Semi-Ready Summer Sale of Suits and Pants

Golden Savings for Men Who Buy Just Before the Dominion Day and the Warm Weather.

Besides the suits for small men and youths in sizes from 32-inch breast to 36-inch there are bargains for big men and average physique types in the Semi-ready store at King and Germain streets.

"This sale affords a golden saving opportunity for men who buy just before the holiday of the year," said Mr. Fraser, who outlined his reductions as follows: $20 suits for small men and youths who are wearing long trousers will be sold for $14.75.

$22.50 label-in-the-pocket suits will be sold for $15.00.

$28 suits reduced to $20.

$30 suits reduced to $24.

$32 suits reduced to $26.

$34 suits reduced to $28.

$36 suits reduced to $30.

$40 suits reduced to $32.

$42 suits reduced to $34.

$44 suits reduced to $36.

$46 suits reduced to $38.

$48 suits reduced to $40.

"People no longer express surprise at Mr. Fraser's 'for one must pay that price for the pure worsted and fine woolsens. Indeed we have suits as high as $60 and $80, and if the British government takes over the whole Australian wool product, as the cable despatches indicate, I look for the finest cloths to go to $75 for a suit. We will have overcoats at that price for next fall."

"Our company buys direct from the wool exchange in Bradford, and our wholesale price is sufficiently $2 to $3 a suit less than other makers by reason of this and other economies we practice. We have done all we can to keep prices within reason, but one cannot combat the fact that cloth which formerly cost us $2.50 a yard now costs $3 to $8 per yard."

"This sale coming just before mid-summer is in line with our desire to give the best service we know how to our customers," concluded Mr. Fraser.

PASTOR TO JAIL FOR SELLING LIQUOR

New York, June 22.—Rev. Thomas B. McConnell, pastor of the African Methodist Episcopal Church of Roslyn, L. I., pleaded guilty to selling liquor to soldiers and was sentenced to one day in jail by Judge Chittfield in the United States District Court in Brooklyn. Two military policemen testified they met McConnell in front of his parsonage, asked him to get them liquor, and gave him $2. McConnell said he was afraid to refuse because of reports of hold-ups by soldiers.

Speech by Premier Borden in London

London, June 22.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—Sir Robert Borden, replied to the toast "Our cabinet colleagues from the dominions" at the parliamentary supper in connection with presentation of the Black Rod to the Canadian parliament. The Canadian premier said that the extreme peril had indeed been passed, thanks to the splendid work of the navy, but what had the dominions done for the supreme importance of sea power? The whole empire's spirit was as unflinching as ever, and it would be so till the end. They fully realized how the empire's power has been thrown into the struggle.

Sir Robert proceeded to dwell at length on what Canada had done, and assured his hearers that the relief would be continued until the issue was decided. Canada, roughly, had furnished 425,000 men in the war, and he paid tribute to the Canadian people for the manner in which they had accepted compulsory service, which had been strongly supported throughout the country. He also mentioned that Canadian industries had produced $1,000,000,000 worth of munitions in payment for which the Canadian exchequer had furnished $460,000,000 and Canadian banks another $100,000,000.

Praises U. S. Co-operation.

The Canadian premier appreciatively referred to the manner in which the United States had worked in sympathy and coordination with Canada in legislative enactments. He dealt with the importance of the very great step in the exceptional development of the empire by the summoning of overseas premiers to the imperial war cabinet, where they met on terms of equality, as the prime ministers of self-governing nations. They were all optimists regarding the war, because it was undertaken in a cause which could not be permanently defeated, though it might be temporarily delayed, and optimistic about the future, because it was a just war, and it would be idle to pretend that serious mistakes had not been made, and that more foolish still to dwell upon them merely for the sake of pointing them out. Against these mistakes was set the wonderful and mighty military effort as had ever been undertaken by any non-military nation. Let them not be turned from their purpose by unnecessary adherence to any tradition or personal considerations.

