to the jubilation and a good big quota at that, too.

The Queen City Piccolo Band, their leader on a grey charger, came next and behind them also another crowd of yelling young and old, carriages and women

General Rundle's Casualties When He Defeated the Boer Command at Senekal.

Cape Town, May 31.—General Rundle has defeated a Boer command at Senekal. His casualties were 45 killed and many wounded.

Forty-Five Were Killed.

General Rundle's Casualties When He Defeated the Boer Command at Senekal. His casualties were 45 killed and many wounded.

JOHANNESBURG IS OCCUPIED.

The British flag now flies over the Government buildings in the Rand Mining Town.

HUNDREDS OF BOERS CAPTURED.

Sought Refuge in a Mine, Where the British Grenadiers Have Taken Them All.

THE BOERS RETIRED.

The press despatches from the headquarters of Lord Roberts give no estimate as to the number of Boers who were fighting Gen. French and Gen. Ian Hamilton Monday and Tuesday, but they all agree that the Boers retired and that the British casualties were slight.

WAS KRUGER CAPTURED?

An Unconfirmed Story Published in The Westminster Gazette That He Has Been Caught.

TO PREVENT DISTURBANCE.

Lord Roberts Agreed to Delay His Entry Into Johannesburg.

THE MINES ARE UNINJURED.

Nine Engines, a Coal Train and a Large Amount of Rolling Stock Was Captured.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAM.

Celebrate All-Day. Armouries, parade of 48th Highlanders, 8 p.m.

WAS LEYDS SAT UPON?

Consignments of Gold From Never-Attended Since Peace Delegates Came.

Headache Cured in a Few Minutes.

Bigman's Stimulating Headache Powders

GARDEN HOSE All Kinds and Qualities. THE BUTTA PERCHA & RUBBER MFG. CO. OF TORONTO, LIMITED.

SIR HIBBERT MAKES CHARGES

Says Major Walsh Prostituted His Official Position to Exploit Valuable Mineral Claims on Dominion Creek.

Quotes the Case of Carbeno of Brockville and Moves a Vote of Censure on the Government, Which, However, Is Promptly Voted Down.

Ottawa, May 31.—(Special)—To-day's session was devoted to an expose of Yukon corruption by Sir Hibbert Tupper. His famous speech of a year ago on this subject went into the matter exhaustively.

STABBING AFFRAY IN EAST END

John Gordon Said to Have Been Slashed by James Johnson With a Knife.

In a stabbing affray which occurred early this morning at the corner of Queen and Power-streets John Gordon, a colored man, who lives at 481 East Front-street, received two deep gashes in the head and back, inflicted, it is said by a knife in the hands of James Johnson, 214 Sachse-street.

EVERYBODY SUDDENLY ILL.

Sheriff of St. Louis Has a Heap of Trouble in Getting Social Conventions to Keep Order.

CELEBRATORS OF PRETORIA'S FALL MARCHED INTO THE HALL AND WERE DISORDERLY.

Street railway traffic on the West Queen-street line was delayed some little time early this morning by the presence of a large bonfire in the roadway between the tracks at the foot of Dundas-street.

FIGHT AT POLITICAL MEETING.

Celebrators of Pretoria's Fall Marched into the Hall and Were Disorderly.

WAS FOUND IN LEADER-LANE DYING AND TAKEN TO THE HOSPITAL.

Where He Succumbed Without Making His Identity Known—Description of the Body.

A deep mystery that is puzzling the brains of the police was originated yesterday afternoon when a young man was found lying in Leader Lane in a semi-conscious condition.

FAIR WEATHER.

Metropolitan Office Toronto, May 31.—(8 p.m.)—Heavy thunderstorms have occurred today in Northwestern Ontario, but in the Dominion generally the weather has been fine.

PROBABILITIES.

Lower Lakes—Southeasterly and easterly winds; fair and a little cooler; thunderstorms in a few localities.

Grand & Toy's Snaps.

We are selling the Shannon File complete with 250 files, call on our numbers, Grand & Toy, Stationers and Printers, Wellington and Jordan-streets, Toronto.

Deaths.

LOBE—On May 31, at 824 Church-street, James Lobe, in his 68th year. Funeral private.

Deaths.

LOBE—On May 31, at 824 Church-street, James Lobe, in his 68th year. Funeral private.

Deaths.

LOBE—On May 31, at 824 Church-street, James Lobe, in his 68th year. Funeral private.

Deaths.

LOBE—On May 31, at 824 Church-street, James Lobe, in his 68th year. Funeral private.