CRIB NO. 2 IS IN ITS PLACE

Contractor Clark Again Makes Good—A Good Night's Work

After days and nights of weary waiting Contractor Clark has at last got the second crib placed and ballasted and he can now go ahead with the work of building the superstructure for this portion of the wharf.

No. 2 crib was successfully moved over to the site about one o'clock this morning and at five o'clock it was resting on the bottom. A close watch was kept until about 6.30 o'clock when Director Cudde, who had stayed at the scene of operations all night, went around the structure and pronounced it first-rate. Some 300 or 400 cubic yards of stone were then dumped in it to keep it down. More stone will be added until a sufficient quantity to hold it secure has been obtained. Mr. Clark and his men were on the ground all night, and though there was much hard work to be done, Mr. Clark feels amply repaid now that the crib has been placed.

The operations were conducted along the same lines as in sinking the first crib. Mr. Clark superintending the work from the window of his office overlooking the wharf site. There was no excitement and everything was done coolly and methodically.

Mr. Clark said this morning that he had already commenced to build the superstructure on No. 1 crib and now that No. 2 was placed the work would be rushed right along.

Attention will now be centered for a time on No. 3 site and it is hoped that this crib also can be placed inside of a couple of weeks so that the work of rebuilding Union street can be commenced as soon as possible.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

A man named Connell is said to have had an almost miraculous escape from being cut to pieces by a shunter running to Fairville on Thursday night. An eye witness told the Times that on the night in question he was passing along Mill street about 11.40 o'clock and had just been across the depot when the shunter was steaming towards Fairville. A couple of men were also waiting for the engine to go by, when they saw a form lying across the track, the feet being on one rail and the chest on the other. They rushed out and had just been under second later in dragging the man off the track the wheels of the engine would have passed over him.

The man who escaped death is said to be named Connell. He was seen on Mill street just prior to the occurrence, in a very drunken condition, and it is presumed that while attempting to cross the track he tripped on the rail and fell in the position from which he was rescued.

Special attention is directed to the advertisement of Messrs Floods, 31-33 King street, next M. R. A. Ltd. This firm carry one of the largest and choicest stocks of solid silver, cut glass, bronze, and art goods in eastern Canada, and they make a specialty of novelties for the holidays. They are now advertising a big discount sale to make room for new goods daily arriving. The discounts include about everything that this company sell, and we would advise our readers to not only read their advertisement but to call and see what is being offered. It is now a good time to buy one's Christmas Gifts when a saving of from 33 1/3 to 50 per cent can be made, and it is now only a few weeks before the holidays will be upon us. See page 3.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

The question is often asked: "Is there any difference between business colleges?" It can be said without fear of contradiction that St. John possesses a business school which is distinctly different in all its branches from any other school. The Currie Business University, Ltd., is entirely independent of publishing houses. No text books are used in any of its departments. Its shorthand system has been compiled by about stenographers with their expert suggestions embodied. Its business systems are taken direct from the best offices in the different cities, all the matter pertaining thereto, being compiled exclusively at the school under the supervision of the principal, a man of twenty years' experience and the president, a barrister of thirty years' practice. Hence the reason why this school enjoys the largest attendance in eastern Canada and fills more positions in one year than the combined colleges of the province.
