was given precedence as the envoy of the French people.

The procession started from the hall at 9.30 o'clock, just as the first minute gun boomed. The president, followed by the funeral of Queen Victoria nine years ago was closely followed.

The procession followed through Parliament-street and Whitehall. The public buildings were heavily draped with black and purple throughout the route. Leaving the district of official dominion, the cortege passed through the Horse Guards parade and thence along the Mall.

Stands Filled With Spectators.

From the Mall the procession passed Marlborough House, emerging in Piccadilly and along that thoroughfare to the corner, where it entered the park and passed along the popular drive to Marble Arch. Emerging from the park, the procession followed Edgware-road to Oxford and Cambridge terraces, and turned up these wide thoroughfares on either side of which, throughout the length of half a mile, were unbroken stretches of temporarily erected stands, filled to their capacity with black garbed humanity.

By arrangement between the Westminster city council and the Paddington borough council, the official signs of mourning along the route were uniform. Venetian masts with laurel wreaths at their tops had been erected at intervals.

The route was lined with thousands of troops, beaming which were massed countless thousands of people in deep black on the pavements below, and the house fronts above, with the balconies, windows and roofs crowded.

Military Represented.

Every branch of the defensive forces of the empire was represented in the long column which preceded the gun carriage. An officer of the headquarters staff, mounted, headed the procession with the bands of the territorial and colonial came just behind the bands, then other volunteer corps, the honorable artillery company, officers of the Indian Regiments in their picturesque uniforms and turbans followed by detachments of Infantry, Footguards, Royal Engineers, Garrison, Field and Horse Artillery, Cavalry of the Line and regiments of Household Cavalry followed.

The Royal Marine Infantry and Artillery and naval representatives came next, with the military attaches of the foreign embassies, the officers of the headquarters staff of the army, the field marshal and massed bands playing solemn funeral marches.

The great officers of the Royal House of England, headed by the Earl Marshal, the Duke of Norfolk, were followed by a non-commissioned officer of the Cavalry bearing the royal standard.

In Army Uniforms.

The King rode between the German Emperor and the Duke of Connaught, all in brilliant British army uniforms, and next in line was the group of rulers, heirs to the throne, princes of great states and special ambassadors.

The members of the royal houses on horseback followed in this order: First, the Duke of Connaught, King of Greece, Emperor of Denmark, King Haakon of Norway, King George of Greece, King Alfonso of Spain; third, King Ferdinand of Bulgaria; fourth, King Christian of Denmark; fifth, Prince Sadanaru Fushimi of Japan; Grand Duke Michael of Russia; the Duke of Aosta, representing Italy; the Duke of Sparta, who is Crown Prince of Greece, and Crown Prince Ferdinand of Roumania; sixth, Prince Henry of Russia, representing the German navy; Prince Charles of Sweden, Prince Henry of Holland, the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, Crown Prince of Montenegro; Crown Prince Alexander of Serbia; seventh, Prince Mohammed Ali, Said Pasha Zulfikar, Watsen Pasha of Egypt; the Sultan of Zanzibar.

Then followed the princely and ducal representatives of a dozen German states, the members of the English royal family, the Duke of Devonshire, and Prince Botsford of Siam.

In the Carriages.

The mounted group was followed by 12 state carriages. The first was occupied by the Queen Mother, Alexandra, the Russian Dowager, Empress Maria, the Princess Royal and the Princess Victoria. The second carriage contained Queen Mary of Great Britain, Queen Maud of Norway, the Duke of Cornwall, heir to the British throne, and Prince George. The next four carriages carried royal ladies and ladies-in-waiting. The seventh carriage carried the Duke of Devonshire and his suite. The eighth carriage was shared by special American Ambassador Theodore Roosevelt, M. Pichon, French foreign minister, and Saad Khan Monir, Sultan of Persia. The ninth carriage was occupied by Lord Strathcona, lord high commissioner for Canada, Sir George Reid and William Jones. The two carriages following carried persons in waiting.

How CANADA OBSERVED THE DAY OF MOURNING

Special Services Held and Military and Civilian Demonstrations in All Cities and Towns.

From coast to coast yesterday, in every city, town and village, in all probability, were memorial services and ceremonies conducted.

Where there are militia corps, the regulation proclamations were read and honored, and where there are batteries of artillery, the royal salute at sunset, with the other ceremonies as carried out in Queen's Park, were duly performed. From 8 till 8.05 a.m., every railway train in Canada stopped short.

OTTAWA, May 20.—Upwards of twenty thousand spectators and troops attended the memorial service on Parliament Hill at noon today, including Earl Grey and a party from Government House.

The great officers of the cabinet, all the members of the board of trade, both public schools boards and other boards and organizations.

The troops formed three sides of a big square on the lawn in front of the house of commons and the Government House party and the members of the cabinet, all in full robes of state.

At 1.30 p.m., every street car stopped, while every factory and store that had been busy before ceased for three minutes. On Parliament Hill the troops reversed their arms and massed bands rendered Chopin's funeral march. The roofs of the adjoining eastern and western block were draped with black.

