BRITAIN WILL SHARE IN STEPS LEADING TO DISARMAMENT

Lord Cecil Will Be Ready to Urge Definite Plan
at Geneva

LONDON, April 1.—The British Government will participate wholeheartedly in any international steps leading to general measures of disarmament and Lord Cecil will go to Geneva prepared to urge some definite scheme.

This was made clear in the House of Commons today by Geoffrey Lockhart-Lampson, parliamentary Under Secretary for the Home Office.

"What we have to do, if we can, is to exercise the demon of international suspicion," said Mr. Lockhart-Lampson. "Lord Cecil will certainly go to Geneva prepared to organize some definite scheme of military disarmament."

Pointing out that the British navy, army and air force had been reduced, he declared vulnerable trade routes must be protected and nothing must be done to endanger them, but the Government was very anxious to co-operate in any general scheme for the limitation of armaments and their forces.

"I can assure the House," he said, "that the Government will not be behindhand in the international efforts now taking place to secure the peace of the world."

The British case at Geneva, he added, would be in the capable hands of Lord Cecil, and he anticipated that something substantial would emerge from the sittings of the preparatory disarmament commission, which he termed "one more milestone on the long difficult road to universal peace."

Dr. M. Case Meets Old Friends On Trip

Dr. Mayes Case has returned to the city after six weeks absence in Montreal, Chicago and New York.

While in Chicago Dr. Case attended the clinics in the Presbyterian Cook County and Wesley Hospitals and witnessed many surgical demonstrations by the professors of Chicago University.

In New York Dr. Case met his old desk mate at the Gagetown Grammar School in the late 80's, W. C. Reed. Mr. Reed has been associated with James D. Leary for many years and is considered one of the soundest business and financial men in New York.

Mr. Reed is also identified with social reforms and was president of the Jamaica Hospital board for five years. In spite of business demands, Mr. Reed is most hospitable to his old friends at his splendid home and is ever ready to show them the sights of New York.

Dr. Case is at his office again.

SNOWFALL THIS YEAR, 118 INCHES

The three and one-tenth inches of snow that came in the storm of yesterday which surprised the citizens, succeeded in bringing this season's snowfall to about 118 inches, or just two inches short of 40 feet.

Mr. Hutchinson of the Meteorological Observatory in Douglas avenue, said last night. So heavy a snowfall is very unusual, although three years ago similarly abnormal conditions prevailed.

The wind was from the east and northeast and attained a velocity of 16 miles at one time. By night time it had slackened to about 10 miles an hour but still held the northeast quarter.

Temperatures yesterday varied from 32 degrees to 30 degrees.

While Saint John did not experience a very high wind, Point Lepreau was favored with a gale that was blowing at the rate of 32 miles an hour in the afternoon, but had slackened off at night.

Mr. Hutchinson's records showed that March, 1926, had been four degrees colder than the average month of March. The highest temperature was 14.5 degrees on March 25 and the lowest was two below zero on March 15. The mean temperature was 24.1 degrees.

The rainfall of the month amounted to 2.20 inches and the snowfall to 26.5, making a total precipitation of 4.85 inches, which was about normal.

NEW MONKEY PLAY SCORES SUCCESS ON BUDAPEST STAGE

Is Burlesque Suggesting Man's Inferiority to These Animals

YOUTH WOULD WED HEIRESS OF TRIBE

Show Ends With Defeat of Human Family by Jungle
Folk

BUDAPEST, April 2.—A new monkey play has been produced in Budapest with great success. The play is a burlesque ironically suggesting the inferiority of human beings to monkeys in their natural state and is by Ferenc Hertzog, the foremost novelist and playwright of Hungary, who recently celebrated his fortieth year of authorship.

The scene of the play is a jungle swept by a wind of modernism which causes the monkeys to cut off their tails and assume human habits and speech. Miss Rakitakijulahi, the monkey heroine, has even transformed herself into the semblance of a human being, with the aid of Parisian cosmetics, and goes off to the sports club at the edge of the jungle to play tennis. There she meets Tommy, a smart young human, who is so enamoured with the thought of her dot (the jungle) that he proposes to her in spite of her somewhat and occasional inarticulate screams.

PREFERS TO BE MONKEY

An evening party is arranged to take place in the home of Tommy's mother. The leading members of the monkey tribe are invited to assist at the betrothal ceremony and the signing over of the jungle, which Tommy proposes to turn into a limited company. Miss Rakitakijulahi and the monkeys arrive by the window and Tommy's relations only overcome their disgust by thinking of the fortune which is to be theirs. But Vauno, the monkey chief (and he is only monkey who retained his tail) refuses to sign the document. He declares that the monkeys do not desire the society of human beings, and that to be a monkey is preferable at all times.

Miss Rakitakijulahi is forbidden to have any communication with human beings and the monkeys are on their guard. Tommy decides to bring an action against them for breach of contract; he is determined to have the jungle if not the bride. He goes with his relations and the consul to pay a call on the tribe. But the monkeys are monkeys again; they have stuck on their discarded tails, and receive Tommy and Co. on all fours, uttering gibberish and piercing screams. So Tommy's action is of no avail, and the jungle is freed of human beings. Miss Rakitakijulahi marries a monkey lover and lives happily ever after, howling at the full moon.