The death knell of German militarism had been sounded when the United States entered the war, and he believed that before peace was signed, the military forces of that mighty republic of the west would prove to be the most formidable Germany has ever met, and that militarism would go down eventually before the onset of democracy.

In the hearts of all Britishers was the profound conviction that the faith was strong enough to endure and surmount any reverse that he or could come, the faith that this world-wide British commonwealth of free nations, founded upon the aspirations, efforts, and sacrifices of thousands of years, was not going to be destroyed or dominated by the brutal force of the Hun.

DECIDE TO PRAY FOR HUNS ON JUNE 30

General Assembly is at First Shocked by the Very Suggestion

It is Pro-Humanity—Support Anglican Proposal to Have Preceding Wednesday for Preparatory Prayer

(Toronto Star.)

London, June 18.—Taking the stand that prayer for the enemy is a Christian obligation and not open to the suspicion of being pro-German in essence, the Presbyterian General Assembly went on record today to include the Hun in the scope of the supplications to be offered on Sunday, June 30, the day appointed as a national time for intercession. The assembly further announced its opinion that the appointment by the secretary of state of a Sabbath day is not a sufficient measure inasmuch as Sunday is a day of prayer in the normal calendar. It was accordingly determined to support the Anglican proposal that the preceding Wednesday be devoted to preparatory prayers.

The question of prayer for the Germans was brought up by Rev. J. A. Taylor of Breside. "This suggestion," he said, with earnestness, "is not pro-German; it is pro-humanity. Its content is that of the altar of Calvary; it is a touch of the blood of Christ. I feel that we should include in our prayers at all times all of our enemies, both at home and abroad. I have felt strongly on this since the commencement of the war."

Making It Safe.

The suggestion came obviously as somewhat of a shock to some of the commissioners, but the spirit of Mr. Taylor's explanation commended itself. Rev. Dr. Campbell of Montreal, the senior clerk of the assembly, stated that since the beginning of the war he has always felt constrained when he led in public prayer to offer a supplication for the Germans, but as a necessary safeguard to his patriotism he is accustomed to stipulate in his intercessory utterances in behalf of the Hun "that he be brought to a proper frame of mind."

"That makes it safe," commented Dr. Nelson of Hamilton. "It concludes provision for his surrender."

Concluding.

Bobby—Brandys, why do you look so sad?

Grandpa—Ah, my lad, I was just thinking, here I am seventy years of age and I have done nothing that is likely to make posterity remember me—nothing.

Bobby—Oh, well, don't worry, grandpa. Maybe you'll still have a chance to live in history as somebody's grandfather.

A WESTERN VIEW

(Winnipeg Tribune.)

While the session of parliament just closed has to its credit much progressive legislation, it must be admitted that many members of the house, especially the new members from the west, have gone home somewhat puzzled and disappointed. The last night of the session, when parliament voted hundreds of items aggregating more than one hundred million dollars without discussion, consideration, or debate, has naturally challenged public attention. But it was symptomatic of a deep-seated evil which seems inseparable from party government. We have a Unionist party in power, but the party system and the party whip were never more in evidence.

The whole parliamentary machine is organized to make the government all-powerful and the private member almost helpless. The private member is simply a study of the rules of the House. He comes down to Ottawa, when he is first elected, full of enthusiasm and determined to press forward many reforms. As a rule he is caught in the network of rules and procedure, and finds himself powerless to battle against the well-organized party machine of the government.

At this present session the western members were all resolved to stand loyally by the government in the winning of the war, and to subordinate their own private, personal views on domestic questions.

This being true, they did feel restless over some causticities by the government in the way of party discipline. They felt humiliated over the way they had to swallow themselves on the party question, and they swallowed the Yukon Election Bill with a very face. In the latter case the Liberal Unionist members from the west who had voted in committee to refer the controversy to the courts had to repudiate the report of the committee. They can justify this sort of thing for the time being by the necessity of upholding a whole-war government, but none the less they feel that they should have more freedom as to questions entirely unconnected with the war.