There were memorial services in several of the churches, the different denominations generally uniting. At the Dominion Methodist Church Rev. Dr. Henderson said: "The shadow that falls on this service is shared by 400,000,000 human beings. Never has his (the late King's) presence more needed at the helm of state than now. For months the good old ship, Britannia, has been shooting the rapids of political commotion and constitutional change."

"On one side King Edward was as autocratic as any of his royal ancestors, and on the other he was as democratic in his sentiments and sympathies as any president who ever presided over the destinies of the American republic."

The memorial service in the Roman Catholic Basilica was imposing. Mgr. Reilly officiated, and a sermon was preached in English by Archbishop Desjardins and one in French by Father Alexis. The latter paid high tribute to King Edward, stating that he had treated his Catholic subjects better than many a Catholic monarch treated theirs.

Military Services at Montreal.

MONTREAL, May 20.—The observance of memorial day was general in this city. The garrison, assembling at the Champ de Mars at 10 a.m., divided into three brigades and attended special church services.

The first brigade, of first brigade, went to Christ Church Cathedral and St. James the Apostle Church. The second brigade of Roman Catholics went to St. James' Cathedral, where Mgr. Burches conducted high requiem mass. These were the 68th Regiment Carabiniers, Mount Royal, and 86th Regiment, four companies, and Mount St. Louis Cadets, under Lieut.-Col. A. E. Labelle. The third brigade, composed of Presbyterians, went to St. Paul's and St. Andrew's churches. These were the Montreal Heavy Brigade Canadian Garrison Artillery and the 13th Regiment Royal Highlanders and High-Lander Cadets.

Canon Ellegood, rector of St. James the Apostle Church, who preached to the 3rd Regiment Victoria Rifles and Boy Scouts, has lived under the reign of five British sovereigns. He acted as chaplain when King Edward was Prince of Wales opened Victoria Bridge.

There were union services of Protestant denominations in St. James' Methodist Church, St. Matthew's Presbyterian, and St. Andrew's, Westminster. While most of the churches held services at 10.30 o'clock, a few held a short service at 8 a.m., being nearer the exact time when the funeral service was taking place.

After the church services the troops paraded to the campus at McGill University, where official military ceremonies were conducted.

To-night a Masonic memorial service was held in Windsor Hotel.

HALIFAX.—The Bishop of Nova Scotia preached at St. Paul's, where the lieutenant-governor, deputy mayor and aldermen, and the members of the military attended. In the Catholic Cathedral and churches services consisted of mass with a sermon and prayer for the late King. Business was entirely suspended.

Beginning at 4.30 three hours were consumed in carrying out the solemn funeral march of the late King. The combined local militia corps and permanent men of the garrison, mustering 6000 strong, were some 30,000 citizens. Three military bands rendered "The Dead March in Saul," and Chopin's funeral march alternately during the firing of the 68 minute guns.

The singing was led by the combined choirs of the city, accompanied by the band. The demonstration was the largest of its kind ever seen in the Maritime Provinces.

ST. CATHARINES.—Ten thousand people, including the St. Catharines garrison, consisting of the 7th Field Battery, 18th Regiment, 2nd Dragoons and the 1st Battalion of the 1st Regiment, the College Institute, and the Niagara District Veterans, took part in a public memorial service in Montebello Park. Just as proceedings began, rain began to fall and continued all afternoon, but few left the park till the conclusion of the program.

Rev. Robert Kerr had charge, and Rev. J. H. Ratcliffe read prayers. Rev. Dr. Crothers delivered an address. The military was under the command of Lieut.-Col. J. C. Campbell.

WINNIPEG.—From every town and village in the West come reports of memorial services. At Regina, Calgary and Winnipeg salutes were fired at sunset.

In Winnipeg the garrison paraded at 2 o'clock and marched to the Horse Show Building. The fraternal societies also entered in regalia, and the general public, some 15,000 people in all, stood, being unable to get in the grounds in which the leading divines of all the Protestant denominations took part followed. The Archbishop of Rupert's Land participated. Shortly after 5 o'clock the garrison paraded at Fort Osborne for the last salute.

VICTORIA, B.C.—Special memorial services were held in all city churches, Lieut.-Governor Patterson, Premier McBride and members of the government, army, navy and other officials, attending at Christ Church Cathedral. A long procession of societies and other bodies took place in the afternoon, and a public memorial service was held in front of the government buildings.

HAMILTON.—Most of the shops were closed; memorial services were held in the churches, and the garrison attended service at the public grounds, where Rev. Dr. Drummond spoke.

LONDON.—Many of the retail stores closed for the day, and hotels, factories and other places closed down for several hours. At St. Paul's Anglican Cathedral a memorial service was conducted by the Bishop of Huron, attended by the city council, militia officers and representatives of many public bodies. The local regiments paraded and a minute gun salute was fired. Thousands of school children attended services in various Protestant churches.

Do You Have Headache

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills was a sample package handed me. They relieved the pain so promptly that I have never given them to many friends when they had headache and they never failed to relieve them. I have suffered with neuralgia in my head, and the first one I took relieved me. They have cured me of neuralgia. I would not be without them."