The man they seem to admire is Hon. W. S. Fielding. Mr. Fielding is a pretty head-levelled man and generally votes with the government. He left the chamber in disgust the other evening when opposition members were rather coarsely talking Hon. Mr. Rowell, yet he opposed the government on the Yukon question and the Yukon election, and also voted for Sir Wilfrid Laurier's resolution to repeal the War Times Election Act. He is a Liberal Unionist, but his delicacies to appeal to many of the members from the west who would like to be independent, but find themselves more or less involved in the party machine of a party government.

It is proposed that the U. S. government take control of all wireless installations.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Military Service Act, 1917

Men 19 and 20 Years of Age Harvest Leave

Leave of Absence on Ground of Extreme Hardship Procedure to Obtain Leave of Absence

Men Nineteen and Twenty Years of Age.

It has come to the attention of the Government that there is a widespread impression that young men of nineteen years, and those who became twenty since October 18, 1917, as well as those who may become nineteen from time to time and who have been or will be called upon to register under the Military Service Act, are to be immediately called to the colours.

This impression is quite incorrect. No date has yet been fixed for calling upon such men to so report for duty, nor has the question been brought before the Cabinet for decision. In view of the need of labour on the farm, it is most unlikely that consideration will be given to the matter until after the harvest is over, although of course the Government's action must be determined primarily by the military situation.

There is no further obligation incumbent upon young men of the ages above mentioned who have registered or who do so hereafter, until they receive notice from the Registrars.

Harvest Leave.

Some enquiries have been received as to the possibility of granting harvest leave to such troops as may be in the country at that time. No definite assurance can be given on this point as advantage must be taken of ships as they become available. On the other hand, harvest leave will be given if at all possible.

Leave of Absence on Grounds of Extreme Hardship.

It is desired that the Regulations respecting leave of absence in cases of hardship should be widely known and fully understood. Such leave will be granted in two cases:— (a) where extreme hardship arises by reason of the fact that the man concerned is either the only son capable of earning a livelihood, of a father killed or disabled on service or presently in service overseas, or in training for such service, or under treatment after returning from overseas; or the only remaining of two or more brothers capable of earning a livelihood (the other brother or brothers having been killed or disabled on service, or being presently in service overseas, or in training for overseas or under treatment after his or their return from overseas); brothers married before 4th August, 1914, living in separate establishments and having a child or children not to be counted, in determining the fact that the man is the "only" remaining son or brother; where extreme hardship arises by reason of exceptional circumstances such as the fact that the man concerned is the sole support of a widowed mother, an invalid father or other helpless dependents.

It is to be noted that in all these cases the governing factor is not hardship, loss or suffering to the individual concerned, but to others, that is, members of his family or those depending on him.

Procedure to obtain leave of absence.

A simple system for dealing with these cases has been adopted. Forms of application have been supplied to every Depot Battalion and an officer of each battalion has been detailed whose duty it is to give them immediate attention. The man concerned should on reporting to his unit state that he desires to apply for leave of absence on one or more of the grounds mentioned and his application form will then be filled out and forwarded to Militia Headquarters, Ottawa. In the meantime, if the case appears meritorious, the man will be given provisional leave of absence for thirty days so that he may return home and continue his civil occupation while his case is being finally disposed of.

PLAYGROUNDS IN HALIFAX

(Halifax Echo.)

J. D. O'Connor, president of the Halifax Supervised Playgrounds Commission gave an interesting address before the Women's Portnight Club yesterday, at their luncheon held at the Green Lantern, on the treatment of Playgrounds in other cities as well as Halifax. He referred to the fact that as far back as history could trace, the physical side had been developed by means of exercise and sport and pointed out how necessary it was to the health of a normal child. Mr. O'Connor told very clearly how the various play-grounds in the United States had been developed by means of exercise and sport and pointed out how necessary it was to the health of a normal child.
